Mental Health Vote Slated For Tomorrow

by SANDRA BROWNING

Voters in four townships will decide tomorrow whether they want to be taxed for mental health and mental retardation services.

Tomorrow's mental health referendum will ask voter approval of a mental health tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with officials estimating that the first year's tax will be about half that amount. If the maximum rate were levied, the resulting tax would be about $15 on a home with a market value of $30,000.

The polls in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The precincts are the same as for the last regular election in November.

If approved, the township's boards of auditors will be authorized to levy a tax and create a special mental health fund. The boards will be authorized to determine the exact amount of the tax each year, with the first mental health tax being added to property bills in the spring of next year.

If voters approve the tax, the townships are authorized by state law to levy and collect the tax to provide local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

BEHIND THE REQUEST for the referendum is a citizens committee which is in the process of forming the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. This council includes representatives from the four townships, general hospitals, schools for handicapped children, mental health clinics, public schools and other agencies which serve residents in the four township area.

If the referendum is approved, one goal of the council will be to present a consolidated request to each township board. In this manner, township boards could deal with one group, the council, for money from the mental health fund.

As planned, the consolidated budget would include the requests for mental health fund money from the 12 separate agencies in the council. With this plan, the council hopes to be able to eliminate duplication of services and encourage the development of new services not now provided.

ACCORDING TO the council, some of the services which are not presently readily available include treatment and follow-up for alcohol and drug addiction, partial hospitalization for those not needing full-time hospitalization, intensive treatment, post-hospital rehabilitation and residential care for severely retarded and emotionally disturbed youth.

The council will also be forming a comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services. This comprehensive plan would attempt to provide a range of mental health and mental retardation services, from youth to old age. The plan would also stress that these services be provided by local agencies as opposed to remote, impersonal facilities, according to council officials.

Elk Grove Debaters Win 4th In Tourney

The Elk Grove School debate teams traveled to Rockford East High School last week for an invitational tournament.

The novice team of Pat Curtis, Lynn Fitzgerald, Kathy McCoy and Sue Diamond, with a record of 5 wins and 3 losses won fourth place. The team of Sue Rakowski, Kathy Burke, Dean Runzel and Neil Nishihira had 4 wins and 4 losses.

A pre-sectional practice tournament held at Elk Grove High School Feb. 20 consisted of nine teams. The varsity team of Mike Brannen and Kurt Hunkler won first place with a record of 3 wins and no losses.

10 Clergymen Support Vote

Ten members of the clergy in Elk Grove Village have endorsed tomorrow's mental health referendum.

A statement issued by them said: "Each one of us is actively involved in one or more of the institutions which will benefit from the funds to be received. This is a natural outgrowth of the Christian's concern for those who have specific needs which they cannot meet themselves.

"We feel that the referendum is a reasonable request to the citizens in the four townships involved and represents a valid way to be responsible for the physical, emotional, and social welfare of our neighbors."

Clergymen who issued the statement are: E. Maynard Beal, Prince of Peace United Methodist Church; Rev. David Crail, Elk Grove Wesleyan Church; Rev. James Shea, St. Julian Eymard Catholic Church; Rev. Schuyler Butler, Elk Grove Baptist Church; Rev. Ben Walker, First Baptist Church; Rev. Roger Pittelko, Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit; Rev. David Peterson, Christus Victor Lutheran Church; Rev. Henry Warkentin, Elk Grove United Presbyterian Church; Rev. George Rassas and Rev. J. Ward Morrison, Queen of the Rosary Catholic Church.

Junior High Hosts Music Contest

Almost 1,000 students will visit Thomas Lively Junior High School in Elk Grove Village from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. tomorrow to compete in the Northern Division District 7 Illinois Grade School Music Association solo and ensemble contest.

The school is one of three sites where the students will participate in the district contest. The others are in Shabona and Westmont.

Sixteen elementary and junior high schools in northern Illinois will be at Lively. Those from this area include Lively, Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School and Dempster Junior High School, both in Mount Prospect, and Iroquois Junior High School in Des Plaines.

The program at Lively is sponsored by the Lively Music Parents Association, according to John Hedburg, band director and contest chairman.

Cuban Refugees

At Last! Aid For Exiled Family

A sick and frightened Cuban refugee family in Chicago will receive aid next week from Elk Grove High School students.

The students began the campaign four months ago to help relocate the family exiled in Madrid, Spain. Delays in the United States Labor Department have kept the family from arriving, and more delays are expected to last one to three months.

Meanwhile the students have $500 and carloads of donated furniture and household items they want to give to someone. They found a family that arrived in the United States two weeks ago.

Mrs. Ann Garcia, Spanish instructor who started the project, said the family was sickened from their vaccination shots and is frightened because it has no friends or relatives in this area.

The family is Lucas Milan, 39; Marcia, 28; and three children, Marcia, 7; David, 5; and Sara, 16 months.

It has been in quarantine since its arrival in Chicago, but must now seek housing, food, and a job for the father. The students have decided to help.

They can give away much of what they have and still be able to provide the necessities for the original family when it arrives, said Ann Garcia, Spanish instructor who began the project.

She said many of the students who worked to raise the money are seniors and may be gone before the arrival of the family from Madrid, Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Angel Ulloa Torres and two children.

"They wanted to do something now," she said.

When Mrs. Garcia heard of the family in Chicago the group immediately approved contributing $250 and some of the furniture. The new family will use it to help pay for food and housing at least until the father can find a job.

The family has apparently found an apartment they can afford in Chicago, according to Mrs. Garcia, but clothing and food for small children are still needed. The Madrid family has two teenagers, and nothing donated for them would fit the smaller children.

Several students, Mrs. Garcia, and Charles Aldrich, advisor, are expected to visit the family next Wednesday with some of their donations.

Three Visit Church

Three students from Concordia Teachers College in River Forest will visit the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit, 606 Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village, from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday for an open house.

The students, who are studying to be teachers in Lutheran elementary schools, will discuss their work in the church, college life, and mission requirements, and will be available to answer questions. The public is invited, said Robert W. Smith, director of the church's Christian Education program.

Jones Blasts Annex Move

LeRoy Jones yesterday vowed he would oppose annexation of the Forest View subdivision to Elk Grove Village.

The subdivision is surrounded by the village and bounded by Ridge and Woodview avenues, Laurel Street, and Landmeier Road. It has some 127 homes.

Jones said Wesley Kentzel, president of the Forest View Homeowners Association, has "misrepresented" the residents of the subdivision seeking their signatures on a petition for pre-annexation.

"There were so many petitions going around the people didn't know what they signed," said Jones, of 539 Woodview Ave. He said it was a "very hush hush deal."

KENTZEL SAID THERE was "nothing hidden" and that a petition for annexation of the 90-acre subdivision was filed last Friday with the Cook County Circuit Court Clerk "based on the pre-annexation agreement the people knew about."

He charged that Jones confuses the people by lying to them and that because of his opposition to annexation several years ago it will now cost homeowners $2,000 each more to annex than it would have then when the association and the village were close to agreement on annexation.

He explained that the village is now requiring improvements in the subdivision that it did not require in the agreement several years ago.

Kentzel, a leading proponent of annexation, said a date for a public hearing on the pre-annexation agreement with the village was to have been set this week by Circuit Court Judge Harry G. Comerford.

THE HEARING IS expected to be within 30 days of the date of filing last Friday. An announcement was expected late yesterday or today.

"If we do everything the village asked it will cost about $3,000 a home," said Kentzel of the pre-annexation agreement with the village. "If we do what we want it will cost $1,700 a piece."

The village is requiring that improvements be made in the subdivision to bring it into conformity with the rest of the community. Improvements include water hydrants and mains, widened streets, street lights, curbs, gutters, street lights, and sidewalks.

Kentzel has asked the village to leave out some of the improvements. He said he hopes to have a hearing with village officials on this matter.

"WE DON'T THINK sidewalks, storm sewers, and gutters are necessary," he said.

Jones said an engineering survey estimating the cost of the improvements at $446,719 was "low" and that annexation will cost homeowners from $7,000 to $9,000 over a 10-year period.

He said he didn't believe Kentzel had approval of 50 per cent of the voters in the subdivision and that he already had 154 signatures opposing annexation.

Jones said if Kentzel was a "true representative of the people" he would have notified them of the filing by calling an assembly.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Gov. Ogilvie announced a $1.1 billion welfare budget for fiscal 1972, including an expected $65 million in federal money.

The Illinois House created a special ethics commission to evaluate the various Paul Powell investigations, and suggest ethics legislation.

A bill was introduced to the General Assembly that would put the regulation and licensing of cable television under the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Weather officials warned that a potential flood situation still exists in the Rock River Basin. The flood waters in the river were receding, but shifting ice jams upstream created the new threat.

State Treasurer Alan Dixon said he'd do away with "the old guessing game" of whether there is a surplus in the state treasury. He promised a monthly computerized report for every Illinois agency.

The Nation

President Nixon — in his State of the world message — said Russia's huge increase in strategic military power could tempt the Soviets into bolder challenges in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Wholesale prices showed their highest jump in 15 years in January and February, largely because of an increase in livestock prices. Higher meat prices are expected as a result.

The War

South Vietnam President Thieu was quoted as saying it's only a matter of time until his country's forces launch a drive against North Vietnam. Hanoi's delegate at the Paris peace talks repeated the charge that the United States is planning such an invasion. Communist troops followed heavily armed tanks through American rocket and artillery fire to overrun one South Vietnamese position in Laos, and threaten another.

U.S. battle deaths in the Indochina fighting were reported at 59 for the past week, the highest since last Nov. 21.

The Weather

Relief came to the blizzard-swept central plains, with springlike temperatures spreading up from the Southwest to cover most of the nation. Only in Maine were temperatures frigid, with the nation's low — 10 below zero — at Houlton. With the general thaw came threats of floods over a wide portion of the nation's midsection.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	59	39
Houston	52	29
Los Angeles	72	51
Miami Beach	77	74
Minneapolis	35	18
New York	45	37
Phoenix	71	44
Seattle	47	37

The Market

Trading slowed at the finish, but the third straight day of higher prices held on the Big Board. At the close, 16,200,000 shares had been traded, and the Dow-Jones Industrial barometer showed a rise of 6.36. Prices held steady on the American Exchange in moderate turnover, with the Amex index up 0.62.

High School Reunion Set

If you graduated from Parker High School in Chicago in 1941, your classmates are looking for you.

The Parker class will meet again at their 30th year reunion May 1 at the Oak Lawn Holiday Inn. Mrs. Audrey (Jatko) Bisehoff of Chicago, chairman of the reunion committee, said that arrangements for the evening of cocktails, dinner and dancing are almost complete, but mailing lists are as much as five years out of date.

February and June graduates, their husbands, wives and all Parker friends are invited to attend the reunion. The committee is mailing preliminary information to the many 1941 graduates but are afraid that some class members may not be included because they have moved or were not found in time for the last reunion.

Mrs. Mickey (Sarra) Dorgan urged all call members to call her at 423-8834, or Mrs. Edith (Restagno) Bjes at 425-0837, to confirm their address or add names and current addresses of class members.

The class of 1941 celebrated its 25th reunion at a dinner at the Dorchester Club in April, 1966. Some former class members traveled from California and Texas to attend the event.

Village Warns Library Board

The Elk Grove Village Board voted Tuesday to send a letter to the library board notifying it of a state statute requiring it to have its mortgages approved by the village.

The reason behind the village board's action is that the library obtained a $150,000 mortgage with the Bank of Elk Grove without the approval of the village board, according to George Coney, village finance director and treasurer.

Richard Dowdle, attorney for the library, said Coney, also serves as treasurer for the library and knew of the mortgage.

He said it was the library's third mortgage since it has been in existence and that to his knowledge the village had not approved any of them but had always been aware of them.

He added that the Chicago Title and Trust Co. guaranteed the mortgage.

TOM JACHIMIEC

The recent fortyish temperatures that have many of us hoping for an early spring also brings an abundance of chuckholes and potholes in the streets. Even the newest roads have difficulty standing up to the pounding they take as the frost comes out of the ground.

Two of the best examples of road deterioration are Arlington Heights Road and Biesterfeld Road maintained by Cook County. They need repairs so often the county cannot keep up with them.

They are not the only roads in need of surgery. If you know of a particularly bad chuckhole call for help to the following: Elk Grove Village Hall, 439-3900; or Cook County Highway Department, 827-1164. Let them know where the trouble spot is.

BEFORE THE spring election campaigns begin in earnest it might be a good idea to remind the candidates to take down any posters they may put up once the elections are over. It's a bad habit of both winners and losers to keep posters up long after elections.

Take a drive through the area and you can see remnants of past elections as well as past fund-raising events still clinging to utility poles.

St. Alexis Hospital will not use the Four Seasons Nursing Home, across the street from the hospital, as a nursing home according to Robin Leach, hospital public relations director. She reported receiving many telephone calls following the announcement that the hospital purchased the building and will use it as an annex. It seems people thought the hospital would operate the annex as a home for the elderly.

According to Robin, the 200-bed facility will be used for hospital programs in graduated care, psychiatric care, and rehabilitative care.

ELK GROVE Village squad cars are now posted with the police emergency telephone number. It's part of an effort to let the public know where it can get help in an emergency.

Uncle Gene Morse, 73, of 148 Essex Rd., claims to be a descendant of Samuel F. B. Morse, the inventor of the Morse Code. Morse is reported to be the most popular person in the Essex Road neighborhood because of his fondness for kids.

And to Tom Rettenbacher of the building department who inquired recently, Elk Grove, Calif., was not affected by the earthquake that rocked the state recently. The town of some 14,000 is near Sacramento in northern California.

Three From Area In LaGrange Church Recital

Three Elk Grove Village singers, Quin Heath, Ken Horn, and Alex LaMont, will present a recital of choral and organ music at 4 p.m. Sunday at the Emmanuel Episcopal Church, LaGrange.

The concert is one of a series being presented by the All Saints Parish Choir of Western Springs and the West Suburban Boys Choir, both directed by Earl Miller, music instructor at Salt Creek School.

Quin, who will be featured in "O for the Wings of a Dove" by Mendelssohn, and Ken, who will sing, "Come My Way, My Truth, My Life," are both fifth grade students at Salt Creek School. They are members of the Salt Creek Choristers and the Salt Creek Chamber Choir.

A member of the Elk Grove Festival Chorus, LaMont has also appeared as soloist with the Salt Creek Choirs. He will be featured as a baritone soloist in "Easter" and "I Got Me Flowers."

Miller, who is directing Sunday's recital, is also music director of All Saints Parish Church, Western Springs and music director for children's choir at St. Procopius Community College Productions.

Sign Of Spring: Road Work Starts

A sure sign of spring other than yesterday's balmy spring temperatures in the mid-50s in Elk Grove Village is the sight of workers repairing the holes in Arlington Heights Road.

A crew from the Cook County Highway Department was out patching the potholes in the pavement, a common sight this time of year when the frost comes out of the ground.

The temperature was 56 at 2 p.m. yesterday at O'Hare International Airport, and the outlook was for more of the same today with some rain.

Just Politics

by Ed Murnane

An abbreviated work week, due to the Lincoln's Birthday recess, and continued debate over the Senate filibuster rule resulted in an uneventful week in the 92nd Congress last week.

The two houses returned on Wednesday and the House of Representatives recessed the following afternoon.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 17

—The Senate. Two treaties, one with Nicaragua and the other with Spain, were ratified easily with Stevenson joining the "yes" voters and Percy not voting.

The two senators also joined as cosponsors of a bill to accelerate the expansion of world trade.

—House of Representatives. The House met for only 36 minutes and took no major action, other than introduction of bills.

Crane and McClory were cosponsors of legislation that would allow suspension of U.S. trade and aid to countries which do not control exporting of narcotics into the United States.

The same pair of congressmen also cosponsored bills which would take steps toward creation of a volunteer armed service.

THURSDAY, FEB. 18

Thursday's report was unavailable. It will be published at a later date.

FRIDAY, FEB. 19

—The Senate. There was little action other than continued debate on the filibuster rule and introduction of bills. Percy and Stevenson were among the 20 senators calling for an end to the debate.

Percy was a cosponsor of an administration bill which would give the President additional time to present Congress with his plans for the reorganization of the executive branch of the government.

Last week's column omitted the report for Tuesday, Feb. 9. The only activity on that day involving local officials was the cosponsorship by Percy of the bill to implement the President's revenue sharing program.

From Forest Hospital

Afraid? Join The Crowd

Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, one of the foremost hospitals devoted to the care of the mentally ill. Forest Hospital is a fully-accredited 135-bed psychiatric hospital, widely known for its intensive programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education, and community service.

The "obsessive personality" is a type of behavior which characterizes all human beings.

According to Dr. Leon Salzman, director of psychoanalytic medicine at the University Medical School at Tulane University, it ranges from what we would call the "normal way" of functioning to the category of individual who cannot make up his mind.

The individual who procrastinates, is indecisive, unwilling to take risks, and is full of doubts and uncertainties typifies characteristic. He is attempting to make certain that life and its difficulties and dangers will engulf him. By insisting upon absolutes, he will not commit himself in any way because he may be wrong. He simply attempts to function in a way that will guarantee his living.

WHEN THIS person is compared to a compulsive drinker or a compulsive eater, a very interesting phenomenon is found. These compulsive ways of functioning are ways of avoiding the possibilities of facing and confronting human deficiencies. The alcoholic, then, is really someone who is forced to drink because of an unwillingness to comfort and deal with the usual anxieties and difficulties of living.

We have to get a profound understanding of the individual who will not accept the realities of life. Dr. Salzman feels that this has some relationship to a person's early experiences in being able to accept an uncertain world, with its uncertain skills and possibilities. If such an individual grows up in a family where he is expected to perform to perfection then there are the beginnings of what is called "compulsive behavior." Because it is impossible for this person to meet every situation realistically, he must use "obsessive devices" to give him the illusion of not being afraid.

ALL OF us are afraid of some things in life. The difference is how we deal with these fears. We all live in an uncertain world and cannot ever hope to meet all the challenges and all the difficulties which confront us, therefore, certain human limitations must be accepted.

One example is the "phobia." Here we have an individual who manages to handle difficulties through the avoidance techniques. Uncertain of how he might react in airplanes, he resolves this dilemma by never going into an airplane. This is successful in the one sense that he will never get upset, but he also will never be able to travel with speed and ease throughout the country.

Another example is the child who does not want to go to school. He is uncertain about whether he can handle the school situation as well as he can handle Mama at home. The child's way to avoid failure at handling the teacher, or getting into trouble, is simply not to go.

Involved with this whole obsessive personality structure is the individual's developing and building systems for himself to run away from that which appears to represent a potential danger. In certain ways this is useful, because we must face the fact that we are in danger all the time. Every time we cross the street, every time we breathe, every time we take a trip, there is that danger, but if we must live in this universe we have to face those dangers realistically.

Eva Jefferson Urges Joint Peace Treaty

by TOM WELLMAN

About half-way through her talk yesterday afternoon at Harper College, Eva Jefferson looked out at the 250 students, teachers and administrators and said she was "tired of hearing herself talk."

"I don't want to stand up here and bore you," the president of the student body at Northwestern University told the students. She said she wanted Harper students to talk to her, as well as talking to them.

At the beginning of her talk, she had said that "people who are about to change things have to get to the point where they don't need leaders."

Later, she said she felt like a "traveling freak," a person who may be regarded as a celebrity whom persons come to hear because she is regarded as a celebrity.

What Miss Jefferson ultimately wanted to talk about was a Joint Treaty of Peace which had been signed recently between the National Student Association (NSA) and a publisher in South Vietnam who wanted to encourage peace in Indochina.

SHE ENCOURAGED students to sign the treaty, which will be sent to Washington during a May war protest.

Miss Jefferson, a black woman who achieved considerable fame last May when she helped keep the peace during a student strike at Northwestern, said she was "disturbed" with American acceptance of the war.

She chided her audience for being inactive on the war issue and thus by default allowing the war to continue. She told her audience that "the war is not winding down," but that it is only becoming more mechanized.

Miss Jefferson also criticized what she called the Military's tendency to label all Vietnamese as "gooks." She added returning American soldiers were the persons who would "beat you to a pulp if you called a policeman a 'pig'."

SHE ALSO URGED her audience to become familiar with the facts in the trial of Angela Davis, a black woman who has been charged with conspiracy in the slaying of a California judge.

She asserted that the coming trial would be a "classical political trial" and she urged students at Harper to make themselves aware about repression of dissent in this country.

She began her loosely organized talk by briefly describing the growth of activism in the early 1960s, before speaking about the People's Peace Treaty. Harper's series of "Dialog '71" events will conclude today with a speech by U. S. Senator Birch Bayh, D-Indiana.

Mental Health Tax Vote: Some Say Yes, Some Say No

Voters will go to the polls between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. tomorrow at the regular precinct polling places in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships to vote on levying a mental health tax in the area.

The proposed tax rate is 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, and would be used to finance a "comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services throughout the four township area."

Officials estimate the first levy would be only half of the limit, and if approved the tax would first appear on property tax bills received in 1972.

Paper's Coverage Good, Editorial Disappointing

Naturally, I was disappointed in your editorial position with respect to the mental health referendum. Obviously, a newspaper has a right, even an obligation perhaps, to take a stand on public issues.

What disturbs me, however, is the consistent pattern of inaccuracies woven to support what is essentially an anti-township government position.

Having made a good case for the need of services and money, and expressed general approval of those agencies who are members of the Council, you proceed to criticize the Council for its omissions. You say "Missing are Little City... and the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged in Arlington Heights..."

To the best of my knowledge, these are fine institutions. I have been informed that Little City was not interested in participation. Further, it is in both service and fund raising not essentially a local service.

As to the Lutheran Home, the director, Paul Hauer, has authorized that his name be used to say that they consider themselves a home for the aged, not a mental health agency. They have two mentally retarded residents and they employ in their kitchen several individuals who are trained by Clearbrook. Mr. Hauer further stated he endorsed the referendum and urged its passage.

THE EDITORIAL goes on to criticize the absence on the Council of public and private schools and police department "which can also refer persons to outside agencies for psychological help." We feel that the schools are represented in so far as they deliver a service and should be involved in planning. As to the police, to include agencies which make referrals would include churches, private practicing physicians, and infirmities.

The most serious and misleading inaccuracy is the continued reference to "medical professionals" as dominating the council and its executive committee and "who, however well-intentioned, do not have experience in organizing a responsive, full-participation public agency." This is errant nonsense, and I might as well say so.

The twenty man Board of Directors contains one surgeon and one optometrist, both representing the townships, not agencies.

THE MEMBERSHIP is in fact a good cross section of the community, five women, two educators, two Protestant ministers and one Catholic priest, the remainder being executives in business or large institutions. Every one of the members has a record of community service.

Ignored is the fact that the by-laws specifically say that money must be spent according to a publicly established budget and in the last analysis the tax is levied by the elected Board of Auditors and no one else. This is strictly in compliance with the State Mental Health Act. Also ignored is the advisory participation of the state Mental Health Department.

Of course township government in this part of the state is controversial, but these four townships were designated by the Illinois Mental Health Department as a planning area.

The suggestion of creating instead a separate Mental Health District sounds fine, but there is no legal authority to do so.

NO PLACE did I see reference to the endorsement of the referendum by State Representative Eugene Schlickman and State Representative Eugene Chapman, copies of which I know you have. The latter is certainly no friend of township government, but she judged the need greater than political consideration.

Meanwhile, what of the people in need of the agencies? The Wheeling Herald recently reported that TORCH Mental Health Clinic would probably close this spring for lack of funds. Waiting lists and deficits are the order of the day.

Not one word of the above is not known to your staff. The reporting of the issues has been completely independent and excellent.

'A Camel's Nose Into Our Tent'

There will be a tax referendum on February 27 for a Mental Health levy. This is a new tax and represents the camel's nose coming into our tent. Once we authorize this new township tax we will have a very hungry agency on our hands.

The Northwest Mental Health Clinic tried to force the construction of its new building on an adjunct of the Juliette Low grade school in south Arlington Heights. This was finally defeated due to zoning objections. The Clinic advocates were reprimanded by the Board president at the time for their unethical conduct in the attempt. Also, their sworn testimony revealed their ambitious and expensive plans. The claimed land alone would cost $90,000. They had already spent large sums on architectural plans of lavish extent. They said we need a mental health clinic in every neighborhood.

From that encounter it became obvious they had extensive plans, were very aggressive, and could consume large amounts of money if they could get it. Now they want a township levy. They can get more from the State as well through a Federal program. They are run by a quasi-public committee that the taxpayer and the township will not be able to control.

The State of Illinois has just budgeted over $300,000,000 for mental health. The County is planning for more. Our schools have extensive programs for retarded children. The Northwest Education Cooperative already exists for this purpose. This township plan is a poorly planned duplication that promises to be badly managed.

This inefficient plan deserves a no vote on February 27.

'I'll Vote Yes'

The kind of community in which we desire to live and raise our children calls for some services and facilities which we can see, such as a swimming pool, a school, or a hospital. Other kinds of services are also important but are not expressed in such a tangible way. Not only are mental health and mental retardation services a basic need but also in our area coordination and expansion or present programs are called for.

Increasingly, I have received pleas from citizens asking for help in combating drug abuse and alcoholism. I am convinced that the first step in responding to these pleas is the passage of the community mental health referendum.

'Yes' Is A Vote For Better Services

A yes vote on February 27 for the mental health referendum is a vote for better and more efficient services for the treatment of mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

Services currently provided are not adequate and the referendum offers the chance we need to provide better treatment.

The Township Mental Health Board is charged with the responsibility of administering mental health funds by recommendation to the Township Board of Auditors.

Being aware of our responsibility and confident that a "yes" vote will provide needed services for our township, we personally urge a "yes" vote for the referendum.

Editorial 'An Insult'

We were very surprised and disappointed that The Herald would oppose Saturday's referendum allowing townships to establish a levy to help pay for needed mental health services in our community.

In its editorial it recognizes the urgent need of financial support to help fight such increasing problems as youthful drug abuse and alcoholism. They note that the improvement of mental health services is an important priority for our suburbs. Further, many of our agencies will have to curtail their present activities (at a time when need dictates they should be expanding them) because of lack of funds, unless this referendum passes.

With their recognition of the needs and the urgency in providing additional funds we find its arguments, which attempt to justify their negative stand, extremely weak.

They say the proposal does not guarantee to provide "comprehensive services." Nothing can be guaranteed but an intelligent study of the program shows it is soundly based and should make such a complete comprehensive health service available to our community in the foreseeable future.

MUCH WAS MADE of the fact that some organizations that might be part of the overall program are not initially included. Like any plan, there has to be a starting place, and no one is trying to say that the beginning is perfection nor that expansion will not be necessary. The Council is very clear that participation is open and will always be open to any organization delivering a needed service to the four townships. It is most unfair for The Herald to infer otherwise.

Another criticism they make is that the council will be weighted in favor of professionals. We believe that professionals are the ones most qualified to handle the complex problems of mental health. This is a strength of the plan, not a weakness.

The Herald is absolutely wrong when they say there is no control of the funds by elected officials. While the Council, consisting of both professional and appointed township representatives, would recommend a budget the tax levy would be set by each of the four township Board of Auditors. The Town Board could set the levy recommended, something less, or nothing at all. These elected officials, accountable to the public, would have complete control over the funds their township provides.

THE HERALD compounds the pettiness of its opposition by making an unnecessary and unwarranted attack on township government. Your Elk Grove Township Board of auditors consider this part of the editorial a personal insult as well as a great disservice to our community. We feel we provide responsive leadership in Elk Grove Township. We're proud of our record of service in such fields as general assistance, highway maintenance, voter registration, property assessment, and many others. Our township provides maximum service for every tax dollar spent. We operate efficiently and effectively, and we take issue with anyone, especially a responsible newspaper, who make unfair, general, derogatory statements about all township officials. Doesn't this sound like the practice of "McCarthyism" that The Herald has so vociferously opposed in the past?

As weak as its arguments against the referendum, is its suggested alternative. It wants to create a mental health taxing district. Fine except it's unlawful, and it creates the additional taxing body they admit is not particularly desirable. Of course, it might be possible to get the state legislature to pass a law allowing such a taxing district, but, speaking of guarantees, there certainly is none that this will happen.

The need for the funds that can be provided by passage of this referendum are here today. We cannot afford to wait and argue over petty disagreements. Let's vote "yes" so our community will have a sound, comprehensive program of mental health.

'Poor Business, Indeed...'

After thoughtful study and observation of township government in Cook County, I can draw only one conclusion regarding the Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, and Wheeling Townships' Mental Health Referendum on February 27. It is the wrong referendum.

Instead, the voter should be asked: "Shall this township's government be dissolved?"

A positive response resulting in such dissolution would create hardly a ripple upon reallocation of the townships' merger functions. Savings in administrative costs, office buildings and their maintenance would be great. You will note their price when you see the presently awaited 1970 real estate tax bills: the new township tax was passed at last April's controversial Annual Town Meetings, by voice vote, of less than 1% of the area's registered voters. Speaking of "pulling the wool over the eyes"...

As for the Mental Health Council — It should seek a more appropriate taxing authority, and manner of presentation. It is poor business indeed, for already overburdened taxpayers to give away even limited monies, carte blanche. In essence, this is what we are being asked to do.

So, vote "No" on February 27.

Girl Missing 3 Weeks, Is Home

A Rolling Meadows teenager missing from home for almost three weeks was returned to her mother yesterday.

Dawn Miller, 14, was returned home by Rolling Meadows police after she walked into a police station in Woodstock, Ill. early Thursday morning.

The girl told police she knew they were close to finding her and decided to stop hiding, according to Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case.

He said immediately after she was reported missing flyers with her picture were sent to all surrounding police departments.

A juvenile court hearing will be held sometime next week, according to Case. But Dawn already has been referred to the newly created Youth Referral Committee in Rolling Meadows.

Designed to help troubled local youth, the new committee is expected to help with home, and school problems.

"THIS IS A GOOD test for the new group," Case said.

Dawn disappeared from her home on Feb. 6. Case said she remained in the general vicinity of Rolling Meadows, although she was not in the city. He said she spent several days in the Elgin area.

"There were several adults along the way who gave her housing," Case said.

"I don't understand how people can do that without calling the police," he added.

The juvenile court hearing will be held to determine if any action should be taken against those who contributed to her delinquency, according to Case.

Psychic Program Set

Palm readers, astrologers and tarot card interpreters will be in Arlington Heights Sunday for the second "Psychics in Action," sponsored by the Guardmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect.

The event will last from 1 to 9 p.m. It will be at the American Legion Hall, Douglas and Miner streets in Arlington Heights.

An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged. Cost for individual readings will be $2.50.

Jackie Hoffer of Des Plaines is one of the psychics who will be there. A palm reader, she believes, that "while everything that happens to a person registers scientifically on their hand, emotions are also recorded in areas of the palm."

ANOTHER of the psychics who will be there is the Rev. Amelia Doerr who has been active in psychic work for the last 10 years. He will be joined by the Rev. Fred Haas. Rev. Haas has been a psychic for 20 years.

Alan Sandler, who has been a counselor on psychic phenomena for the last 15 years will also be there. During the "Psychics in Action" event Sunday he will discuss astrology, tarot cards and hypnosis.

Among the other psychics who will be at the American Legion hall are Paul Ranon, a palmist; Ann Ferro, who will discuss "past lives;" and Charles Royston, an astrologer.

Sunday's "Psychics in Action" is the second such gathering of psychics to be sponsored by the Guardmen. Refreshments will be available during the day at the hall.

Elk Grove faculty member and distributive education coordinator Thomas Organ will accompany the students.

Revived Baby Is Reported In Fair Condition

The eight-month-old Wheeling girl whose life was saved by an Arlington Heights policeman's actions Wednesday morning remained in fair condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital.

The girl, Tammi Williams, daughter of Mrs. Veronica Williams of 942 Norman Ln., was revived at the hospital after she arrived with no respiration, and a very weak pulse. She was admitted in fair condition and treated for shock and infection.

The baby's life was probably saved by Patrolman Robert Lundquist, of the Arlington Heights police, who rushed the child to the hospital in his squad car.

Mrs. Williams, being driven to the hospital by a neighbor, reportedly was delayed from crossing the Chicago and North Western Rwy. tracks for several minutes by two trains.

Church Slates Film

The film, "Time and Eternity," will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist Church, Tonne Road and Laurel Street, Elk Grove Village.

Produced by Dr. Irwin A. Moon, at the Moody Institute of Science in Whittier, Calif., "Time and Eternity" is one of a series of films entitled "Sermons from Science."

The film presents God as omnipotent, unrestricted by the limits of time and space. The reality of eternity is seen as a scientific fact.

County Tax Bill Reform Proposed

Some encouraging news was forthcoming last week for those of us fed up with the annual guessing game played when the March 31 deadline for Cook County tax bills approaches.

After confirmation that tax bills this year would not be mailed until possibly 60 days after the deadline, County Board Pres. George W. Dunne disclosed a plan he hopes will remedy the problem. Essentially, Dunne has proposed a bi-monthly "installment" plan for paying property taxes.

Of six installments annually, four would cover taxes levied two years previously, and two would be applied to the previous year's bill. If the proposed system were now in effect, for example, the first four installments of 1971 would be applied to your 1969 taxes. The remaining two payments would be credited to your 1970 levy.

At this time, Dunne's plan is only in the talking stage, because its implementation must wait until home rule provisions of the new Illinois constitution become effective July 1. Home rule will enable the county board to revise the taxing process. Currently, the state, not the county, holds this authority.

Of course, further details of Dunne's proposal are at this time not known. But even in its basic form the plan presents some heartening possibilities for overcoming a few of the most blatant problems. First, county departments responsible for determining and levying taxes would no longer face the gigantic task of meeting one annual deadline.

Secondly, school districts and other local taxing bodies would save thousands of dollars in interest charges imposed when late tax collections force issuance of tax anticipation warrants. This, in turn, would mean more efficient and economical use of your tax dollars.

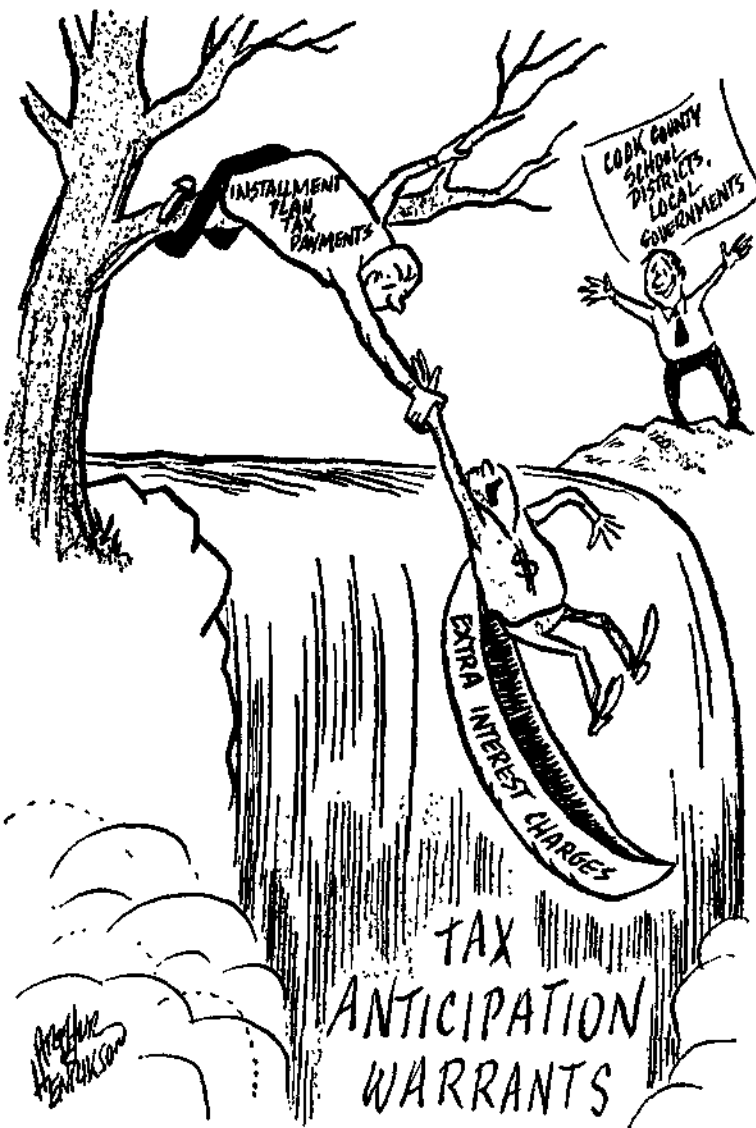

Finally, Dunne's plan could curb suspicion from many political observers who view late billing as a device to help insure Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is successful at the polls. These observers note the March 31 deadline is only one week before the mayoral elections.

It would be premature to offer unqualified support for Dunne's proposal now without knowing more details. But we do recognize the possibilities of his plan and commend him for at least providing some assurances the county is committed to resolving the problem of late taxes.

The county board president should refine his program, so its provisions and ramifications can be fully known by July 1.

The tax bill deadline has been met only five of the past 10 years. Hopefully, swift action by the county board after implementation of the new state constitution can make this year the last.

Daring Rescue Attempt

Suburban Solons Set Pace

by ED MURNANE
State Editor

It's unlikely that the pattern set by Northwest suburban legislators during the first few weeks of the 77th Illinois General Assembly will hold up until the legislature adjourns in June but if it did, Illinois residents would find almost half of their new laws coming from the proposals of four suburbanites.

As of Feb. 10, 400 bills had been introduced in the House of Representatives and of them, 145 — 40 per cent — were sponsored by representatives from this area.

And another 50 bills are cosponsored by the local legislators, giving them a share in just about half the legislation proposed thus far.

Rep. Robert S. Juckett, R-Park Ridge, is leading the pack with 124 bills carrying his name as sponsor. Juckett, who is serving as chairman of the important House executive committee, introduced 111 bills on one day last month.

Juckett's impressive figure needs some explanation, however, since most of the 111 were "companion bills" to two major pieces of legislation.

One of his bills would amend the state's civil administrative code by creating a new Department of Personal Services to replace the existing Departments of Public Aid, Public Health, Mental Health and Children and Family Services.

There are 65 "companion bills" with the major bills. Each one changes the wording in state statutes to replace the old department names with the new names.

Similarly, Juckett is proposing legislation which would establish a Department of Transportation to replace the existing Department of Aeronautics and the Division of Highways and Waterways in the Department of Public Works.

There are more than 20 bills accompanying that and changing language in current statutes.

In addition to setting a legislative pace for quantity of legislation, the local representatives are distinguishing themselves for the quality of bills they are introducing.

Juckett's Department of Transportation proposal, which he spoke of long before Gov. Richard Ogilvie mentioned it this month, would allow a coordinated approach to transportation problems which previously have been handled in piecemeal fashion.

State Report

And Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, has introduced a bill that would require the governor to present his budget to the legislature much earlier than in previous years. Last year a major complaint of legislators was that they did not have adequate time to analyze the budget before voting on appropriations.

Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, who is one of the education experts in the House, has introduced numerous education-related bills and last week, sponsored legislation aimed at reducing the costs of building and expanding hospitals and other health facilities, with the ultimate purpose being to

Education Needs Of Deaf Not Met

I read with great interest Cynthia Tivers' article in the Palatine Herald of Thursday, Feb. 18, "Kurt's No Longer a Non-Verbal Child."

I am not criticizing the article in itself, it was written in a very commendable manner. Nor am I questioning the ability of the speech therapist; he has done beautiful work with this particular child. Kurt seems to respond very well to this kind of therapy.

However, the majority of congenitally deaf children do not have the talent to learn language via the oral method. Please print my letter in your paper for the benefit of other parents of young deaf children who are at the crossroad now trying to decide on the best education for their deaf child. Let them see the other side of the coin.

I am the mother of a deaf son. When my son was 6 years old, I, too, believed that with a lot of time and effort and an oral education my son would splendidly integrate into the hearing world. Every failure that I experienced during his educational years I blamed on myself and on my child, whom I accused of a lack of cooperation. He just does not have the talent to lip-read and speak. After years of wasted time, I started to look for a teacher of sign language, and our lives changed from that moment on. I am not saying that all parents of deaf children should use signs exclusively, what I am trying to say is that there is no integration of a non-hearing person into the hearing world, as there is no integration of a blind person into a seeing world. The non-hearing will always feel true comfort only in the presence of other non-hearing persons.

There are between 500,000 and 750,000 deaf people in the country, deaf in the sense they can't understand ordinary speech with or without hearing aid, and their number is increasing. A recent German measles outbreak (rubella) produced about 20,000 deaf babies now reaching school age.

The natural way to communicate among the deaf is the sign language

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

Signs have concrete meanings; words can be spelled on fingers to connect the signs into English sentences with children the language is part mime. It is beautiful to watch, highly expressive and receptive. The most common method among the educated deaf now is to combine the use of signs with lipreading, the "simultaneous method," as taught in Washington D.C. (Gallaudet College).

Unfortunately, since many teachers of the deaf are set against signs, children are not generally brought up in the simultaneous method. Instead, they plow through lipreading, spending their early curious and formative years struggling to copy the teacher, who bats down their hands if they try to use signs. The children struggle with lipreading until their early teens, at which time the educators give up and allow the youngsters to revert to signs. Thus, the children grow up with no education to speak of, and worse, no language with which to communicate.

The National Association of the Deaf and the Council of Organizations Serving the Deaf are run by men who are outspoken in favor of signs and the simultaneous method, and they are pushing hard for an educational reform.

In writing you this I am not speaking for myself alone but for many other parents of deaf children who are sharing my experience. I am also speaking for my son and his friends.

A Birthday Present?

Since I so vehemently complained about your paper's liberal bias in last Fall's election, I felt it only fair to comment on an extremely objective piece of reporting.

I am referring to an article which appeared Friday, Feb. 12. The article was headlined, "Allied Goal: Rip Red Supply Line." That was one of the most clear and reasonable articles I have read on Southeast Asia in a long time. It neither glorified their incursion into Laos nor did it condemn it as aggression.

If the Departments of State, Defense, or the press had made the entire debacle in Indo China this clear to the American public all along, it's possible this war would have been conducted on a more rational basis. It might have been over by now.

May I look forward to another unbiased article next year on Lincoln's birthday?

Ambulance Team Fast

We would publicly like to commend the Schaumburg Fire Dept. ambulance team for their fast efficient service.

I am a diabetic and pregnant and my husband has had to call them three different times in the last three months to have me rushed to St. Alexis Hospital with an insulin reaction.

Although I was not conscious at any time, my husband has said how fast they and the police department have arrived and how courteous and helpful they have been.

We would like to thank them for their very needed assistance and the manner in which everything was handled.

Library Commended

This is to commend the Des Plaines Public Library on their efficient and capable staff. Last month I had the opportunity of asking how to research a certain project my son had received as an assignment at school. The information was not at their fingertips, but within a week my phone rang with the answer.

I'm sure the library has many requests per day, but to stick to a subject until they have the answer is very commendable.

I wish to publicly thank a truly marvelous staff who helped a confused mother with one of her many chores.

Features Appreciated

This is just a short note of appreciation for your new features. Your new "TV Time" saves me 15 cents a week. The first thing I read besides the headlines is "This Morning in Brief." I look forward to Fridays so I can read Mort Reed's column on coins. How about buying some back articles and running them in your paper two or three times a week?

Those 'Fringes' Grow In Value

The withholding tax has to be the most brilliant innovation in the whole history of taxation. It's virtually painless; we never miss the money we never see except as a meaningless figure labeled "Gross Income."

For the same psychological reasons, we tend to ignore another kind of money we never see as take-home pay — the so-called fringe benefits.

If the average worker had to pay for all the benefits he now receives as part of his job, his pay check would be reduced by more than one-fourth.

These benefits now average 27.9 per cent of employer payroll. In terms of dollars and cents, this means that for every $100 in wages a worker is paid, his employer provides additional benefits averaging $27.90.

The figure includes not only the employer's portion of legally required programs, such as Social Security, unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation, but a wide variety of voluntary benefits. Chief among these are life, sickness, accident and hospitalization insurance, pensions, sick leave, vacations and holidays.

In a survey of 1,115 companies last year, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce found that they were paying an average of 98 cents per payroll-hour for employee benefits. This represents an increase of 330 per cent in benefits over 1949 and is 19 per cent higher than the 1967 figure.

Fringe benefits are no longer "fringe."

Your Ticket To Nature's Beauty

The Golden Eagle Passport is a better buy than ever in 1971.

This year the passports, which allow access to outdoor recreation areas operated by four federal agencies, are being issued for the calendar year instead of the fiscal year as formerly.

The passports are season passes for families visiting areas operated by the U.S. Forest Service, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, Bureau of Land Management and the National Park Service.

The $10 card, available at park entrances, state recreation offices and other outlets, can amount to considerable savings. Without it, families must pay daily entrance fees each time they visit a federal area.

Revenue collected from the Golden Eagle Passports, plus moneys from daily entrance fees, is placed in the Land and Water Conservation Fund under the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. From there it is redistributed to the states as matching grants for acquiring and developing outdoor recreation facilities.

For 1971, the BOR has made some $375 million available to the states.

Suez Canal Key To Peace

by LEON DENNAN

The Arab-Israeli peace talks continue in the United Nations at a snail's pace.

There would be little hope for the "indirect negotiations" if their success depended solely on the expressed positions of the antagonists.

But the public rhetoric and the warlike statements of Egypt's President Anwar el-Sadat are misleading. Gunnar Jarring, the patient mediator of the U.N., is encouraged by the fact that Egypt and Israel are eager to go on with the diplomatic bargaining.

According to Yugoslavs in close contact with the Arabs, Egypt is even ready to take serious steps toward a peace settlement.

The United States, Russia, Britain and France have also resumed discussions about ways in which a Mideast peace could be guaranteed, including the possibility of a Big Four peace-keeping force.

To be sure, the Arabs are still trying to gain through negotiations what they were unable to achieve militarily.

They seek an unconditional withdrawal of troops from all the territories Israel occupied as a result of the six-day war in June, 1967.

President el-Sadat has learned from his Russian patrons and mentors to ask for substantial concessions without giving anything in return. Thus, he proposed to reopen the Suez Canal — blocked by sunken ships and mines since the 1967 six-day war — after a "partial withdrawal" of Israeli troops from the eastern bank.

This would give Egypt a strategic advantage since it would deprive Israel of a trump bargaining card — its presence on the canal.

But what did el-Sadat offer in return? He hinted strongly that Israel's right to the international waterway might be subject to negotiations.

Israel's Premier Golda Meir endorsed the idea of clearing the canal and expressed willingness to discuss military de-escalation along its banks. "But the canal should be open to all nations, including Israel," she said.

Premier Meir insisted yet again that any withdrawal of troops could only happen as part of a contractual peace agreement.

An open canal is attractive to the oil-dependent economies of Europe and Japan. But there is no doubt that it is the Russians who will benefit most.

It will allow them to link their Mediterranean and Indian Ocean navies and save Soviet trade the long way around the Cape of Good Hope or Vladivostok.

Prior to June 1967 some 1,800 Russian merchantmen — more than one-tenth of the Soviet's maritime trade — used the Suez route.

Reopening the waterway would also represent a direct financial gain for Moscow since Egypt's economy, which Ruslower the costs of medical care.

Two of the more controversial issues expected to face the legislature this year will result from bills which Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, will enter.

Schlickman is chairman of both the School Study Commission and the Zoning Laws Study Commission.

Both commissions are due to present reports and recommended legislation during March and, regardless of what the bills propose, they are certain to result in controversy and make Schlickman one of the key figures in the current session.

The real test for the local legislators, of course, is not the number of bills they introduce or the kind of legislation they propose. Instead, their effectiveness can best be measured by the passage or defeat of the bills.

The scorecard won't be completed until the General Assembly adjourns later this year but the early indications are that Northwest suburban representatives will have a major impact on the state this year.

Two of the more controversial issues expected to face the legislature this year will result from bills which Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, will enter.

Schlickman is chairman of both the School Study Commission and the Zoning Laws Study Commission.

Firemen Merit Praise

On Saturday, Feb. 6, a fire broke out at my home. I called the telephone operator to report the fire. Within seven minutes the Buffalo Grove Fire Department was at the scene. They very quickly and efficiently fought the fire.

I would like to personally thank each and every fireman at the scene for the manner in which they put out the fire. Very little unnecessary damage was done. I would also like to commend them on the cleanup work they did afterwards.

Fire Chief Wayne Winter took the time to explain the possible cause of the fire and reviewed the damage done to the house by the fire.

The Village of Buffalo Grove can be very proud of their fire department.

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER
UPI Business Editor

NEW YORK UPI — Swiss and Japanese watchmakers develop ultra just thinking of Joakim Lehmkuhl. Business leaders in the United States envy his ability to keep sales and profits up in fair or foul economic weather.

Lehmkuhl, 74, president and chairman of United States Timex Corp., manufacturer of Timex watches, the world's biggest seller, is a remarkable businessman. He has "never seen the inside of a watch" before 1942 when he and some associates acquired the Waterbury Clock Company in Connecticut to produce artillery time fuses during World War II.

Two years before that Lehmkuhl, then a Norwegian politician, had fled his native Oslo one step ahead of German invaders. After the war, Lehmkuhl started producing Timex watches. A dramatic advertising campaign which proved his $8.95 wrist watch came up ticking after dunking in vats of water and being hurled against walls made him the "Watch King" of the world. In the last 18 years, Timex has sold more than 200 million watches and Lehmkuhl expects to sell 18 million more this year. In the U.S., 48 per cent of the wrist watches sold over counters are Timex. Sales for 1971 are projected at over $200 million.

His plants turn out 60,000 watches and 5 million parts daily, and Timex is the single biggest watch producer, not only in the U.S., but in France and the United Kingdom as well. It is sold in 74 countries.

TIMEX is almost as big in the middle range of the price scale as in the low end. It claims to sell 69 per cent of all the electric and electronic wrist watches bought in the U.S. Last Christmas it sold an electric watch for $25 when others were in the $100 range.

Keeping product and management streamlined and simple, plus constant research, let Timex hold the price line despite rising cost, Lehmkuhl said via telephone from his headquarters in Middlebury, Conn.

In the original Timex he started with a pin lever watch movement no jeweled bearing which economized on material and permitted automated assembling. The watch had fewer parts, a simpler design, no high polish where it was not needed and "it did the job." Interchangeable parts throughout and large assembly plants also helped keep costs down, Lehmkuhl noted.

"We have a tight management," he said. "We've been together so long and know how each other thinks that we can come to instant decisions. Our meetings sometimes last only five minutes."

LEHMKUHL'S insistence on judicious use of time covers memo writing. They should be terse and written in cable style and used "only when needed," he said.

He can't be bothered with dishonesty, misrepresentation, distortion or an executive who tries to hog the credit. "Any such action means instant dismissal," said the Timex boss.

Now that Timex dominates the low and middle areas of the market, Lehmkuhl is aiming at the top range. That involves the quartz wrist watch, desirable because it keeps almost perfect time. It has no moving parts so it also will need few repairs.

The Swiss and Japanese are into the quartz market in a big way with watches ranging from $75 to $1,200. "I'm not going to say what we'll bring it in for," said Lehmkuhl, "that would be helpful to the competition."

There are reports, however, that Timex is trying to come out this fall at around $200. If it does, there will be little joy in Tokyo and Geneva. And American competitors won't exactly dance in the streets.

(This is the second of two articles prepared by the Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants offering advice on filing state income tax returns.)

The Illinois income tax act relieves Illinois residents of multiple taxation by providing a credit for taxes paid to other states on income which is also subject to tax here.

This credit became much more important in 1970 than it was in 1969, according to Richard Stone, chairman of the state tax section of the committee on taxation, Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants, because of the change in the law which subjects all income of an Illinois resident to tax.

'70 Sales Drop

The Richardson Co.'s 1970 sales were $120,368,000, down from the record of $127,204,000 in 1969. The Des Plaines firm's 1970 earnings were $2,689,000 or $1.05 a common share, after allowing for preferred dividend requirements. This compared to net earnings in 1969 of $4,511,000, or $2.26 a common share.

The decline in sales, the first in more than a decade, and the decline in earnings were attributed by the company to the depressed economy, the prolonged strike in the trucking and automotive industries, and, even more importantly, to the poor performance of the Joseph Davis Plastics Co., a wholly owned consolidated subsidiary.

Davis, whose principal product is plastic sheet for packaging, showed 1970 sales of $8,475,000 in comparison to 1969 sales of $11,830,000. The subsidiary, which had been profitable in prior years and which is included in the overall figures of Richardson, incurred a 1970 operating loss of $1,007,000 net of applicable income tax credit of $667,000, an accounted for a 66 cent per common share loss for Richardson. Net earnings after taxes for Davis in 1969 were $217,000. The assets of Davis were carried at year end at a value of $4,400,000.

Corporations are precluded from claiming the credit since, by definition, the term "resident" includes only individuals, trusts and estates.

In addition, the credit may be claimed by residents only if: 1) Income tax paid to any other state was not deducted in computing federal adjusted gross income; and 2) the tax paid to another state is a tax on or measured by income.

The credit is relatively easy to calculate, and the state provides Schedule CR of Form IL-1040 for determining it, Stone said.

The allowable credit is the smallest of the following: a) Total taxes paid to other state; or b) Total Illinois tax due; or c) A formula calculating the credit by multiplying the Illinois tax due, without regard to the credit, by a ratio, the numerator of which is the taxpayer's base income subject to the foreign state's income tax; and the denominator is the taxpayer's total base income subject to tax in this state.

THE ONLY DIFFICULTY encountered is one of interpretation. Section 601 (b) (3), dealing with the credit, refers to the numerator in c) above, as, "Taxpayer's base income subject to tax by the other taxing jurisdiction." However, Schedule CR and Illinois income tax information bulletin number 1970-71 (which explains the credit for foreign taxes paid) use the term "base income taxed by other state."

Base income subject to tax and base income actually taxed by another state may, depending upon the state, be different amounts. In fact base income subject to tax could be substantially higher than base income taxed by another state, resulting in a larger allowable tax credit, Stone pointed out.

Personal Finance

by CARI TON SMITH

America has become a society of working wives.

We've had for many years a substantial majority of women in the labor force — mostly single. But now there's something new. If you're a married woman who doesn't work you're in the minority.

The number of working wives "increased dramatically" in the past decade, says a special labor force report just published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Ten years ago only about four women in 10 were employed. By 1969, 53 per cent of all women over the age of 18 were counted in the labor force, full or part time.

It was among young wives that the most dramatic increase occurred. In the 20-to-24 age group, two-thirds of the wives were employed. Even of those with children, more than half worked.

AT LEAST PARTLY responsible, economist Howard V. Haythe seems to suggest, is the new flexibility in family planning given to women by the Pill. He attributed part of the employment pattern to "a rise in the proportion of young wives who are postponing having their first child."

However, it's not only the younger women who are on the increase in the work force, and among the older age groups the proportion of full-time, all-year workers increases. Only about 40 per cent of the working wives under 25 are employed full-time. In the 25-44 age group the percentage rises to 52, and in the 45-to-64 group it shoots up to two-thirds.

It's becoming part of a standard pattern, obviously, for women to settle into regular employment once children are through school and out of the home.

The incentive for younger wives to supplement the family income is often, says Haythe, a desire "to set aside funds for such purposes as buying a home and for educating children."

There's no explanation offered for the pronounced return-to-work pattern among older women but it's not hard to guess at. All studies of family economic behavior show three principal motivations behind most savings and investment programs — funds for a home, for education of the children and for retirement.

One easily drawn conclusion is that the steadily rising costs of living are behind it all. Houses and college educations are rapidly being priced out of reach for many families. Only a second income makes them possible.

BUT THERE IS probably a second influence, almost as strong. It's what observers of American society have called the climate of rising expectations. People expect more, of themselves and for themselves, than did an earlier generation.

Whatever the pressures that have turned America into a society of working women and working wives, there's one result that the militant feminists can only approve. It wasn't too long ago that a working wife was liable to cause disparaging remarks to be made about dad's ability as a breadwinner or sly questions about who wore the pants in the family.

Haythe notes that "it is much more socially acceptable now than a decade or more ago for a wife to assume an important role" in bringing home the bread. And as for who wears the pants in the family — why, they're all the rage now in women's wear.

Coating Eliminates Loss

Chemically coating paper to produce sharper images from copying equipment involves a great deal of professional technology which must be protected.

Charles Bruning Co., division of Addressograph Multigraph Corporation, Mount Prospect, coats millions of yards each month for use with the company's complete line of copier machines. Highly inflammable vapors emitted from the chemical solvent used to coat paper stock are checked by the use of a carbon dioxide fire protection system supplied by the Cardox division of Chemetron Corporation, Chicago.

"This potential threat to our technology, expensive equipment and facilities, plus a production loss that could amount to thousands of dollars a day, called for protective measures," William C. Blaessing, Bruning's safety director said.

Pressure in cylinders positioned along a wall midway between the chemical solvent mixing room and solvent coating room drives the gas through pipelines to discharge nozzles located on the paper-coating machinery and in the solvent mixing room. The liquid CO2 expands to 400 times its original volume as it leaves the nozzles. The combined smothering and cooling action of carbon dioxide reduces the oxygen content in the area to a point where a fire cannot exist.

According to H. R. Harper, vice president of fire equipment at Cardox, in suffocating a fire the CO2 itself does no damage. It is dry and doesn't even wet the machinery or materials upon which it is discharged. It even leaves paper untouched by fire in perfect condition. And once the fire is out, the extinguishant disappears without requiring any cleanup. A fire can be controlled and extinguished in seconds and work can be resumed immediately after an emergency is encountered.

$19.1 Million Forest Spending?

by DAVE CRIPPEN

A 1971 appropriations request of more than $19.1 million from the Cook County Forest Preserve District will go up for final approval today before the board of commissioners.

A high-ranking Forest Preserve official, who declined to be identified, yesterday confirmed speculation the district will seek passage of a budget ordinance calling for funds more than $488,900 — or 28 per cent — over last year's appropriation.

No increase in the district's current property levy of 7.1 cents per $100 valuation is anticipated because of a broadened county-wide tax base, the official stressed.

About $820,000 of the budget's $2.8 million construction fund is earmarked for development of the district's 3,000-acre Rossmore tract north of Hoffman Estates. The funds will go for what was termed "perimeter improvement" on the land, which is bounded by Barrington Road on the east, the Northwest Tollway on the north and Bode Road on the south.

OF THE DISTRICT'S proposed $9.4 million corporate, or operating fund, more than $60,000 will finance a new program to keep forest preserve streams and rivers clean.

"We're going to establish a permanent river-cleaning crew," the official explained. He noted the responsibility for streams and rivers cleanup actually rested with the State Division of Waterways, but said the district was launching the program as a "public service."

He noted the $60,000 would only pay salaries and did not include the cost of new equipment that would have to be purchased.

A breakdown of budget figures showed increases in all of the district's six funds, except that to pay bonded interest which was down $645,925 from last year's appropriation of $5 million.

Comparison of funds disclosed the following: Corporate — $8,798,645 '70 ($8,414,659 '71); Construction and Development — $2,512,774 '70 ($2,840,120 '71); Annuity and Benefit — $216,000 (1970), $243,000 (1971); Zoological — $1,128,025 '70 ($1,219,034 '71); and Botanical Gardens — $934,385 '70 ($1,008,856 '71).

TAXES WILL FINANCE 78 per cent of the $9.4 million corporate fund, the official said. Other sources of revenue included $904,000 in fees and collections, $10,000 in delinquent taxes, $145,000 from interest earned on investments and $427 million fiscal plans for the coming year.

However, separate action will be required on each ordinance because the forest preserve district is a distinct governmental agency within the county. The county board also serves as the governing body for the district.

Passage of the budget must come not later than Sunday in accordance with state statute. The board's expected approval of the appropriations ordinance will coincide with passage of the county's

Public Has No Voice In Forest Preserve Budget

by DAVE CRIPPEN

The Cook County Forest Preserve District tomorrow will approve a $19.1 million budget and tax levy ordinance without having bothered to find out what the public thinks about it.

The reason? There is no statutory requirement for the district like other taxing bodies, to hold a public hearing on its annual financial plans.

Why not? Apparently, no one knows. "It doesn't seem to make any sense," conceded Daniel P. Coman, chief of the State's Attorney Office civil division. "But there is no requirement in Chapter 57 1/2 the Forest Preserve Statute, that they should have a public hearing."

Top county officials, even those who have been around for many years, could not provide an answer.

"YOU ARE THE first one in my 38 years on the board who has raised the question," County Commissioner William N. Erickson said in acknowledging he didn't know the reason. Noting the generally recognized efficiency of the forest preserve operation, he contended there was little need for a public hearing.

Erickson added, "When it (the district) was set up, apparently, they didn't think it was necessary."

County Board Pres. George W. Dunne could provide no explanation of why a public hearing was not required or the forest preserve budget.

"I don't know," Dunne replied to questioning. "We've been doing it that way for years."

Other officials, both state and county, said they were puzzled over the lack of the public hearing requirement and admitted they had no idea of what the reasoning might have been in omitting it when the statute was adopted.

Dale Young, financial advisor to the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs' property tax division in Springfield, responded, "I would have no idea of what the chronological developments have been." After studying the appropriate statute, he explained that apparently Cook County's forest preserve district is the only one in the state exempted from public hearings.

YOUNG EXPLAINED that the Municipal Budget Law required hearings of forest preserve districts in counties having less than 500,000 population. Cook County is the only county not falling into that category.

"I'm surprised," Young added. "Ordinarily there is such a requirement."

Since the forest preserve district was formed in 1916, it apparently has passed budgets and levied taxes without public hearings.

Young explained that the forest preserve statute was revised in 1951 but no effort was made to incorporate a public hearing requirement. The law does require that the budget ordinance not become effective until 10 days after its adoption.

The delay is probably designed to give the public a chance to review the budget, but this in no way would change the legality of the tax ordinance, according to Young.

More Than 'Just A Job'

Specialized Training Is Available

by DOROTHY OLIVER
(Second in a series)

There is a category which runs between unskilled jobs and the professions. These careers demand specialized training but not a college degree. Training for many careers is available in the north-west suburban area.

The young woman fresh out of high school, the housewife interested in going to work and the woman dissatisfied with her present position can find fulfilling careers by seeking out special schools of instruction. They can be as near as the telephone.

If dogs are your fancy the Pampered Poodle Grooming Salon, Skokie, offers a two-month course in dog grooming. Students clip a dog a day and are trained to cut all breeds as well as take care of their other grooming needs.

MR. AND MRS. ROY Mulay, owners of the salon, will also teach students how to begin and manage a business of their own. Students are taught individually and can either remain at this shop or seek employment elsewhere. The cost is $450.

Many women are professional photographers using their talents in everything from portrait photography to newspaper photography to motion picture photography.

Winona School of Photography is headquartered in Des Plaines. They offer courses in almost all phases of professional photography and their students range from beginners to amateurs to highly skilled professionals.

A total of 43 courses are available through Winona including a basic beginner's course (tuition $250), another in criminal photography and, the highest priced, another in motion picture techniques ($825 tuition).

OF THE 900 STUDENTS attending Winona in 1970, 22 per cent were women.

Courses are held only during the summer, beginning in June and ending Labor Day. They are conducted at Winona Lake, Ind.

Tuition includes the use of all equipment and all materials but does not include housing or meals. Ed Purrington, director of the school, suggests registration should take place before April 15. All information about the school is available in Des Plaines through Purrington.

"We do believe in woman's lib," he said. "About 8 1/2 per cent of our instructors are women and we have a large amount of women students."

IF YOUR CAREER interest lies in the field of graphics or if you are a beginner in the field, the Professional Graphics Institute, Park Ridge offers 15 courses. Lithography (from both the production and sales standpoint), estimating, production planning, marketing computer basics and management cost controls are some of the classes.

Women are involved in this field, according to George Schmitz, founder and director of the Institute. "Two of our women students are among the first printing saleswomen in the Chicago area. We also have women from advertising agencies who are here to learn about their product. Women work in printing shops, and in the photographic end of graphics there are a large number of women."

The Institute works closely with the graphics industry; most of their courses have been added because the industry had no place to send people who needed background or further instruction about their job. Approximately 97 per cent of the tuition for courses (which ranges between $200 and $250) has been paid for by the industry.

THE SCHOOL APPEALS to those interested or already working in printing sales, production and agencies. Classes are held at North Park College Science Center, Foster and Kedzie, Chicago, and the curriculum includes field trips and lab work. Every course has a combination of lectures and field work.

A course takes 10 months to complete and classes are held once a month on Saturdays. School begins in September and ends in May. Private students may call and apply. If you're already involved in the graphics industry, brochures are available to show your boss.

Most of the students at the Stock Market Institute, Park Ridge, are already involved — either as brokers or registered representatives — in the market, but the novice is welcomed. A single correspondence course, costing $750, teaches you the finer points of making buy-sell decisions.

EVEN IF YOUR eventual goal is not a career in the market, J. P. Schindbeck, educational director, suggests that the course is valuable to anyone who plans on making or already has investments.

"Financial analysts, trustees, mutual fund managers, financial advisors, registered representatives — anyone involved with the stock market should have the knowledge behind their investments," he said.

An aptitude test is given before enrollment. The name of the course is the Richard D. Wyckoff course in Stock Market Science Techniques, and it takes between a year and a half to complete. Vocational seminars, held throughout the nation, are included in the training.

Daily stock reports are sent to students for six months. The course is accredited by the National Home Study Council and the Veterans Administration.

EDUCATORS FROM the northwest suburban area are working on plans for a "University Without Walls." With the cooperation of the Northwest Educational Cooperative, headquartered in Arlington Heights, by-laws are being created and officers selected.

The immediate goal is to provide in-service training for teachers in the 10 school districts included in NEC. The future goal is to provide community education.

"What we offer will depend on the interest of the communities," said Dr. Gloria Kinney who is working on the "University." "We plan on assessing the interests of the people and from that decide whether we will be oriented toward career or general education."

TOMORROW: Hair styling, a booming career for women.

Black Makes It As PR Girl

by CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The wall is a collage of posters, newspaper clippings and photographs and album covers of many top entertainers. Magazines, press kits, books and assorted paraphernalia vie for space on a tiny desk that by itself would comfortably just about fit in the small office.

Amid all this clutter, however, there's definite organization. A lively and energetic publicist, Victoria Lucas, works here. Miss Lucas, who is in her mid-30s, is the successful black lady president of her own public relations firm.

"I like for people to see the office," she said in an interview. "I don't want people to get the idea that I have a vast empire here."

IT IS appropriate that most of the pictures and press clippings in her office are of blues great singer B. B. King. He was her first client in 1968 when Victoria Lucas Associates was born. Since then she has added many other top performers and record companies, as well as cosmetic and publishing firms to her client list.

"I hope to diversify my organization," Miss Lucas said, looking chic in burgundy slacks and a matching sweater with a bright printed midi vest. "I think a good publicist can do public relations for any type of client."

A graduate of Wilson Junior College in her native Chicago, Miss Lucas worked as a reporter for the now-defunct Chicago Bee, a black-oriented newspaper, while still in school. After graduation, she left her South Side home and came to New York.

"I HAD always wanted to write," she said. "I came to New York to fulfill that 'great American writer' dream. I didn't know what kind of a job I would get. I had never heard of public relations."

Miss Lucas, who was featured in the February issue of Cosmopolitan magazine as career girl of the month, worked as an advertising copywriter and did some salaried and free lance public relations. While with one ad agency she wrote television and radio commercials and developed the "Stop Dirt Cold" campaign for Cold Power detergent.

One of her free lance projects for a local boutique resulted in fashion stores in such major magazines as Vogue, Ebony and McCall's, and in Women's Wear Daily.

ONCE MISS Lucas began doing full-time public relations, however, she knew she had found her niche. "I love it," she said. "I loved the whole thing."

"It's not always exciting but even the things some people consider dull, I enjoy. There's a satisfaction in knowing you're part of making something happen."

Works Of 19th Century

German Paintings At Art Institute

German painting of the 19th century, an exhibition of more than 100 works by 40 painters, will open tomorrow at the Art Institute of Chicago. The exhibit will continue through March 28.

The most comprehensive exhibition of 19th century German painting ever to be shown outside of Germany, the exhibition encompasses a wide variety of painting including portraits, landscapes, seascapes and city scenes as well as allegorical, religious, mythological and romantic works.

The paintings are on loan from 16 museums in West Germany, from the collections of the West German Federal Republic and from German private collections.

AMONG THE artists included are Caspar David Friedrich, Philipp Otto Runge, Peter von Cornelius, Adolf von Menzel, Hans von Marees and Wilhelm Leibl.

The Art Institute's assistant curator of early painting, Joseph Rishel, commented about the exhibit, "German painting is best known in America through the work of Durer and his contemporaries or to come closer to our own time, through the activity of the Expressionists shortly after 1900."

"There has until now been relatively little interest in the 19th century painters, and American public collections are particularly weak in representations of this period."

"There is a severe limitation," he continued, "when we consider that German painters had a great influence on the development of our own artists, especially through Dusseldorf and the German colony in Rome, and in their quality and variety, German painters are often as interesting as their better known French and English contemporaries."

IT HAS BEEN felt by many scholars in 19th century art and culture that is particular period of German art has been neglected outside its home country.

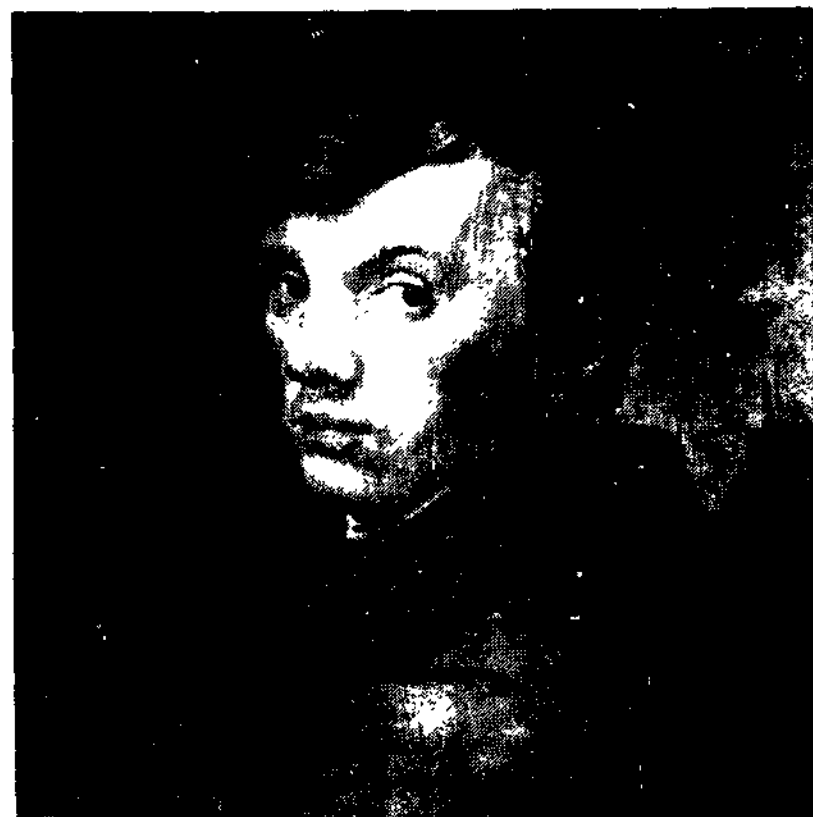

They agree that a great deal of both British and American 19th century art developed on the basis of influences from Germany rather than from France.

Beyond this, most scholars generally recognize the fact that Germany produced during the 19th century more artists of major international stature than any other country outside of France.

The accompanying photographs are printed through the courtesy of the Art Institute.

"PORTRAIT OF Gertraud Fuchs as a child" by Max Slevogt is one of some 100 19th century German paintings opening in an exhibit tomorrow. The German works will be displayed in the Morton Wing.

OIL ON AN OAK panel is the medium used for Philipp Otto Runge's 19th century painting, "Self-Portrait in A Brown Coat." The exhibition which opens tomorrow will continue through March 28.

ARTISTS AT WORK, with brushes big and little, are doing their thing to fill their Easter Seal piggy banks. Mrs. Louis Blanc and Mrs. Joseph Adelman are members of Alpha Delta Pi Northwest Countryside Alumnae who are polishing shoes, sewing gifts, babysitting, painting, making wall plaques and even charging the family for haircuts to raise money for the sorority's national philanthropy of providing help to crippled children.

Save Water Year Round

Most of us associate the importance of conserving water with hot weather. That's because shortages and municipal restrictions on the use of water occur mainly during summer months.

However, water conservation should be a year-long affair. Wasting water is just pouring money down the drain. These tips for saving water come from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau:

1. Make sure there are no leaky faucets. A 1/16-inch leak wastes 3,000 gallons a month. If your faucet is old replace it. A modern one enables you to get the temperature you want almost at a touch of the controls, without wasting water to arrive at the desired temperature.
2. Aerators on your faucets will introduce millions of air bubbles into the water. You use less water because it suds up faster and rinses off easier.
3. A circulating pipe loop installed between your water heater and individual fixtures will give you hot water immediately instead of having to run it awhile.

4. Old-fashioned showerheads use a great deal of water. The newer ones not only save water, they increase your enjoyment of a shower because you can regulate the spray from fine, needle and coarse through full-flow. Automatic temperature controls enable you to present the temperature you want before turning on the water — thereby saving all the water that usually goes down the drain while you're attempting to get the desired temperature.

5. Get into the habit of turning off the water while doing dishes, washing vegetables, shaving, etc. except when you're actually using it. Some authorities claim about 50 per cent of the water from a municipal system is wasted because people turn on the water, then let it run while performing their chores. Wasting water is just a bad habit. Saving it is a good habit to acquire.

Kid's Korner CHOCOLATE CLUSTERS

by Marilyn Hoffman

Here's a special treat for the whole family to enjoy. With Mother's help, you can make these chocolate clusters in a very short time.

Fill the bottom of a double boiler half full of water. Bring it to a boil. In the top pan, melt a 6 ounce package of chocolate bits. Remove from heat. Stir in 1 cup of raisins and 1 cup of cereal (such as corn flakes, Rice Krispies or Cheerios). Drop small spoonfuls onto a sheet of waxed paper. Chill in the refrigerator until firm. This will make about 36 pieces of candy.

Women In Government Posts Are Honored

by HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The six winners of the Federal Woman's Award this year know how to keep Uncle Sam's top secrets and have shown their skills in the fields of space dieting, social work, public health and statistics.

The women were selected for the honors because of their influence on major government programs and their unique contributions to a Women's Lib breakthrough.

Jeanne Wilson Davis, a native of Long Beach, Calif., who devised and installed procedures for handling foreign policy paper work in the National Security Council, (NSC), was one of the winners.

She describes herself as a "sort of traffic manager" preparing briefing books for President Nixon and his National Security Affairs Adviser, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger.

MISS DAVIS COORDINATES staff work and schedules and records the meetings and work of the NSC which deliberates Nixon's top foreign policy moves around the world.

Another winner in the hush hush department is Juanita Morris Moody, born in Morven, N.C. She is a cryptologist and chief intelligence officer of the National Security Agency.

Among her achievements was her outstanding performance during the Cuban missile crisis in 1962 when she was put in charge of a division of the agency which was directly concerned with the crisis and she did not leave her post until the danger had abated. During the emergency she displayed extraordinary executive talent and was later commended by President Kennedy.

FLORENCE JOHNSON HICKS, Charleston, W. Va., is the youngest recipient of the 11-year history of the award, having just passed her 32nd birthday.

A specialist in public health research, she was the first black woman to graduate of the University of Maryland's statistics and research doctoral program.

She has said her use of neighborhood people to assist the health department's staff in Washington, D.C., in the ghetto areas has "helped to draw people back from deeply entrenched negativism and feelings about black genocide."

"ANY LENGTH GOES" for dresses this spring, giving Mrs. Robert Williams and Mrs. Daniel Stowe plenty of latitude in their wardrobe designing. It's also the theme for the Haver Park Women's Club luncheon and fashion show Saturday, March 6, at St. Andrews Country Club. Ensembles from Bea Dorsey of Dundee will be modeled. Mrs. Williams is chairman. Tickets re available at 837-2977.

B.O.B. Players To Present 'There's A Girl In My Soup'

Best Off Broadway Players, who stage two musicals yearly are sneaking in a third straight play in March. "There's A Girl In My Soup" is the first community production of the play for the Chicago area.

B.O.B.'s resident director Richard Tyler will be stirring the broth for the cast to include Debbie Miller of Oak Park as the "girl" and Allan Johnson of Hoffman Estates as Robert.

Also in the cast are Lynn Jensen of Arlington Heights, Jim Chylak of Wheeling, Nancy Lonergan of Rolling Meadows and Gil Pearson of Chicago.

"There's A Girl In My Soup" is about a bachelor, a connoisseur of good food who changes the women in his life as often as he does his socks. He remains an ego-centered self until he meets a certain young lady who immediately deflates him.

"There's A Girl In My Soup" will be staged Saturday, March 20, and also Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27.

The location of performance is Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln Ave., Mount Prospect. Tickets, CL 5-2193 or CL 3-4441.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

The natives are restless again. All it takes is a breath of warm breezes. The florists got a rash of flower shoppers. The woods feel the attack of bud-swell watchers. The pussywillows and forsythias get hacked off and brought indoors for forcing.

Already one Arlington Heights woman reported the first robin.

Another claimed she spotted a tulip pup.

Someone said her pansies were green under the mulch. Another measured her grass and claimed it grew some.

I even saw someone crush a lappel button that read "Winter Love it or leave it."

See someone swinging a bat, jogging in track shorts or driving around with the top down, and you know the spring rushers are out in full force.

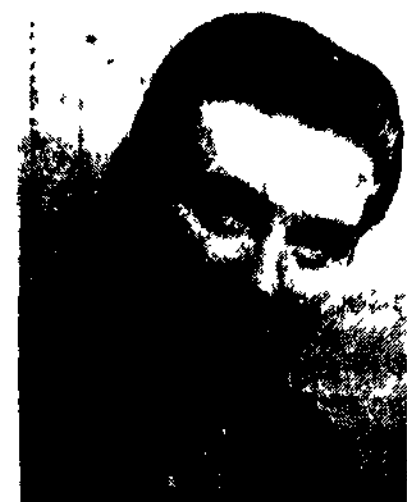

That was last week. This week it's freeze, flurries and flu.

Everyone finally realized the groundhog went back in the hole for another month.

The only harbingers of spring in evidence now are the Lincoln Park azalea show in Chicago and the Randhurst Flower and Garden Festival Mount Prospect.

Keilens in Mount Prospect still grows the best geraniums around (I think), and their blooming biggies enhance the Randhurst exhibit. If you're in the market for fences and benches or wood planters, check out the Old Mill exhibit. For a few no maintenance tips try the Schwake Stone display.

Judged "most original" at Randhurst was the garden of the Ornamental Growers Association. A special touch of homeowner interest in this one is a staggered circular fence with ivy that works to hide a support beam. Very clever.

RICHARD STADELMANN is Michael in "I Do! I Do!" which opened Wednesday at the Country Club Theatre in Mount Prospect.

Palatine Chorus Seeks Members

The Town and Country Chorus, a madrigal singing group, is looking for new recruits. The chorus has been recently reorganized under a new director, Kenneth Eidson.

The group meets every Monday, 8 to 10 p.m., in the homes of members. This Monday, Mrs. Robert H. Long, 882 N. Martin, Palatine, will serve as hostess.

After April 1 all rehearsals will be held in the home of Mrs. James Gowans, 222 N. Morris, Palatine.

Kenneth Eidson is an elementary music instructor with School District 15. He received his bachelor's degree in music from Northwestern University and currently is working towards his master's. Eidson, a resident of Evanston, has sung with the Robert Shaw Chorale and The Chicago Symphony Chorus.

Under his direction, the Town and Country Chorus, now in its 18th year of existence, will concentrate on 16th century madrigals, ballads, folk songs and occasional novelty numbers.

The group is available for private performances. Further information is available through Mrs. Arthur Mayfield, 358-4798 or Mrs. Long, 358-2211.

"GIVE ME A GIRL at an impressionable age and she is mine for life," recites Betty deGruh as Jean Brodie in a scene from Village theatre's

"The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie." Listening intently is one of her students, Gail Burnett.

Jean Brodie, A Challenging Role

Betty deGruh will star in Village Theatre's production of "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," to be presented in March.

Jean Brodie, a Scottish school teacher with romantic extra-curriculars, is a complex character. She is clever and foolish, she is a victim of betrayal and she is a victimizer. She is forbidding to her suitors and also teasing and yielding. She is heroic and comic, admirable and yet a menace.

She first came to life in a novel by Muriel Spark. The story was ultimately turned into a play by television writer Jay Allen.

The role of Miss Brodie was first played by Vanessa Redgrave in London, and when the play opened in New York, it earned for its star, Zoe Caldwell, the Tony Award for the best Broadway performance of the year. Maggie Smith, in the film version, was honored by an Oscar.

BIZARRE AND ineffably self-pos-

Don't Hide Policies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't hide your life insurance policies in out-of-the-way places. A mislaid policy delays the processing of a claim. Keeping them in a safe deposit box also may delay payment, according to insurance authorities. The box may be sealed until it is convenient for a tax examiner to be present after the death of the box holder.

sessed, Jean Brodie in her prime stirs up drama in her school because she not only widens her pupils' horizons but also their eyes with insinuations of her vacation romances. While her pupils are enchanted, the headmistress is not, and Miss Brodie fights for her position and her hold on the girls.

Miss Brodie's maneuvering extends to two men on the school's staff, a married art teacher with a brood of five and an unattached music teacher, with whom Miss Brodie plays a tantalizing game. The drama comes to a climax when the teacher involves her favorite pupils in her dangerous endeavors.

Collecting

with Grace Carolyn

Mrs. Ann Rebillard of Palatine has a dozen or more dogs in her home, but the neighbors don't complain about the noise, and these pets never shed. They're the breed known as Staffordshire, for the district in England where they originated. Made of earthenware, or glazed pottery, they are a popular collectible among those who wish to impart an antique flavor to their home.

Mrs. Rebillard's decor is American Primitive, and the dogs, in their earthy colors of black, russet, brown and cream, lend just exactly the right touch of antique interest.

Staffordshire spaniels were just about the biggest thing ever to come out of the kilns in England, collectible-wise. The thousand and more potteries also produced bull dogs, poodles, whippet hounds, cats, sheep, lions and other genera, but none was ever more popular and displayed in more homes than the spaniel.

THE DETACHED, soporific expressions on the faces hardly vary from dog to dog, and no matter their size, from 3½ inches to almost life-size, they are always posed on their haunches. Originally sold in pairs (one left-pawed, one right), many sets remain extant, but are more often found singly. Occasionally, silver, gold and copper lustre were used in the coloring, provided by metallic pigment in the glaze. Most dogs are properly domesticated with a collar and chain.

The same molds used by the Staffordshire potters were copied by other factories to create colors and types of earthenware figures peculiar to the local clays and glazes available. The famed Bennington and other Eastern United States potters turned out a brown colored, or Rockingham glazed dog, and Mrs. Rebillard also has one in an extremely heavy solid black pottery which has not yet been identified. Her supreme coup in collecting would be the acquisition of a Galena pottery dog, from the lead-glazed production of Western Illinois.

THE DOGS ARE just one of her fields of interest. She also collects the stone-ware jugs, crocks and bottles for which Pennsylvania, New York and other points east became so famous. These will be featured in a future column.

If you have a question or comment on antiques or collecting, please address it to Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006.

'Cowardly King' On DPTG's Stage

"The Cowardly King" will premiere the end of March as Des Plaines Theatre Guild steps into children's theater.

The debut performance of "The Cowardly King" is Saturday, March 27. Written and directed by Ed Sauer, the show is filled with mystery and intrigue enacted by a cast of courtly comics who specialize in nonsense conversation.

Playwright Sauer, a Guild member since the theater group was initiated 25 years ago, has written about a king, played by Terence Domschke, who brandishes a magic sword to hide a coward's heart.

Invasion is threatened, so the king assembles his royal court, which consists of Kathy Hugo, Sandy Kolton, Mark Schellenberger, Vince Connolly, Marshall Kievet and Margie Douglas.

Their efforts to save the kingdom are hampered by Lord High Muckety Muck, the Secretary of Things and Sinus and Minus. The roles are played by Jim Esposito, Ken Johnson, Brad Wolf and Mike Morrison.

The Villain and spies are portrayed by Larry Potesta, Laura Bazell and Brenda Renbarger.

In addition to two performances March 27, "The Cowardly King" will also be staged Sunday, March 28. Reservations, 298-1211.

FROM THE COLLECTION in the Palatine home of Mrs. Ann Rebillard, these Staffordshire earthenware dogs are a popular collectible for those who favor the antique look in their decor.

Collecting Coins

by Mont Reed

If everything that has ever been said about U.S. coins were to be written in one treatise the space occupied by the three-cent coin would be less than that devoted to the two-cent piece. It had a life span of only nine years compared with 22 for the silver and 24 for the nickel three-cent coins.

A careful market analysis immediately rejects any idea that this lack of acknowledgment is due to the unpopularity of the coin. Quite to the contrary. Wise collector/investors are seldom swayed by rave notices and consequently both types of the three-cent piece maintain a respected position in serious collections.

When Congress reduced the postage rate in 1851 from five to three cents, small change lighter than six copper half-cents with a total weight of 504 grains or three large-cents with a similar weight was necessary to facilitate the sale of postage.

The silver three-cent piece measuring 9/16-inch in diameter and weighing 12 3/8 grains was authorized March 3, 1851, and discontinued 22 years later on Feb. 12, 1873.

It was the smallest and thinnest coin ever minted by the United States with a composition of 90 per cent silver and 10 per cent copper and a legal tender limit of 30 cents.

In all there were less than 43 million pieces struck, with 36 million-plus issued during the first three years; less than 6 1/4 million the next nine years and only 77,790 during the last 11 years.

With the advent of a nickel-copper composition as a likely substitute for copper and silver in our minor coinage, Congress authorized replacing the silver three-cent piece with a similar denomination of 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel on May 3, 1865. It measured 11/16-inch in diameter, exactly that of our present dime and weighed 30 grains, still considerably less than six half-cents from 1866 dies, the entire series was issued uninterrupted from 1865 to 1869.

LEAVING THE biography of the three-cent piece for a while let's take a look at the investment potential of the nickel piece in that series. Since each issue was coined at the Philadelphia mint, a number of proofs also were issued for each year. Proofs only were issued in 1877, a total of 24 pieces from 1865 to 1869.

In 1951 all 24 specimens could have been purchased for less than $315. Holding, on the long-term period, by 1961 this set was worth $1,100, a gain of approximately 249 per cent.

Today's national average shows a 24-piece set of Proof three-cent nickel coins with a retail value of $2,393, a gain of roughly 660 per cent for a 20-year investment.

Among some of the better-known numismatic investment firms, some feel there are many so-called "sleepers" in U.S. coinage dated from 1850 to date. In my opinion several of those sleepers may be found in the three-cent series alone.

or three large-cents. But its legal tender limit was reduced to 25 cents.

Both the silver and nickel pieces were designed by James Longacre and, as with many of his other works, his daughter Sarah posed for Liberty on the latter coin.

Flood Filmstrip Set At Church

"Cataclysm From Space, 2800 B.C." is the title of a new color filmstrip to be shown at a Sunday evening service, Feb. 28, of the Church of Christian Liberty of Prospect Heights. The filmstrip, recently produced in California, is a condensation of the material presented in a book by Donald Patten entitled, "The Biblical Flood And The Ice Epoch."

According to the Rev. Paul Lindstrom, pastor, "The viewer is presented with overwhelming evidence that the Biblical story of a world-wide flood in the time of Noah, far from being an impossible myth, is an accurate historical account of an event that really happened." Continuing, Lindstrom said "The film presentation is of interest to young and old and definitely contains some of the most startling scientific concepts of the 20th century."

The 58 minute filmstrip will begin at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary of the church, 203 E. McDonald, Prospect Heights. The public is invited.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My brain scan, EEG (electroencephalogram or brain wave) and pneumoencephalogram all turned out O.K. My doctors tell me I have epilepsy. How is this possible?

Dear Reader — It is. The common form of epilepsy is diagnosed on the basis of history of the seizures and surrounding events. The seizure is really caused by an electrical storm in the brain. The normal brain activity is disrupted and confused signals are sent out all over the body. The nerve impulses stimulate the muscles to contract, causing convulsions.

In some cases the brain puts out high voltage signals that are typical of a person who has seizures. The EEG is very helpful in spotting these cases. However, in as many as 25 per cent of the people with epilepsy the brain waves may be entirely normal between attacks. This is why EEGs are often repeated and additional procedures added to the test to try to evoke the abnormal electrical activity of the brain. Clearly, you must be one of the 25 per cent with a normal wave pattern.

A brain scan is a test using radioisotopes. By counting the density of radioactivity over the brain, a map of activity is formed. The doctor is looking for an abnormal area where the density of the count is changed. In this way he might be able to spot a tumor or mass of any type in the brain which could be a cause for the epilepsy. Obviously, in your case the test didn't suggest that you have a tumor.

A PNEUMOENCEPHALOGRAPHY is a test performed by injecting a gas to outline the anatomy of the brain. This test is used, too, in a search for a brain tumor or other abnormality in the structure of the brain. Again, you had no evidence of this.

The end result is that some rather sophisticated tests failed to show any structural damage to your brain or evidence of a brain tumor and your brain wave is fairly typical of about one in four patients who have epilepsy.

Now my comments do not mean you have epilepsy. Obviously, your doctor has made this diagnosis on much more information than was included in your letter — (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

North's three-heart bid was a limit raise. His hand was worth 12 points in support of hearts and he wanted to be in game unless his partner had a rock-bottom minimum. South's hand was far from it! In fact it was almost strong enough for an opening force. South checked for aces and bid six hearts after finding one missing.

He ruffed the second spade and played his ace of trumps. He was going to claim if both opponents followed, but West was unkind enough to discard a spade. South paused to study the future play.

There is a special kind of bridge player's astigmatism that causes them to overlook the possibilities of the dummy and concentrate on their own cards. If South had this disease he would have worked on the club suit by leading to the ace, returning to the king and ruffing. East would overruff and return a diamond whereupon South would go down two tricks and complain of bad luck.

South didn't fall into this trap. Instead he looked at dummy's diamonds. South cashed the ace and king, entered dummy with the ace of clubs and played the queen of diamonds.

This left East stone-cold dead in the market. If he ruffed, South would overruff; draw trumps with one left in dummy; cash the king of clubs; ruff another club with dummy's last trump and make the last two tricks with the last two diamonds. If East didn't ruff, South would continue the diamond parade until all losing clubs had been thrown away and then finesse against the jack of trumps. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The Lighter Side

What? No Sex At All?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A couple of years ago I interviewed a movie director about the difficulty of thinking up new ways to film love scenes.

With the collapse of censorship, he pointed out, the average scenario began to include at least a dozen big love scenes, the more explicit the better. But after approximately the eighth chukker, even that sort of thing tends to become monotonous.

It is up to the director to forestall tedium by varying the format. No matter how ingenious he may be, however, by the time he has made three or four pictures of that ilk, he is likely to arrive at wit's end.

WELL, IF YOU think that director had problems, wait until I tell you about another movie figure I encountered recently — Tom Carlisle, associate producer of a new epic titled "Waterloo."

By dint of adroit questioning, I was able to worm out of Carlisle the information that "Waterloo" has one of its principal characters the late Napoleon Bonaparte.

Now the typical reaction of a moviegoer upon learning that someone has made a film about Napoleon is to smite his forehead and cry "Oh, no, no, not again!"

For the latest census shows there have been no less than 63 screen epics centered upon this diffident French emperor.

AS A MOVIE fare, then, Napoleon is almost as repetitious as sex. So I asked Carlisle what artifices had been devised to keep "Waterloo" audiences from becoming satiated.

"For one thing," he replied, "our Napoleon never once during the entire picture sticks his hand inside his tunic."

"And that isn't all," Carlisle continued. "The role of Napoleon in this picture is played by Rod Steiger, who is nearly 6 feet tall."

"Wait. There's more," Carlisle said. "In several of the scenes we show Napoleon wearing granny glasses."

My jaw must have dropped 10 feet. "Talk about originality!" I said. "I can hardly wait to see how you handled the love scenes."

"That's the most innovative touch of all," Carlisle said. "There aren't any."

Do-It-Yourself

Anyone can put together a good, basic assortment of tools. It isn't the tools that mark the good home repair man — it's the odds and ends of material that are the gauge of his experience.

Just as the woman of the house learns to hang on to buttons, pins and odds and ends of cloth, so does the man of the house learn to squirrel away an assortment of junk into which he delves during a crisis.

The garden hose that is no longer worth mending, for example. Don't throw it away. When you bind young trees to stakes driven in the ground slipping wire through a piece of hose will keep it from cutting through the tree. Slip a piece of hose over the narrow tip of a hose nozzle when you wash the car and you won't scratch the paint if you get too close.

Slit a length of hose and nail it to the bottom of an overhead garage door. It will absorb the shock when the door hits the cement and will serve as makeshift but perfectly adequate weatherstripping.

AND WHAT ABOUT wire? Next time you snip a piece of wire that was baled around a carton or bundle, coil it carefully and put it away. After you have finished a housewiring job, save the odds and ends of wire. You will find wire handy for mending and fastening. If there is to be a strain on it, use steel rather than copper wire. You will find wire useful in the garden. Electric wire with insulation is great for tying up plants. So are the paper-covered wires that keep bread bags closed.

Are there a few bricks around the yard? Don't toss them in the rubbish. Place a couple in the trunk of your car. They're handy for blocking wheels while you change a tire. Set garbage cans up on bricks to keep them from standing on moist ground and rusting.

If you are lucky enough to have acquired something that came in burlap bags, hang on to the bags. Use them in the garden to fill with leaves, debris or even top soil. Cut them into strips and bind the trunks of young tree to protect them from cold weather and the teeth of small animals.

Old bedspreads and sheets can double as tarpaulins for such jobs as piling on leaves to be gathered and hauled away. An old bedspread or a large sheet of cardboard can substitute for a tarp when you dig a hole and you want to pile the dirt on something so that it doesn't ruin the grass. Eventually, you will want to acquire a good tarp.

Has a tree been cut down in your yard or nearby? Get a section of the trunk and save it for a chopping block. Then you can use your ax or hatchet properly when the time comes.

YOUR WIFE probably has a collection of old jars with lids on them. Use them for such small items as nuts, bolts, screws, washers.

Coffee cans with replaceable plastic lids are great for nails and longer bolts and screws. Use cans for cleaning paint brushes. Fill with solvent and allow the brushes to soak.

Every house should have a small lumber pile. It consists of whatever you can scrounge or salvage. Avoid rotted pieces and wood with rusty nails. Knock apart wooden crates, remove nails and bolts and store. The wood may come in handy for small repair jobs, tomato stakes or even a little rough carpentry.

March Madness—Best Time Of Year

IT STARTED on a smaller scale this week with the districts.

Next week communities throughout Illinois put their hometown pennants in the hands of youngsters who can, by winning, establish beyond question who is most blessed in all of Lincolnland, the finest high school basketball team in Illinois.

For these few weeks at least, basketball has taken over the country club set in Flossmoor and the politically motivated in the state capital. As if by royal decree, everyone MUST have a favorite.

Overemphasized? Perhaps, but this is the way the people of Illinois want it. The state basketball tournament, starting with the districts and regionals, is the talk of housewives over the telephones and businessmen who can't afford to waste the time.

Most of all, March Madness provides an outlet, a chance to let off steam.

For the players it is something different. For many seniors, it is the end of a regimented way of life. Some will never play before large crowds again.

But during the time they competed, they have learned the taste of true competition without regard for race, color or religion. They have learned what pressure can do to an individual, and how to take a blow and bounce back.

And the teenager who was the hero against LaGrange or York or Joliet Central or the leader of the rally against Galesburg or Benton may discover the real fickleness of Lady Luck.

Pressure! You have to experience the gnawing, muscle-tightening feeling to know what it can do. And after each regional win, after each advance on the tourney ladder, that pressure builds to unbelievable heights in this most emotional of all sports.

There isn't a sports event, amateur or professional, that I look forward to as much as this Illinois high school basketball tournament.

I've seen every state tournament since 1952, the year tiny Hebron dazzled everyone. I can't wait for this one.

I still remember the excitement that surrounded Hebron's drive to the championship, that thrilling overtime victory over Quincy. I remember driving up to the tiny McHenry county town and joining with 5,000 fans on a frigid Sunday to welcome home the champs.

That's what's so great about high school basketball. You can enjoy state tournament play long after your own favorite has been eliminated because you develop, even seek, a knowledge of the many teams throughout the state.

I remember driving to the Joliet Sectional in 1963 and watching LaGrange and Ted Calaza dump Kankakee and Harv Schmidt, 83-74, in a battle of the unbeaten, the 1-2 ranked teams in Illinois. Nobody stopped LaGrange that year. No team came closer than nine points. They were superb, maybe the best ever with that bench of theirs.

I can remember watching DuSable in 1964 and wondering if there had been a classier starting five in Illinois basketball history. And then I remember the shock as I watched a surprising Mt. Vernon team, with two crack guards in Al Avant and Donnie Richards, take care of DuSable, 76-70, in Champaign. I lost a few coins on that one.

Who can forget those great Rockford West teams with Nolden Gentry and Johnny Wesels rolling to the 1955-56 championships, or the surprise when Herrin and John Tidwell dumped touted Collinsville and Terry Bethel for the 1957 title.

I remember the dominance by George Wilson and Marshall of Chicago in 1958 and '60, with a surprise by Springfield sandwiched between, and the sheer power of Collinsville in 1961 with Bogie Redmon, Fred Riddle and company.

Mid Suburban Showdown Night

Playoffs! Prospect Hosts Hersey

by HERALD SPORTS STAFF
Not even the Civil War saw the North defeat the South so decisively as what has happened so far in Mid-Suburban League divisional play.

The North Division has blasted the South in 22 out of the 25 meetings and, going on this past record, some oddsmakers will probably see tonight's division playoffs going about the same way.

However, all the games — which determine the final standings in the MSL — will be played at South arenas. The southern schools would like nothing better than to win the final battles.

Heading into the 8 p.m. showdowns, Hersey has the most to lose of the North teams. The Huskies, 12-1 in the league, must go against Prospect, 9-4. The Knights, losers to each of the top three North teams, have the fourth best record in the league. Nevertheless, a victory tonight would make them the No. 1 team.

The rest of the battles for the third through 10th positions will go like this:

Conant (7-6) will host Wheeling (11-2) for third place, Arlington (10-3) will be at Glenbard North (4-9) for fifth place, Fremd (6-7) will be the guest of Forest View (3-10) in the race for seventh and Elk Grove (1-12) will host Palatine (2-11) for ninth.

HERSEY AT PROSPECT

The Huskies and the Knights just met two weeks ago in a very closely contested game. Although Hersey coach Roger Steingraber saw his team win, 77-71, he isn't too anxious to return to the same gym, against the same team with the MSL title in the balance.

"I like it from the position we're in," says Bill Slayton, Prospect's coach about the playoff system. "Now, if I was in Hersey's position, it might be a different story."

The first meeting saw both Hersey's Andy Pancratz, a 6-8 junior center, and Mike Frase, a quick, playmaking guard, in foul trouble most of the game. "I really don't think we'll get them in the foul situation they were in the last time," says Slayton.

However, if the Huskies lose their big pivotman part of the game on fouls, Steingraber can send in another still growing giant — 6-7 freshman Dave Corzine.

The key to a Prospect upset rests in the play of the two muscle men on the boards — 6-5 Dave Lundstedt and 6-3 Mike Korf. "I think we'll have to rebound a little better and play our game the way we're capable of playing," says Slayton. That means a lot running if the big boys can clean the boards.

The Huskies will be hoping to control the rebounds with Pancratz and John Tilton, 6-4.

Two of the top scorers in the league will also demand some of the spotlight — Pancratz and Casey Rush, also No. 1 in assists.

WHEELING AT CONANT

These two teams also had a very close game last month with the Wildcats escaping with a 51-49 victory.

However, during the last month the Wildcats of Coach Ted Eckert have shown the most improvement of any team in the MSL. They demolished a pretty good Glenbard North team on Tuesday, 98-54, and appear on their way to a strong finish in the state playoffs.

Conant coach Dick Redlinger is hoping that the 'Cats are thinking more about their own regional tourney next week than their meeting with the Cougars. Just a slight looking ahead could be all the edge the Cougars might need for an upset.

The brawny Cougar front line will really have its work cut out for itself in 6-11 Roger Wood. The big guy has the second best scoring average in the league and can hit inside and out. Right with him in the lofty 20-plus points per game category is his little runningmate, Mike Groot. Both are capable of gunning nearly any team to death.

Hoping to offset this duo's scoring will be the twosome of Dave Irion and John Macdonald, Conant's leading scorers.

ARLINGTON AT GLENBARD NORTH

The Cardinals of Coach George Zigman have got to be the MSL's question mark team. One game they look great, another they either just manage to win or lose. Zigman is hoping to finish as high as possible in the league and then salvage the rest of the season with a good tournament showing.

Arlington can't afford to look ahead to the regionals for the Panthers, smarting from the Wheeling beating, could gain a lot of prestige by winning.

However, if John Brodhan's ankle is healthy, an upset isn't too likely. Brodhan leads the league in scoring and could crack the 1,000 mark in career scoring with a 29-point effort. He's also just 26 points away from bettering George Boik's school record for a single season.

FREM'D AT FOREST VIEW

The Falcons will be out to end the Vikings' streak and the latter will be hoping to keep it perfect. The streak — Fremd is 4-0 at the Forest View gym while the Falcons have always won at Fremd.

Viking coach Leon Kasuboske's team has won twice as many league games although the season has been an up and down affair. Ken Arneson's Falcons started out the season with plenty of inexperienced players. They've shown signs of improvement recently and should be tougher this time around.

PALATINE AT ELK GROVE

Although these two teams only have three MSL wins between them, they've been playing better ball of late.

Palatine, besides beating Glenbard North, has a 66-60 victory over the Grove earlier this season. The Grenadiers' only success has been over Forest View on a last second shot.

Both teams have some fine young performers with Bob Prince of Elk Grove and Jim Staumer of Palatine topping the underclassman list. One thing's for certain, the two teams will have four wins between them after tonight.

Swimmers Head To State Finals

by JIM COOK

The state swimming meet at Evanston High School today and tomorrow promises to be a close shave — at least for the seven area individuals and two relay teams that have qualified for the elite competition.

According to Steve Borowski, who will guide three members and a relay quartet from his St. Viator breeding grounds, his boys will completely shave their legs, arms and chests in preparation for the "no tomorrow" showdown.

"This procedure makes their skin receptor cells super-sensitive and gives them a feeling of being much more streamlined," Borowski said. "The tingling sensation gives them a better feeling of the water."

Coaches Gordon Ankerman of Forest View and Arlington's Don Anderson are expected to follow suit. Falcon hopes rest on the shoulders of a pair of individuals and a relay entry while the Cards will challenge with a trio of qualifiers.

With such an outstanding crop of performers representing the area, both spirits and expectations are running high.

The state-qualifiers include Bill Geiser, Jeff Iversen, Randy Robertson and the relay foursome of Ed Fitzsimons, Mark Savage, Iversen and Geiser from St. Viator.

Forest View has Scott Patience, John Mate and a freestyle relay of Mark Bailey, Fred Westdale, Mate and Patience waiting in the wings for the preliminaries to begin at 1 p.m. It's the first chance for the Falcons to score points in the meet.

Arlington, meanwhile, has only scored points once in the state meet, but have an excellent chance this time around with Steve Jurco, Tom Rowe and Jeff Thieman capable of producing.

The 200-yard freestyle event will draw the largest area turnout as Geiser, Iversen and Jurco all earned a place on the

FINE REBUILDING JOB

Dear Sirs:

I was recently looking at an autographed 1969-70 Chicago Bulls basketball. There are 13 players' signatures. Of these, only six are still on the present team. The players gone are Clem Haskins, Bob Kauffman, Shafer Hallman, Ed Manning and Walt Wesley. Loy Peterson and Ken Spain were not with the club all last season. Partially, the Bulls' success this season should be attributed to General Manager Pat Williams and his staff. They have obtained Jimmy Fox and a new starter, Matty Goukas. He also obtained superstars Bob Love and Chet Walker before last season. The Bulls may not make the playoffs this season as they did last year, but they are a much-improved team.

Ed Cellot

Your letter was received before last weekend when the Bulls rammed the Detroit Pistons twice to move into a solid hold on second place. We agree that Williams has done a tremendous job in re-viving the franchise since his arrival in September, 1969. Playoffs, here we come! — Paul Logan

CUB STATISTICS DECEIVING?

Dear Sirs:

Statistics may not lie, but sometimes they can be deceiving. Good examples are Ferguson Jenkins and Ron Santo of the Cubs.

Jenkins has signed for close to $100,000 and Santo makes more than $80,000 a year. The chief arguments for these inflated salaries are that Jenkins has won 20 or more games four years in a row and Santo last year had 114 runs batted in and led the Cubs in "game-winning" hits.

What fans often fail to realize is the large number of losses Jenkins also has over those four years. In that time there is just one National League pitcher who has lost more games. And his earned-run average, while not bad, is not worthy of 100 grand. He is admittedly one of the finest pitchers in the game, but the $100,000 plateau is getting much too common and should be reserved only for bona fide superstars.

As for Santo, many of his so-called "game-winning" hits are not clutch hits. These two terms are not the same as many people falsely assume. For example, a hit driving in the third run in the second inning in an ultimate 12-2 victory is classified as a game-winning hit. Is it a clutch hit? Many of Santo's are of this variety. And his RBI total looks good only because he comes to bat with so many men on base. We never hear how many runners he strands — which is a lot.

These two, especially Santo, are not nearly as valuable as many think and their salaries are ridiculous. Besides, they are both touchy and temperamental and Jenkins talks like a prima donna, not a man whose first interest is in his team.

Bruce Gast
Des Plaines

Deception, in this case, is an understatement. While you failed to mention the importance of Santo's "Golden Glove" and the occasional productivity of Jenkins' bat, the robust number of six-figure salaries is getting to be a joke. And with P. K. Wrigley willing to stand pat with his consolation winners for another year, the price of gum may climb to a dime by the All-Star break! — Jim Cook

FIGHTING NECESSARY?

Dear Sirs:

Your writer Larry Everhart has proven that he knows very little about hockey.

There is no way a person can say hockey is why "we have become a violent, angry society of killers and haters." Mr. Everhart points out cries of protest like, "You can't back down in this league or they'll push you around." This statement is false. They'll push you right out of a job.

Hockey fights have nothing to do with the war in Vietnam. I have never heard of boxing having to do with a war. In this sport the combatants are paid a million dollars for one fight. Nowhere in the NHL will you find a player who is paid like that.

In a sport where players are moving at 25 miles per hour with sharp skates and what Mr. Everhart would call a sphere, a hard rubber disk moving at speeds exceeding 125 miles per hour, something has to give. The temper is the easiest thing for a human being to lose control of.

When Mr. Everhart said, "Kids are taught to drop gloves at the first hint of trouble because they see their idols doing it," this proved he doesn't know hockey. . . (In youth leagues) if gloves are dropped the boy is immediately removed from that game. If it happens more than

Rolling Meadows

Your points are well taken, but I still hold to my original position.

I think there is a very real connection between the war and hockey fighting, though it may be hard to understand. Every example of violence helps shape the ways of our country. Our Vietnam policy was not shaped by any one man at any one time. Collectively, we feel we can solve differences with other nations on the battlefield instead of the conference room, just as we feel we can solve smaller differences (like those in hockey) physically.

I feel if it is necessary to continually and brutally fight to hold a job in hockey, that job is not worth it. If league officials cracked down enough to make all players change their attitudes, and if amateur and pro players would decide that fighting is not worth playing, fights would be less common and the game would be less dangerous.

My column dealt with hockey only, but I feel boxing is also ridiculous and not worth the danger involved in most cases. The income of top boxers is far beyond reason.

I have been an avid hockey fan for years and realize that a puck is not a sphere. This was a slip of the typewriter (maybe from writing about too many ball games!)

I was not aware of any leagues having a rule to eject players who drop gloves and doubt that all of them have this policy. I applied the ones which do. Unfortunately, there is no such rule in the NHL.

You think hockey players don't also "hurt each other's jobs and ways of income?" How about the many players who miss games, in part or entirely, from injuries incurred while fighting? The less they play, the less they help their team and the less money they make. What about Teddy Green of the Boston Bruins who underwent brain surgery and was in critical condition after a sick fight in 1969?

Fights may be fun to watch, but there are many amusing pastimes that are not safe or right. — Larry Everhart

HASBACH: HERALD TOPS

Dear Sirs:

I would like to thank you for the fine job you do in covering high school sports. My mother still sends me the sports sections so I can keep up with what's going on. My friends here that see the paper can't believe the coverage you give. They've never seen anything like it. They are especially impressed by the pictures.

I think the fans in the Paddock area shouldn't be so concerned about what page their story is on or how many words it has. They should be thankful the story does appear. Not everybody is so fortunate as to have a paper such as the Herald to cover their high school sports so thoroughly.

Thanks again for doing a great job!
Dave Hasbach

Dave, your comments are appreciated. As the area grows, the demands of the job grow. We welcome constructive criticism, a newspaper profits by it, but it's also nice, and refreshing, to receive a letter like this one. Thanks. — Herald Sports Staff.

Zikes Cashes Again

Les Zikes, Palatine resident and manager of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, finished 28th in the Winston-Salem Classic last week.

Zikes, who finished just ahead of the fourth leading money winner on the tour — Don Johnson, cashed for $550. He knocked down 4894 points en route to his 24-game finish.

Further information concerning the specialty show and luncheon may be obtained by calling Irene Johnson, co-chairman of the publicity committee, at 438-7280.

Denny's Different?

"Dennis McLain still has got to be Dennis McLain," says the former 31-game winner. However, McLain is in a different uniform and under a new manager which many feel will change him.

"Ted Williams is the way all men would like to be," says McLain. "I see so many qualities of his I'd like to have. He generates excitement on the ball club. He excites me, too."

Horseman's Meeting

The Land of Lincoln Junior Horseman's Association will hold its February meeting at the Jayne farm in Elgin. The meeting will start at 1 p.m. on Sunday.

Free Throw Champ

Don't foul Greg Starrick. After 19 games this season, Starrick — former Marion Ill. star — has converted 106 of 114 free throws for an amazing .930 percentage. This is better than twice as good as his field goal percentage (.425).

Starrick, who easily leads the nation in foul shooting accuracy, is the top scorer at Southern Illinois University with a 22.8 average.

Grand Slam Gehrig

The Yankees' Lou Gehrig holds the major league career record of 23 grand slam home runs.

Harper Wrestlers Battle For Spots In Nationals

by PAUL LOGAN

Just a year ago the Region IV wrestling meet was the first big step toward an individual national championship for a Harper College wrestler — Tom Neuses.

Tonight and Saturday's matches at the Triton College hosted regional could be the same stepping stones for three more Hawks — Tom Moore, Mike Weber and Scott Ravan.

Coach Ron Bessemer labels this trio his best chances for taking firsts in the meet. And anyone who finishes No. 1 in his weight in this regional — probably the toughest in the nation — has to be given a good chance of placing high in the nationals in Worthington, Minn.

Moore, a freshman who prepped at Forest View, is undefeated at 134: Mike Weber, a former Arlington wrestler, is also a freshman and wrestles at 150: Ravan, a freshman from Barrington, will be going at 177 and has been beaten only once.

These Hawks and their teammates will be going up against competitors from 22 schools located in both Illinois and parts of Wisconsin. Hosting Triton College and Blackhawk College are the co-favorites to win the team title.

"Kennedy-King College will be well represented," said Bessemer. "So will Lake County and ourselves. We hope to finish in the top five and hope that we do very well individually."

Bessemer labeled Mike Squires, just back from a bout with mononucleosis as being the "dark horse" at 158 pounds. "That's the toughest weight class of the tournament with the national champion returning."

Also hoping to land one of the top three qualifying spots in the two-day meet will be these Hawk grapplers:

Lynch, Ancona and Emery have just gotten over a siege with the flu and might not be strong enough for the tough two days ahead.

The first session starts this afternoon at 3:00 with the Saturday sessions beginning at noon and 6 p.m. Triton College is located in River Grove.

At Beverly Lanes

The Outcasts had a 1711 handicap series for the best team performance in the Paddock Publications Friday Night mixed bowling league at Beverly Lanes.

The Dynamos are still leading the league by five and a half points with the Outcasts second.

Bob Reynolds has the highest average, 174, with Phil Kurth second.

The best handicap series were Marge Ferroll's 638 to take over high women's handicap for the season, Martha Koper's 574 with a 207 game, and Pat Harting's 563. High scratch marks were Ken Lynch's 547, Bob Reynolds' 572 (216 game), Phil Kurth's 572 (204 game) and Paul Logan's 213.

Girls Tie Mark, Set Two

Two records were broken and one was tied by Northwest 'Y' girls swimmers during the district preliminaries last weekend at George Williams College in Downers Grove.

Nineteen teams were entered in the district preliminaries, in which Northwest girls nabbed six out of 10 relay events and five individual events.

A new district record was set by Northwest's junior freestyle relay team of Kay Corbett, Lee Ann Doehler, Carol Gleaser and Karen Jore. Their time was 1:50.6, breaking the old record of 1:50.7 which was set by the Northwest 'Y' in 1968.

Lee Ann Doehler also set a new record in the 50-yard junior freestyle, shattering the old record by nine-tenths of a second. Lee Ann's time was 25.6 and the old record was 26.5 set by Cindy Foster of Northwest 'Y' in 1967.

Northwest's prep 200-yard medley relay squad of Joelle Fitzsimmons, Ann DiFrancesca, Cindy Antonik and Dawn Grunwald tied the district record time of 2:12.0. The record was first set by a Northwest 'Y' foursome in 1964, the oldest record in the district.

The prep freestyle relay team of Cheryl Takata, Jemma Allen, Cindy Antonik and Dawn Grunwald nabbed first place with a 1:58.8.

In the junior division first place in the 200-yard medley relay went to Sue Gragoon, Sue Stahnke, Jodi Epstein and Karen Jore with a 2:09.0 clocking.

The foursome of Mary Fitzsimmons, Janice Takata, Sue Chips and Sue Ivison took first place in the intermediate medley relay with a 2:08.6 time. In the intermediate freestyle relay first place went to Northwest with Sandy Gabler, Kathy Dalton, Barbara Volden and Sue Ivison in 1:51.6.

Cindy Antonik captured first place in the 50-yard butterfly with a 31.8 in the prep division. First place in the junior 200-yard individual medley went to Kay Corbett with a 2:34.1 clocking.

Sue Stahnke took first place in the 100-yard breaststroke with a 1:18.5 in the junior division. In the intermediate division Kathy Dalton took first place in the 50-yard freestyle with a 28.5.

The Northwest girls will advance to the district championships on March 6 at Maine South High School.

Joining Northwest in the finals will be YMCA's from Countryside, Elmhurst, Harvey, from Ridge, Hyde Park, Indian Boundary, Irving Park, Leaning Tower, Lincoln-Belmont, Mount Clare Leyden, 11th Street, Park Ridge, Ravenswood, South Chicago, Southwest, Washington Park, West Community and West Suburban.

With their fine showings in the district preliminaries, Northwest Suburban and West Suburban should prove to be among the better teams in the district finals.

Lack Of Numbers In Falcons' Track Camp

by PAUL LOGAN

Forest View could have a pretty tough season in track this year. The reason is simply a lack of numbers.

The Falcons of Coach Bill Mohrmann will be minus 13 seniors with only one letterman returning — Steve Gross, a junior pole vaulter.

"We're extremely weak on the varsity level," Mohrmann said after the Falcons' indoor track opener last weekend at Niles East. It showed in the final results: Glenbrook South 86, Niles East 34 and Forest View 19.

Forest View could manage only two firsts — Bill Bates in the 800-yard run (2:07.5) and Rich Sales in the mile run (4:53.9).

Three Falcons took third — Dean Ballotti in the high hurdles (8.7), Bates in the mile (4:58.8) and Ken Fick in the shot put (41.14).

There were also three fourth places — Scott McGovney in the two-mile run (10:42.3), Joel Soderberg in the long jump (16.3) and Ballotti in the low hurdles (8.2).

The Falcons' fresh-soph team just missed winning its meet. The final totals read Glenbrook South 52, Forest View 47 and Niles East 40. Notching firsts were Jim Wise in both the mile (5:07.5) and two-mile runs (10:44.2), Steve Balogh in the high jump and Bob Sloan in the shot put (44.2).

These are Mohrmann's top prospects: Ballotti and Bruce Lighthall in the hurdles, Sales in the mile, McGovney in the two-mile, Bates and Melone in the half-mile, and Kevin Sarai in the quarter-mile.

Mohrmann has just 15 juniors and seniors on the entire team which will make it difficult to field a strong contender in the Mid-Suburban League.

After completing the seven indoor meets, the Falcons will open the outdoor schedule on April 6 with a Thursday meet at Wheeling.

State Volleyball Finals Slated

Arlington Heights and Wheeling are two of just eight teams still alive in the state finals of the women's volleyball championships slated to begin Saturday at 1 p.m. at Arlington High School.

Both area representatives survived a round robin elimination that began with a starting field of 30 teams around the state.

Their final competition will include the likes of Oak Park, Elgin, Elmhurst, Palos Heights and Worth Palos.

Championship Set

St. Joseph will meet Holmes Jr. High for the District 21 basketball championship tonight at 7:30 at Jack London, 999 W. Dundee Road, Wheeling.

Church Basketball

St. Mark Lutheran won easily to remain in first place in the Arlington Heights - Mount Prospect Church Basketball League with seven wins in as many games.

The winners were led by Ennes, Chindand and Strasser while their victim, First Presbyterian, was paced by Frederick.

First Methodist clinched a second-place finish by defeating Southminster Presbyterian. Valentine, Kleeman and Lollar were the big guns while Romanack generated the most offense for Southminster.

Wrestlers Open In State Tourney

by LARRY EVERHART

Every high school athlete and his team dreams of being state champions, even though it's an "impossible dream" all but a tiny fraction of the time.

Since it's such a rarity to even get a shot at being recognized as the best in the state, this is a very special weekend for eight Herald area wrestlers and for Hersey's matmen as a team.

Tonight those eight will be in the big mushroom, Assembly Hall at the University of Illinois in Champaign, needing four more victories to be declared as in their weight in the Land of Lincoln.

The occasion, of course, is the 34th annual state meet to be held in four sessions. Although four more wins may not sound like a lot for boys with the highly-impressive credentials of the area's qualifiers, their competition and the pressure will probably be the greatest of their young lives.

Weights last until noon today with first round matches starting at 1:00 and second-round bouts at 7:30. After another weigh-in session Saturday (there is a two-pound allowance over regular February weight), semi-finals and wrestling-backs start at 1:00, consolation finals at 6:00 and championships at 7:30.

All but one of those still alive from the Herald area have over 20 wins for the season and their combined record is a gaudy 191-27.

Morris (Elk Grove), 18-6; Tim Tuerk (Fremd), 25-4; and Mike Beard (Wheeling), 22-4.

Smith, a 126-pounder, not only has the best record but is the only one of this group who captured a sectional championship last weekend. The others were consolation winners, though they all were district champs.

Hersey, with its vaunted trio, has an outside shot at the team title, though East Aurora is the favorite.

"We have a possible chance to take it," says Huskie coach Tom Porter. "I've seen a team take it with only two qualifiers."

"East Aurora probably has the best chance, because they have five guys in it and they come from a very tough sectional."

Has the state meet been Hersey's goal all season? "No question about it," says

Porter. "All three of them are capable of going all the way with a little luck."

In protecting his perfect state, Smith was a champion in the West Leyden sectional to lead Hersey to second place. Beard was second in his own fair at the Wheeling sectional and the others all were second at West Leyden.

Smith was not seriously threatened in storming to his title, sandwiching a 7-0 whitewash between pins in 2:26 and 3:06. Making it as far as championship bouts before falling were Beam, Battaglia, Morris and Tuerk. The others lost in either the first or second round before battling to the top of the wrestle-back column.

Seven of the 12 weight classes will have representatives from the Herald area, with an emphasis on lighter classes. One category, 98 pounds, will have two locals — Dal Campo and Beard. Beam is at 105, Battaglia at 119, Smith at 126, Morris at 132, Deluca at 145 and Tuerk at heavyweight.

How they fare in the biggest tests of their lives in the next two days will be told in Monday's Herald.

Grade School Basketball Facts

A balanced scoring attack and a fine defensive effort helped the St. Joseph sixth grade Chancers to a 24-21 win over St. Mary of Buffalo Grove for the tournament championship of the St. Joseph Classic.

A full house at Holmes Junior High saw the Chancers move to an early lead which they never gave up. Jim Eaton and Jeff Passolt led the victors with six points each. St. Mary's Bob Mason was high man for the losers with five points. It was the 14th straight win for St. Joe.

To gain a berth in the finals, St. Joseph beat Sacred Heart 24-16. St. Mary topped St. Raymond 18-12 for its bid at the title.

The five boys named to the all-tournament team were: Tom Lindholm, St. Mary of Buffalo Grove center; John Brian, Sacred Heart of Winnetka forward; Brian Rogutsky, St. Joseph of Wheeling forward; Jim Passolt, St. Joseph of Wheeling guard; and Ken Anderson, St. Raymond of Mount Prospect guard.

Anderson was the tournament's high scorer with 47 points in his four games.

Before a capacity crowd at Carmel High School in Mundelein, Mike Brzuszkiewicz led St. Joseph of Wheeling to its 50th victory of the season and the championship of the Carmel Junior High tournament. The six-foot Wheeling center controlled both backboards and ripped the nets for 26 points. He was the unanimous choice of the tournament committee for the most valuable player award.

In the semi-finals St. Joseph defeated Transfiguration of Wauvonda, 28-21. Brzuszkiewicz and Ed Krupiec led the winners with 21 and 10 points, respectively.

With the regular season now completed, playoff games will begin this weekend in Northwest Catholic Athletic Conference basketball action.

In varsity (eighth grade) play St. Theresa and St. Raymond were undisputed champions of the North and South Divisions, respectively.

On the junior varsity (seventh grade) level, St. Hubert won the North and Our Lady of the Wayside and St. Raymond tied for the South crown.

It was unanimously agreed upon by the executive board to declare Wayside and St. Raymond co-champions of the South. Each team will be awarded a first place trophy. The playoff spot was decided by a coin flip with Wayside winning. This method was agreed upon by the board and also the coaches of the two teams involved.

Here is the playoff schedule:
SATURDAY, FEB. 27
Junior Varsity — Game 1, St. Hubert vs. St. Raymond, 12 noon; Game 2, St. Theresa vs. Our Lady of the Wayside, 1:15.

Varsity — Game 3, St. Theresa vs. St. James, 3:45; Game 4, St. Thomas vs. St. Raymond, 5:00.

SUNDAY, FEB. 28
Junior Varsity — Loser Game 1 vs. Winner Game 2, 12:00; Winner Game 1 vs. Winner Game 2, 1:15.

Varsity — Game 5, St. Theresa vs. St. James, 3:45; Winner Game 3 vs. Winner Game 4, 5:00.

Junior varsity cheerleading will be held from 3:30 to 3:50 Saturday and varsity cheerleading at the same time Sunday.

In final varsity games, Our Lady of the Wayside defeated St. Colette 77-49. St. James beat St. Hubert 64-31. St. Theresa edged St. Alphonsus 47-45 and St. Emily downed St. Anne 41-26.

In junior varsity contests it was Wayside over St. Colette 27-13. St. Hubert over St. James 31-28. St. Theresa over St. Alphonsus 40-21. And St. Emily over St. Anne 24-17.

Schaumburg Bows In District Play

by KEITH REINHARD

Height.

In a word, this prompted the demise of Schaumburg's basketball team for 1971.

It could have been regarded as a case of too much height in Immaculate Conception. It could have been viewed as a case of not enough height in the Saxons. The size difference, at any rate, was the most apparent advantage flaunted by the Knights as they disposed of Schaumburg in district case action at Fenton Wednesday evening 75-49.

The young and lanky sample from Elm-hurst portrayed their ample size into a strong rebounding edge and pulled away from John Paul's club right at the starting gate to advance to the finals of the five-team tournament. They'll play the winner of a Fenton-Timothy Christian tilt Friday night for the right to move up to regional play at Prospect next week.

"Their height hurt us tremendously," Paul conceded afterwards. "We knew this was one of things we had to overcome if we wanted to make a ballgame of it. I thought we did well in other areas, but they had just a little bit too much overall size for us to contend with around the boards."

The result was a 49-23 IC edge in the rebounding department. That allowed them to get off nearly 30 more shots than the Saxons and was especially effective in gaining them the easier, inside second shots at their own bucket.

"Their fast start also allowed them to play the kind of loose style that's tough to overcome," Paul continued. "When you're relaxed you don't make as many mistakes, something we bank on to counter our own lack of height."

The Knights jumped into a 16-7 first period lead and behind the marksmanship of 6-6 junior Brian Zalatel along with the solid floor game of sophomore Tom Doyle were able to pad their advantage by another nine points before halftime.

Immaculate Conception also held a pronounced 24-6 rebound edge at intermission and had launched 30 shots to 17 for the Saxons.

"That Doyle youngster also hurt us a lot. We did a pretty fair job of holding him in offensively but he still made the rest of the team run. He found the kids who were open with his passes and kept their attack running smoothly."

One other discouraging factor for Saxons fans was the off night at the free throw line exhibited by their squad. Schaumburg connected on just a little more than half of their charity pitches and lost several 1-1 possibilities on the first effort.

The combination of missed Saxon gratis pitches and IC rebounding proved especially disastrous midway through period two when Schaumburg was still within rally's reach of the enemy.

Paul's alignment noted only one point for three trips to the line and the opposition hauled in all three of the missed attempts and converted them into Knight buckets during one span.

The score was 28-13 at the time but might have been trimmed to as tight as 28-21 with the help of those free throw conversions. Instead Zalatel plunked in three in a row, Doyle added a 15 footer, and at halftime the score board read 36-18.

Dave Merrigan came off the bench to supply some point power for the Saxons in the second half and Marty Hjertstedt sparked an attack that continued to remain aggressive even as IC was pulling away.

"The kids never did give up. They've been like that all season and it's to their credit that in their first varsity game — tonight — they turned in a respectable performance against a good club that's been playing varsity ball all season."

Zalatel garnered game scoring honors at 18 while John Blasco paced Schaumburg with 16 and Hjertstedt added 16 more in a losing cause. The Saxons wound up their first campaign with a 9-12 overall record.

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. UPI — Ted Williams likes kids. He's never going to knock or criticize them because he has a long memory and remembers how people had a habit of wagging their finger at him when he was one.

Ted Williams' eyes are still good. He notices what's going on. He sees a great many of today's kids taking the easy way out. Even when it comes to choosing a career in professional sports. He sees it because so many are going for football and basketball instead of baseball the way they used to do 25-30 years ago.

"A kid who goes into baseball today has to have more love for that sport than for almost anything else in the world," said the Washington manager nibbling on a slice of carrot in his trailer type office after putting his Senators through a 2½ hour workout.

"Anybody who has a chance to make it in basketball, football or baseball usually goes for basketball or football," Williams went on. "Why? Because baseball is the hardest one of them all in which to become recognized or excel in. A football player doesn't have to do as many things well as a baseball player."

Specifically what did Williams mean? "You take this Conka with the Miami Dolphins," he said biting off another piece of carrot. "He can go through that panning over there. He's so big and strong there isn't anybody who can stop him. Alcinder is another good example. With all that height he has who can possibly take the ball away from him? I think from the minute he first entered UCLA it was a foregone conclusion he was gonna make it with the pros."

Ted Williams has a son. His name is John Henry and he's going on three years old. Somebody in the room asked the Washington manager if he'd like his boy to become a professional baseball player. Williams smiled.

"My boy is throwing a tennis ball around now," he said. "But would you like to see him become a professional baseball player?"

"The first thing I'm gonna get him is a five-iron," Williams said.

"A what?"

"A five-iron," Williams repeated. "I want him to be a singer or a golfer where he can't get hurt and still make a lotta money."

"You'd really like your son to be a singer?"

"Preferably a crooner," Williams laughed. "But how can you beat that golf? Look at the tremendous opportunities it offers. Professional golfers are always around country clubs and who do you find around country clubs all the time? Successful people. Look, I'm not knocking it. I'm just envious."

Ted Williams, if you really know him, wouldn't trade places with Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus or Billy Casper. That's fair enough because they would never switch places with him.

Ted Williams doesn't go around making a big deal about it but he loves baseball. He'd like to see more youngsters choose it as a profession but he's never going to preach or knock today's crop of kids.

That becomes obvious anytime someone tries to draw him out about the past trials and tribulations of his new pitching ace — Denny McLain.

"I was his age once," says Ted Williams. "And I wasn't exactly perfect myself."

Chevy Van will save you money more ways than one.

Sliding side door saves parking and loading time.

You waste no time maneuvering into position to load or unload. Because Chevy Van's sliding side door needs only 4½ inches of clearance alongside buildings and docks. You're on to the next stop faster.

Higher, wider rear doors take cargo other vans can't.

Bulky loads go in and out easier.

Through rear doors that open 18.8 inches high and 34.4 inches wide. And they open all the way for closer, easier docking.

New front door location for easier entry and exit.

We moved the front wheels forward, out of the driver's way. So he can get in and out easier. Which makes work more pleasant and improves driver efficiency.

More power available for cutting delivery time.

You get more time-saving performance for stop-and-go delivery work. From Chevy Van's standard 250 Six that no other van in its field can top. Or from a 350 V8 that's the biggest available.

26 easy checks save maintenance time.

No more wasted time for routine service. There's nothing to unbolt or remove to perform 26 service checks to engine, battery and radiator.

Super Suspension makes everything go smoother.

It stops bumps at the source to make things go smoother for the truck, the load and the driver. Independent front suspension with coil springs is matched to two-stage rear leaf springs for a more balanced, even ride.

Our total war on rust.

Critical underbody components such as wheelhouses and rocker panels are galvanized. Sealers are used in all welded joints. And the entire van body is immersed in an electrically charged primer paint emulsion to draw rust inhibiting paint into every crevice and cranny. To help Chevy Van deliver a longer working life.

Yet no American van is lower priced.

Look 'em all over. Model for model, you'll find no other van is priced lower than Chevy Van. And no other van offers more ways to save than Chevy Van.

'Y' Swimming Aids Schools

The Northwest Suburbs recently completed their swimming season at the Glenbrook South District Swim Meet. A high spot at the district was the outstanding performances of the area teams.

Gordon Aukerman, Forest View's coach, summed up the feelings of many when he said, "I was tickled with the results. I was pleased with the way all the schools in the area performed. In a few years we're going to be surprising a lot of teams in the state."

Several key factors encourage the optimistic viewpoint of the coaching staffs of the area schools. In the past few years many of the high schools have built their own swimming facilities and there has been a great improvement in the quality of coaching, but even the most successful high school coach knows that many of the fine swimmers he will be working with will be coming to his school as experienced competitive swimmers.

At the recent championships a third of the swimmers which placed in the top 12 places were experienced competitive swimmers prior to their coming to high school. They got their experience on the Northwest Suburban YMCA swim team.

Many of the teams of the various high schools throughout the area are strengthened by the experienced "Y" swimmers. From Maine West — Paul Stenstrom, Larry Bierwirth; from Prospect — George Busse, John Todd, Kurt Prinslow, Jeff Young, Jerry House, Jeff Larson, Dan Young; from Wheeling — Ken Bergman; Hersey — Mike Richartz, Dave Colburn; Elk Grove — Mike Bachus, Mark Okuma, Cliff Schlak; Forest View — John Mate, Mark Bailey, Jim Davies, Fred Westdale, Doug Schlak; St. Viator — Tom Harrison, Rick Fitzsimmons, Dave Takata, Mike Salerno; Arlington — Jeff Burling, Rick Cook, Dave Hartman, Jeff Simon, Steve Jurco, Tom Rowe; Glenbrook South — Dan Hannigan, Paul Najt.

Many names of new swimmers who are in competition at the Northwest Suburban YMCA will be added to this list over the next few years.

These athletes have an outstanding record both in YMCA and open AAU competition. Much of the optimism as to the future of these boys is due to the recent competition between the Northwest Suburban YMCA team and the teams in the Hinsdale area, which has produced the nation's top high school swim team — Hinsdale Central High School.

The Northwest Y swimmers have defeated both the Hinsdale AAU age group team and the West Suburban YMCA team this year. Many of these swimmers will meet again in high school competition.

The Northwest Suburban boys will be competing this weekend in their District Championships at George Williams College. The team, coached by John Eliot, will be seeking an unprecedented fourth straight district championship.

First place winners and time qualifiers will compete March 27 at the State YMCA Championship in Peoria. In his four years as coach, Eliot's boys have come in fourth, third, and second in the state. This year the team hopes to capture the elusive number one spot.

Swimmers To State

Starting blocks in last week's district at Glenbrook South.

Patience and Rowe will be vying in the 50-yard freestyle while Thieman will be returning to the state spectacle in an attempt to improve on a 14th place finish in the diving competition.

Rowe and Mate are both eligible for spots in the 100-yard butterfly while Geiser and Patience stake their claim in the 200-yard freestyle.

Jurco, off his best time in the districts (4:08.6) is scheduled for a start in the 200-yard freestyle while Robertson holds the only area hope in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Both relay teams are also capable of cracking the top-notch competition, but it will take their best.

The enthusiasm that is beginning to generate, starts right at the top with the coaches. While Forest View will be sending their first representatives, Arlington will be equally as anxious since Doug Rice was the last to score points for the Cards back in 1962.

St. Viator, of course, garnered 23 points in the state meet from superstar Rich Lynch who captured a third in the 80-free and a fourth in the 100-free.

In speaking of his Lions' chances, Borsowski expressed optimism. "I'm hoping our relay team will qualify for the top 12 and hopefully in the top six. Geiser could reach the top 12 in both of his events and possibly the top six in the 100. Robertson, who has steadily been coming along, could be a big surprise in the breaststroke."

Aukerman, who took somewhat of a unique and risky approach to the state meet, said that he didn't try to peak his boys for the district qualifying, but rather for the state meet.

"We've never swum at Evanston but I'm assuming it's faster than the Glenbrook pool. I figure Patience will have to hit in the low :49's in the 100, Mate will have to finish at about the mid :56's in the fly, and our relay team will have an outside chance if they hit a 2:25."

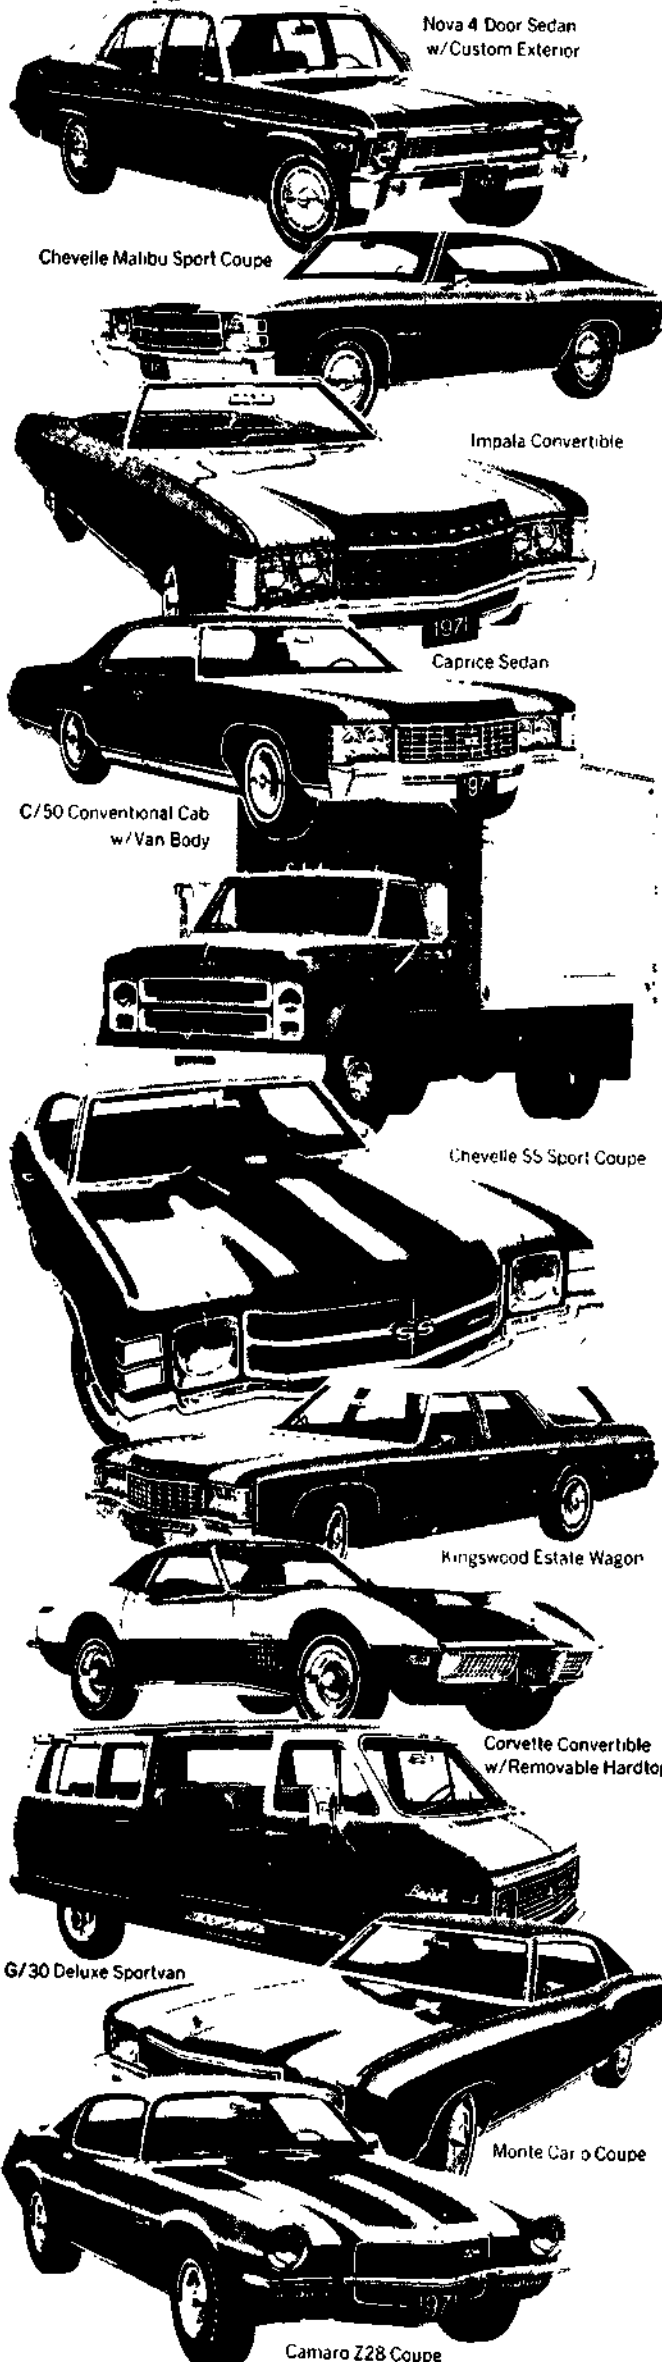

"Right now, our primary concern is to get somebody past the preliminaries. Everyone is capable of doing that!"

Anderson hopes to get a good showing from Thieman, his standout diver. "He's been through it before and likes the Maxi-flex springboards at the Evanston pool. He can really ride if he has that good spring."

Rowe and Jurco subbed the district qualifying standard in each of their events in the first meet of the year. "They've been looking forward to this for a long time," Anderson said.

More than 1,200 fans are expected to witness the crucial drama beginning at one this afternoon with the diving preliminaries. The swimming prelims will begin at 7 this evening while the finals will start at one Saturday afternoon.

Hinsdale Central, defending their championship of last year, is a strong favorite to repeat their role. New Trier East and Thornridge of Dolton landed second and third, respectively, last season.

Arlington Minor Hockey

by LEAGUE PUBLICITOR

All the outside ice may be melted, but as long as inside ice is available Arlington Minor Hockey will keep on hitting the puck. A report of the games played last week is as follows:

Tom McDonald scored four goals and Curt Bailey picked up a "hat trick" to lead the Arlington Country Club PeeWee's to a fantastic 10 to 0 victory over Hoffman Estates. Bob Bettis had two goals, and Jeff Gardner registered a single tally. Goalie John Roth had an easy day and was called on to make only 10 saves.

In a battle for 1st place in the Midget Division, the Arlington Jaycees scored early and often to turn back the Palatine Vikings 7 to 2 and win the Division crown. Vic Incinelli (who is in contention for the Midget scoring crown) scored the first of his two goals in the first minute of play. Terry McBride, Carl Lindquist, Mark Turckan, Russ Fitton and Craig Glander kept popping the puck past the Palatine netminder. Incinelli finished the scoring with 30 seconds left to play. Glander picked up three assists, while Kevin Bowers, and Gary Kraiss had single assists. Bill Fitton had his usual fine night in the nets.

The Arlington Squirts were eliminated from State Tournament play by losing 11 to 2 to Lake Forest. Brad Schumann and Rusty Gould did all the scoring for the Squirts.

The Squirt All Stars came back that evening and beat Hoffman Estates 3 to 0. Bob Riefke opened the scoring on a pass from Kerry Forrester. Brad Schumann scored goal number two on a fine pass from Al Lattot. Mike Fredian closed out the scoring and was assisted by Tom Bailey. Dave Gardner, Ken Simpkins, Andy Chatten, and Dan Schmidt played outstanding defense. Jim Murphy and Paul Grasmann didn't have too big a workout in the nets, but turned away all that came their way to share credit for the shutout.

Franklin Glue didn't get many shots on goal, but 2 went in and that was all that was needed for a 2 to 1 victory over Schaumburg in game one of the PeeWee playoffs. Ricky Palmer and Brian Locker put the pucks home. Matt Klemp, John Lumley, and Palmer picked up assists. Mark Monroe stood out in goal stopping 35 shots.

In a Midget playoff game, 3rd place Delta Tool turned back 1st place Arlington Jaycees 3 to 0. Mark Santilli opened the scoring with assists going to Bernie Klemm and Tom Cronin. John Verdico scored an unassisted goal and the final scoring came off the stick of Cronin on a pass from Santilli. "Player of the Game" goes to Tim Paulsen, for his shutout in goal. Fine performances were turned in by Matt Klemp, Mike Geddis, Santilli, Verdico and Klemm. Delta Tool now has a 1 game advantage in the best of 3 series.

The regular season ended last weekend for the 3 Arlington Heights teams who competed in the Squirt League at the Polar Dome. All the boys were playing organized hockey for their first time and they made a very good showing playing against experienced teams from other areas.

The top ten scorers from the Arlington J's, Lattot Chevrolet and Jaycees were:

	Gls	Ass	Pts
Forrestell (Jaycees)	12	7	19
Lattot (Lattot's)	9	1	10
Riefke (Jaycees)	7	3	10
Fredian (J's)	7	2	9
Schmidt (Jaycees)	6	2	7
Schumann (Lattot's)	3	3	6
Gould (Lattot's)	1	5	6
Moore (Jaycees)	2	3	5
Rustmeyer (Jaycees)	4	0	4
Bailey (J's)	2	2	4

The Jaycees finished the schedule by receiving a 1 to 0 forfeit from the Chicago Minor Hawks. Jim Tuitt was awarded the goal.

The final standings saw the Jaycees finish in fourth place, just one point behind the Schaumburg A.A. The "J's" and Lattot tied for 5th place. The Jaycees go into the playoff semi-final series which open up over the weekend, and has them meeting the Chicago Minor Hawks in a best two out of three game series.

In an exhibition game, the Jaycees battled an AllStar team composed of boys from Lattot Chevrolet and the "J's" to a 1 to 1 tie. Tom Bailey put the AllStars ahead in the first period on a play set up by Scott Paulsen and Jeff Rozwood. Paul Grasmann, the Jaycees goalkeeper, was then called upon to make several spectacular saves before Bob Riefke tied the game, after receiving a pass from Kerry Forrester.

Both teams battled hard in the final period of a very spirited contest, but there was no further scoring between the two friendly rivals. Goalending for the AllStars was shared by Jim Murphy and Ken Simpkins. The spectators were treated to an interesting, hard checking game.

Program Offers Freedom Of Study

by DENISE LAMOT
Palatine High School

"It opened up new doors," commented one student.

"It let me work at my own speed and discover new concepts," said another.

"It taught me how to handle responsibility," added another.

English independent study has been getting nothing but favorable comment at Palatine High School, where the one-semester course is offered to seniors with a B average or higher in English.

The course allows each student to choose a field, do research in it, and, at the end of the semester, present a final presentation of the outcome of the research.

According to Mrs. Meredith Newburg, instructor of the course and head of the English department at Palatine, the results of the projects were "surprising."

"I WAS REALLY amazed at the depth to which many students went in their studies. It was evident that a lot of hard work and time were put into the projects."

Since the area for a choice of project was basically unrestricted, the types of fields into which students delved was diverse and unusual. Projects ranged from magic spells, reincarnation and science fiction to the problems of pollution, child abuse and the modern black woman.

Several students created rather than stayed with pure research.

Terry Smudde wrote a musical, "Peace," which will be presented June 25 and 26 in Palatine's Cutting Hall.

She also designed the sets for the play and is managing the production.

Georgia Philippe wrote a play, "Pillar of Sand," set in 1191. "It is a story of the Third Crusade and of a girl in conflict over love and her own honor and integrity," said Georgia.

Both girls said they gained knowledge of the art of writing, and Terry said the project helped her understand things better in a field in which she plans to do more work.

A CARTOON STRIP, "Euphanastrian Epic," was created by Shiela Steinman. The characters in the cartoon strip attempt to form a working society, and in the strip Shiela comments on various social ills within modern society through her characters.

Ballads in their old and modern forms were studied by Pam Fremont, who then wrote several ballads of her own, including one about the current mini-midi-maxi conflict in fashion.

Ralph Menick wrote several songs which together tell a story. His main purpose was to show that a person who had little knowledge of music could write if he wanted to.

Debbie McNamara wrote a children's book, "Raymond the Unhappy Raincloud." The story is based on the idea that everyone needs to feel needed. Debbie also illustrated the book with color drawings.

Dave Bocek and Sam LoBosco made a film about the SDS, and Sue Longergan wrote a novella about the life of Alexander Hamilton.

AN INTERNATIONAL language with the grammar based on eight different languages and the vocabulary on 27 was created by Nick Baker. For his presentation he handed out a sample lesson book to each student and gave a language lesson.

Research studies done by students also precipitated unusual class presentations. Claudia Borman gave a lesson in yoga to the class, having them perform simple positions and concentrations.

Slides of pollution, the creation of an ecology club and a paper on the dangers and solutions to pollution were done by Mary Ragland. She also contacted several officials in Palatine to discover what the city was doing about the problem.

Bob Peterson gave the class several recipes for magic spells, while Nancy Blum was more traditional with recipes for gourmet foods from other lands. For her presentation Nancy prepared several dishes from other countries and served them to the class.

DENISE LAMOT STUDIED future shock and science fiction. In her presentation she aimed to teach the class to accept the future and the changes it will bring.

Russian novelist Fyodor Dostoevsky was studied by Paul Currie, and Lisa Hanasz studied various South Sea cultures. Both projects were used as training for future work in related fields.

Michaelangelo's art, sculpture and poetry was studied by Coleen McGeady, and JoAnn Elmer did research on Samuel Johnson, a figure in English literature. Maureen Sullivan studied the problems of the black woman through Afro-American literature and other sources.

Reincarnation and the ideas around it were studied by Clarice Svoboda.

The fact that students were permitted to study anything of their choice was mentioned by most students as the strong point of the course. Others also said they looked at the course as a challenge or a chance to do more work in a field they were unable to go into with ordinary schoolwork.

Youth Forum

Purpose Of Page: To Give Youth Journalistic Outlet

The Herald's new "Youth Forum" page is designed as a creative outlet for young aspiring journalists in the Paddock Publications circulation area.

The page will feature — once a month — samples of the best writing submitted to Herald editors from the suburbs' high school and college students.

Writing should be of the journalistic type, not essay or top-of-the-head subjective comment. The accent should be on interpretation, research, analysis and reporting, not opinion.

Suggested areas of coverage are documented reports on youth interests and problems, personality pieces, current fashion, sports analysis (not game reports), and reviews of concerts, films, books and speakers. High quality, general interest photographs taken by students also will be considered.

Students interested in contributing to the page should contact the journalism teacher at their school: Arlington, Mrs. Tedell; Conant, Mrs. Jucovus; Elk Grove, Mrs. Sawicki; Forest View, Mr. Carey; Fremd, Miss Harringer; Hershey, Mr. Wolford; Palatine, Mrs. Salzer; Prospect, Mr. Gebhardt; Schaumburg, Mr. Behrens; Wheeling, Miss Uroska; Harper Junior College, Mr. Roepken.

Big Word In Fashion: Pants

by ANN GILLILAND, PAT JOHNSON, and FELICIA PALMISANO
Forest View High School

A feeling of fashion confusion existed last fall for many area high school girls. The local merchants were featuring stocking midis and most females hated them. And minis might be out of style, so what should they do?

Questions like these were solved when the "pants craze" came in. Pant suits have been around for quite some time but never before have they been so prevalent. Various designs have allowed girls to be in style while showing their taste.

In the past, pants have been worn mainly for sports. It was strictly "taboo" to be seen wearing pants at movies, downtown, or at parties. But today, pants dominate the school society scene as well as the sports scene.

The days of plaid skirts and knee socks are gone, having been replaced by jeans and jumpsuits. Take a pair of boys' blue jeans, add a printed shortie sweater vest over a colorful blouse, and you've got one of the most popular school outfits of today.

JUMP INTO A jumpsuit and you jump into style. These one-piece fads, usually made of slinky knits, vary in lengths from mini to maxi. Jumpsuits are accepted dress for most anywhere you go today.

Remember when your "Sunday Best" meant the nicest dress you had and all the accessories that went with it? Now churches harbor beautiful pant suits on women of all ages.

Take, for instance, the tunic pants. Designers have put together a simple dress and a pair of flared pants, the result being an elegant pant suit for church services, weddings, and funerals.

Still, if your taste is mild, there are gaucho pants, accented best with boots. College campuses and exclusive restaurants are the scenes for such outfits.

"Hot pants are in, shorts are out." This fashion announcement has been received favorably by most teenagers. Hot pants are actually flared shorts that help the legs look slimmer. Most figures will look better in hot pants than in shorts, and you will also be in fashion.

Length? It is nothing to be confused about anymore. Don a pant suit and you are always in style, whether it be at a football game or your sister's wedding.

Sitting In Review

All Together Now—Sigh!

by JAN SIEFFERMAN
Arlington High School

"Love Story" Ah, I see I have your undivided attention already.

"Love Story" in book form has been, as the paperback cover proclaims, "nine months on the New York Times bestseller list." Makes one wonder if it's time for another Erich Segal brainchild.

"Love Story" as a movie has broken box-office records, even though the producers knew the critics wouldn't like it. They didn't, but said "Love Story" would be a big money-maker. Which it is. This provides us with a lesson in how to be wrong, but sound right.

In this satire, I will use none of the profanity so prevalent in "Love Story." If the book itself used none of this profanity, a short novel would become a great deal shorter, almost as short as the Marquis de Sade's book, "The Art of Making Friends."

"LOVE STORY" is one of those rare books that start at the end, i.e. — by saying "What can you say about a twenty-five-year-old girl who died?", when she's still alive. This may not be all bad, but for lovers of mysteries and Ellery Queen, the book is ruined.

Oliver Barrett III and Jennifer Cavillari are the main characters. Oliver attends Harvard Law School, plays hockey for the college team, and breaks all the rules. In hockey, that is. Jenny is an American of Italian descent, and goes to Radcliffe. The amazing thing is that neither she nor Oliver, both college students, ever go to class.

LOVE STORY (The Book And The Movie)

True love is found in the library, where Oliver and Jenny meet. This is the kind of publicity the world's librarians have been looking for.

Oliver and Jenny continue on with their affair, constantly swearing at each other, engaging in mud-slinging, and name-calling. This is for fun. When they have their first physical encounter, it all becomes meaningful. And, as everyone knows, once they've had that first encounter, well, it's like eating salted peanuts. They just can't stop.

OLIVER'S POOR roommate, Ray Stratton, graciously moves out onto the cold Harvard streets. Oliver loves him for it, i.e. — "I love Ray Stratton." That's O.K. with me, but I hope Jenny knows about this.

Then they decide to get married. The critics particularly deplored this part, and who can blame them? I mean, things like that just don't happen any more. College students live together, but to get married? That just isn't done! No wonder the critics said the book was silly and out-of-date.

At this point, I think I should mention Oliver's father, whom he despises, and Jenny's father, whom she adores. Consider them mentioned.

Oliver and Jenny finally marry, in a ceremony that scandalizes Phil, Jenny's father. (Oliver's father is scandalized at the whole idea of their getting married at all.)

It seems that in the ceremony, the bride and groom address each other directly. Jenny's Roman Catholic father is appalled that they're not having a Catholic wedding.

IN SOOTHING HIM, Jenny says, "Philip, could you imagine any situation in which I would shut up?" I, for one, have not found a scene in which she does. Unless, of course, it's immediately after her death, where she has surprisingly few words.

They settle down to married life with more profanity, more mud-slinging, and more name-calling. Obviously true love. Jenny starts her new role as wife and self-appointed peace-maker between Oliver and his father. It is while she is trying to make peace that she and Oliver have one of their biggest fights.

After this fight, Jenny introduces THE LINE. Every popular story has THE LINE. The one that is used in all the ads, and that people are forever quoting, awed by the deep meaning and truthfulness of it. In this case it is, "Love means not ever having to say you're sorry." This is the kind of thing that gives sober men pause.

NEXT COMES the big ending. (To which we were introduced in the beginning, remember?) Jenny gasps her last breath, and pronounces her last oath. It is my belief that no one has a clear idea of what went on in this scene, for by that time, the book would have been so tear-plotted as to make the ink run.

At the very end, Oliver runs to his father's arms, which is what Jenny wanted all along. Which shows you what some girls will do to get their own way.

What To Do? — Plenty!

by JEFF BEEBE
Forest View High School

Nothing to do? You say you're bored? Well, there IS something to do either in school or in the surrounding community.

Almost every day there is something going on in districts 214 and 211, from athletics to dramatics.

Among scheduled sports activities, there is plenty to occupy the leisure time of any fan.

In gymnastics, for instance, the Mid-Suburban League is one of the toughest in the nation.

In dramatics, all through the year different types of plays are being put on by the high school drama departments.

Outside the regular dramatic type presentation, high schools also put on musicals and dancing shows.

SOME ACTIVITIES for students only include fun nites, individual class sponsored events, and — of course — dances.

If at the end of the day, you find that you're tired of school, there are always park activities in your area. In the Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows areas, the local park districts are very busy.

These parks offer a wide variety of inside activities: judo lessons, junior and senior lifeguarding classes, sewing and reading courses, and movies.

A community center houses many types of activities for young adults. While many of these activities are scheduled for certain dates, the facilities are still open at other times for teenagers and others to drop in and just relax.

If you go for more organization in your activities, then you should try the YMCA. The Y has facilities and personnel to provide safety and enjoyment to all types of activities.

IF YOU PREFER the out-of-the-ordinary, why don't you try starting up a group with your friends and plan some ski trips?

If you're the creative type, some of the high schools and Harper Junior College offer courses at night such as wood-working, physical education, art, and home economics.

Of course, if you're the type to just sit at home, that's your prerogative.

But you're missing out on the best years of your life!

Dial 'Hot Line'

by MILDRED MISIC
Harper College

Need an abortion? Do you have a venereal disease? Are you "tripping"?

Anyone having these problems, as well as many others, will soon be able to get help simply by dialing "hotline" in Mount Prospect.

What is "hotline"?

"It's a place that you can call when you have a problem or want information. There will be someone there that can help you or refer you to some agency that is capable of helping you," said Cynthia Norris of Mount Prospect, a freshman at Harper College.

Out of 70 applicants to operate the hot line, Miss Norris is one of 26 selected through a screening process. The group, ranging in age from 14 to the 50s, is presently undergoing training at Forest Hospital, Des Plaines, to handle any type of call received. Training began January 18 and ended yesterday.

A STAFF OF psychiatrists at Forest Hospital will again screen the group before turning them loose to man a hot line.

Hot line originally came from a mayor's action program in Mount Prospect and was formed at Forest Hospital. It was accepted by Mount Prospect and developed by the citizens. It is part of a 10-point program for the community and deals mostly with social problems.

City taxes, the clergy and Junior Chamber of Commerce are helping to finance the program.

All calls will be logged. No names will be requested but if a caller wishes to identify himself, he may. All calls will be confidential. Plans are for "hot-line-hand-holders" to be at the telephone during weekdays. Hot line hopes to have a larger staff by summer and the phones will be answered for longer periods of time.

THERE WILL BE no time limit on calls. A caller is given as much time and attention as he needs.

No attempt is made in the case of a drug addict, for instance, to get him off drugs. The volunteers look at drugs, "not as a symptom of a problem, but as a cause of a problem," Miss Norris said.

"The main thing," she said, "is not for us to tell the person on the line what to do but to try to get him to realize what he wants to come about in his own life and help him make his own decision."

Hot line is aiming for a March 1 starting date. The phone number to call will be publicized in local and metropolitan newspapers, as well as high school and college publications.

Mailer Aims At NASA

by RICH HANSON
Arlington High School

This new novel by the author of "Armies of the Night" and "Miami & the Siege of Chicago" is his third and quite probably best experiment with the novel as history. It is a chronicle of the days just prior to and during the flight of Apollo 11, as told in classic Mailerese.

This, for the benefit of the unenligh-

OF A FIRE ON THE MOON by Norman Mailer

tened, means that he has adopted a pseudonym (in this case Aquarius; in "Armies" it was just "I") and in "Miami" it was "the reporter" so that he may write in third person when he actually is talking about himself.

This style serves two purposes. First, it substitutes everything the character says because Mailer was either an eyewitness or a participant, and second it gives Mailer's ego a little boost.

IN THE BOOK, Aquarius roams the countryside, showing up at the Manned Spacecraft Center, Cape Kennedy, and astronaut Collins' patio barbeque. Mailer's relation of his impressions of his experiences let the reader draw his own conclusions on "the real NASA". Two points for the author.

The most valuable part of the book is the chapter, "The Psychology of Astronauts". Here, despite the lack of a totally personal interview, Mailer gives the reader some extraordinary insights into the astronauts' personalities. I was very much impressed, but I will leave it up to you to read the book for yourselves.

Although Mailer's experiences at the MSC were just a bit soporific, his tale of the launch itself is both funny and, perhaps, poetic. Here he goes into the mud-house scene at the Cape involving these hypocritical little insects called men, all driving each other to distraction about what could be the greatest thing ever done by Earthlings. (I have reservations, because we may yet cure the common cold.)

All in all, the book is easily worth its $7.95 price, even if you are not a Mailer person. I have no news as to its availability in paperback.

This book will no doubt become a best seller in the next few weeks, and rightly so. On a five-point scale, give this one a four and one-half. I'm sure you'll enjoy it.

Teens' Budget: Up, Up

by SUE BOLANOS
Forest View High School

Gone are the days of the 50-cent allowance and the 40-cent movie.

According to recent interviews of 77 local teens by Forest View High School Journalism students, today's high school aged teens live on an average of $5 to $10 week.

There is, understandably, a difference between the expenditure of a freshman in high school and a senior.

Upperclassmen can spend from $5 to $50 a week, while underclassmen average from $1 to $5 a week.

Approximately 56 per cent of the upperclassmen have jobs; the remaining 44 per cent receive an allowance. Underclassmen rarely hold jobs because of age difficulties.

WHILE ONLY four per cent of the upperclassmen have cars, 62 per cent have car expenses in the form of gas or insurance.

Less than two per cent of those interviewed supported themselves, whether in their own apartment or paying rent at home.

Astonishingly, those students with jobs, usually clerical or retail services, are less inclined toward a college education than those dependent on their parents.

In questioning these teens about the breakdown of their weekly budget, we split the results into four segments: underclass girls, underclass boys, upperclass girls and upperclass boys.

Most girls, whether upperclass or underclass, find certain articles necessary for every-day existence: nylons, make-up and perfume.

THE PET CHARITY of boys, in general, is girls.

Second on the list of upperclass boys are auto payments or expenses.

Upperclass girls, while having minimal auto expenses, usually use the money for clothes or college funds.

School activities and personal entertainment rate high with every teen.

The lowest wage received by the working 56 per cent is $1 an hour, and the highest, $4 an hour.

It's obvious that the teen of 1971 is better off than the teen of 1951, whose mode of transport was usually a bicycle and whose weekly wage was $12.

1,000 At Lay Institute

More than 1,000 residents from the Northwest suburban area attended the Lay Institute for Evangelism held last week in Arlington Heights.

The institute was made up of five days of lectures and seminars. According to Curt Kenyon of Arlington Heights, the coordinator of the institute, three things were taught: 1. how to lead a Christian life, how to tell others about Christianity, and how to train other laymen to tell still others about Christianity.

The institute was sponsored by the lay institutes are sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ International, an inter-denominational Christian group with headquarters in California. The institutes began in the 50s, were an outgrowth of the group's campus ministry programs.

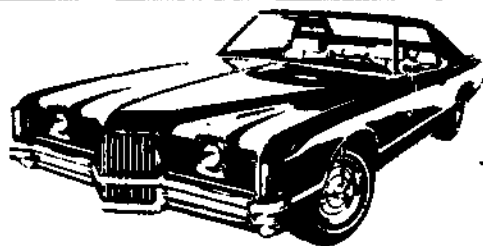

KENYON SAID 1,036 persons registered for the five-day event held at the Evangelical Free Church in Arlington Heights. On Feb. 20, the day of one of the final seminars, "about 475 laymen went out into the community and shared Christ," according to Kenyon.

A similar institute is scheduled for Elk Grove Village next month, according to Kenyon. The institute will be held March 17 through 20 at the First Baptist Church of Elk Grove Village, Kenyon said that several hundred persons are expected to participate in that institute.

Coordinator for the Elk Grove Village institute is Harold Hardy. Those seeking additional information on the institute can call Hardy at 439-8985.

The institute is open to adults and teenagers. A $5 registration fee is charged.

Flood Problem Relief Sought For Subdivision

An end to flooding problems in the Hoffman Estates Parcel A subdivision will be sought today by village officials from the State of Illinois.

The meeting follows the receipt of a study by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service.

The subdivision is located east of the Hoffman Plaza Shopping Center between Higgins and Golf roads and has suffered severe flooding in recent years because of storm water coming from the village's western sector.

Lee Bridgeman, of the Soil Conservation Service (SCS), Wednesday confirmed that twin 66-inch storm sewers designed to carry storm water down Higgins Road past Parcel A is the best solution to the problem.

THE SEWERS WERE originally proposed by Village Engr. George Holt.

Cost for the sewer's installation has been estimated as high as $600,000 and the state will have to finance a majority of the cost.

The SCS study, according to village hopes, will have the influence needed to convince state officials to approve the sewer installation.

The village is budgeting funds to expand key drainage ditches within the Parcel A subdivision which will also aid in alleviating the problem, Trustee Virginia Hayter said.

A meeting with Parcel A residents will be called in the near future to inform them of the program and what their part will be in helping to keep open storm sewers free of debris, she added.

THERE ARE WILLOW trees in the village right-of-way that will come down because leaves from the trees add to blockages that occur in the area, she added.

Mrs. Hayter said the meeting will probably be held at the Twinbrook School but she did not give a definite date.

The village is doing all it can now to help Parcel A residents, she added.

Ponds of water covering lawns and roads in Parcel A were caused recently by freeze ups and blockages in culverts. The village street department last week alleviated the problem when flushing and pumping equipment was used to channel the water into open storm sewers, she said.

Mrs. Hayter is chairman of the Hoffman Estates public works committee, a branch of the village board of trustees aiming to work out flooding problems in Hoffman Estates.

THE HOFFMAN ESTATES Park District is going to the dogs, at least on Monday nights. Dogs and owners gather at Vogeley Recreation Center on Mondays to learn the basics of dog obedience. This student is Baby, a Chinese Pug, shown with its owner Mrs. W. M. Montgomery of Schaumburg.

Specifications For Library Addition OK'd

Plans for a new addition to the Schaumburg Township Public Library were approved by the library board Wednesday night.

Specifications should be available for prospective bidders by March 8. Bids will be opened March 31. Michael Madden, librarian, reported much interest has been expressed in the addition by construction firms, and the board expects a minimum of 50 bids will be submitted. Bid opening will start at 5 p.m. with the meeting officially slated for 8 p.m.

Estimated construction cost of the addition is $970,000, plus architectural and other fees and furnishings. Of the $90,000 architectural fee, half already has been paid to the firm of O'Donnell, Wicklund and Pigozzi.

CONSTRUCTION IS to begin in April, with completion set for February 1972.

Before approving the plans, the board requested changes be made in such items as land elevations, roof slope and provisions to prevent water seepage to eliminate the possibility of flooding or seepage in the lower level of the building.

The board also approved the levy budget for 1971, under which taxes col-

Local Leaders To Pursue New Hospital

A 150-bed acute care hospital to be located in Hoffman Estates will be pursued by a committee of local community leaders.

A 25-acre site on the Robin Construction Co. property near the southwest corner of Higgins and Barrington roads is being considered for the facility.

The hospital, expected to cost $50,000 per bed, will be organized as a not-for-profit facility. The possibility of profit making service facilities within the hospital is still in the exploratory stages.

On the committee is Michael Redmond, a member of the Hoffman Estates plans commission and an executive administrator at Weiss Memorial Hospital in Chicago.

The hospital will have to serve communities central between St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village, Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights and Sherman Hospital in Elgin, he said.

Participation by community leaders from Barrington, Palatine, Inverness, Schaumburg, Roselle, Hanover Park, Streamwood and Bartlett was mentioned.

Redmond said that 30 to 40 per cent of the funds to build the hospital will have to come from the communities the hospi-

Mental Health Referendum Not Endorsed

The Schaumburg Township Board refused to endorse Saturday's mental health referendum at its Wednesday night meeting.

"We are providing the election machinery. It really is up to the voters if they want this type of council or if they prefer a different plan," said Supervisor Vernon Laubenstein after clerk Mrs. Kathleen Wojcik asked if there would be an endorsement.

Trustee Walter Wing Jr. said he would delay expressing his feelings on the referendum until after Saturday to "see what it does."

However, Trustee Daniel Stowe questioned whether the board had "done our job on following what was happening" in a 4-township committee planning the vote to establish a joint council on mental health and retardation.

"I have heard many questions on the availability of information. I have been held responsible by constituents," Stowe said. He suggested the town board might have exerted more effort to ensure the public was well informed on the issue.

WING ASKED if the town would be required to hold a second referendum should the first one fail. He also asked if the town could levy its own tax, separate from the council, for mental health services.

Mrs. Wojcik said a second referendum is not required. The town can levy such a tax, she said, but in that case another vote would be necessary. Any tax must be approved in a referendum, she said.

The board appointed judges for Saturday's referendum, and also for a library board election April 6. In the April voting, the town will share the cost of judges in Schaumburg Village with the Schaumburg Park District, which also is holding an election that day.

Mrs. Wojcik reported the town budget is nearly completed and will be on display for voters Saturday. It is to be voted on at the April 13 town meeting. There will be a small increase in appropriations, said Wojcik.

THE TOWN highway budget will be presented at a hearing March 31, along with the town library budget.

In response to a recommendation by the Cook County Tax Collectors Association, the board agreed to include in the budget $5,000 salary plus expenses for a tax collector. Although judicial rulings have transferred collections in Cook County to the county collector's office, a bill has been introduced in the State House of Representatives to restore collections to local government.

The salary and expenses will be included pending passage of the state bill. The town still would pay a 1.5 per cent commission to the county, but town officials feel the commission would be compensated for with a savings of interest charges for money borrowed due to delays in receipts from the county.

The board heard a report from Russell Anslow, director of social services, that an unidentified individual has volunteered to conduct "rap" sessions for town youth. The sessions would be for discussion of problems or concerns of the young people. Anslow is to review his qualifications and experience before recommending action.

Mental Health Referendum: Pros And Cons

Vote Tomorrow To Decide Fate Of Mental Health Program

by SANDRA BROWNING

Voters in four townships will decide tomorrow whether they want to be taxed for mental health and mental retardation services.

Tomorrow's mental health referendum will ask voter approval of a mental health tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with officials estimating that the first year's tax will be about half that amount. If the maximum rate were levied, the resulting tax would be about $15 on a home with a market value of $30,000.

The polls in Elk Grove, Palatine,

Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The precincts are the same as for the last regular election in November.

If approved, the township's boards of auditors will be authorized to levy a tax and create a special mental health fund. The boards will be authorized to determine the exact amount of the tax each year, with the first mental health tax being added to property bills in the spring of next year.

If voters approve the tax, the townships are authorized by state law to levy and collect the tax to provide local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

BEHIND THE REQUEST for the referendum is a citizens committee which is in the process of forming the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. This council includes representatives from the four townships, general hospitals, schools for handicapped children, mental health clinics, public schools and other agencies which serve residents in the four township area.

If the referendum is approved, one goal of the council will be to present a consolidated request to each township board. In this manner, township boards could deal with one group, the council, for money from the mental health fund.

As planned, the consolidated budget would include the requests for mental health fund money from the 12 separate agencies in the council. With this plan, the council hopes to be able to eliminate duplication of services and encourage the development of new services not now provided.

ACCORDING TO the council, some of the services which are not presently readily available include treatment and follow-up for alcohol and drug addiction, partial hospitalization for those not needing full-time hospitalization, intensive treatment, post-hospital rehabilitation and residential care for severely retarded and emotionally disturbed youth.

The council will also be forming a comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services. This comprehensive plan would attempt to provide a range of mental health and mental retardation services, from youth to old age. The plan would also stress that these services be provided by local agencies as opposed to remote, impersonal facilities, according to council officials.

This Morning In Brief

Gov. Ogilvie announced a $1.1 billion welfare budget for fiscal 1972, including an expected $65 million in federal money.

The Illinois House created a special ethics commission to evaluate the various Paul Powell investigations, and suggest ethics legislation.

A bill was introduced to the General Assembly that would put the regulation and licensing of cable television under the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The State

Weather officials warned that a potential flood situation still exists in the Rock River Basin. The flood waters in the river were receding, but shifting ice jams upstream created the new threat.

State Treasurer Alan Dixon said he'd do away with "the old guessing game" of whether there is a surplus in the state treasury. He promised a monthly computerized report for every Illinois agency.

The Nation

President Nixon — in his State of the world message — said Russia's huge increase in strategic military power could tempt the Soviets into bolder challenges in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Wholesale prices showed their highest jump in 15 years in January and February, largely because of an increase in livestock prices. Higher meat prices are expected as a result.

The War

South Vietnam President Thieu was quoted as saying it's only a matter of time until his country's forces launch a drive against North Vietnam. Hanoi's delegate at the Paris peace talks repeated the charge that the United States is planning such an invasion. Communist troops followed heavily armed tanks through American rocks and artillery fire to overrun one South Vietnamese position in Laos, and threaten another. U.S. battle deaths in the Indochina fighting were reported at 59 for the past week, the highest since last Nov. 21.

The Weather

Relief came to the blizzard-swept central plains, with springlike temperatures spreading up from the Southwest to cover most of the nation. Only in Maine were temperatures frigid, with the nation's low — 10 below zero — at Houkton. With the general thaw came threats of floods over a wide portion of the nation's midsection.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Houston	52	29
Atlanta	59	37
Los Angeles	72	51
Miami Beach	77	74
Minneapolis	35	18
New York	45	37
Phoenix	71	44

The Market

Trading slowed at the finish, but the third straight day of higher prices held on the Big Board. At the close, 16,200,000 shares had been traded, and the Dow-Jones Industrial barometer showed a rise of 6.36. Prices held steady on the American Exchange in moderate turnover, with the Ampex index up 0.02.

Technical Questions Raised

Building Permits Delayed

Issuance of building permits which would enable Donald J. Scholz & Co., a Toledo, Ohio, based home builder, to initiate construction of a planned unit development in Schaumburg are being temporarily held up.

Robert Garrett, counsel for the Scholz organization, appeared before Schaumburg trustees Tuesday after technical questions had been raised by the village building commissioner when permits were applied for.

Garrett said that technically the ordinance approving construction of the planned unit development planned for the 30 acre parcel on Golf Road presently owned by the Meinecke family called for construction to begin no later than one year from the date of approval.

Although the planned unit development received approval in July, 1969, the project did not begin within the specified time due to "tight money," Garrett said.

HE INDICATED however, that some excavation took place but it was later revealed in the discussion that excavation permits had not been obtained.

Phase one of the project calls for construction of four buildings to contain a total of 208 apartment units with about another 400 units coming in phase two.

Questions concerning parking spaces arose this week since revisions in village requirements have taken place since the Scholz project was approved.

Garrett said that a total of 364 parking spots would be provided in phase one construction but also indicated that some changes have been made in the original plan to include three bedroom units while only efficiency ones and two had been specified in the first plan.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher told Garrett that such a substantial change would vastly affect the approval plan and suggested that both this area and that of adequate parking be investigated prior to the March 9 village board meeting when Garrett is scheduled to return.

Garrett had also suggested that the time limitation for initiating the project be extended to June 1 but no decision was made concerning the extension and that part of the problem will also be discussed on Garrett's return.

Demos Step Up Campaign

The Democratic Party slate of candidates for Hoffman Estates have named their campaign managers, chosen a logo for their slate, and answered Republican charges that the slate was chosen behind closed doors by "party hacks."

Chairing the campaign to place Democrats in the three village board seats up for election April 20 will be Selwyn Schwartz and Jack McGlinn.

Schwartz, headed the campaign in Schaumburg Township for Sen. Adlai Stevenson III. Stevenson's victory in Schaumburg Township was the first time a Democratic senatorial candidate was victorious here.

McGLINN, DEFEATED for his trustee bid in the 1969 Hoffman Estates village board election, has lived in the village for 10 years. He is active with St. Hubert's Catholic Church, The Inter-Faith Council, the Northwest Opportunity Center and was formerly active with the Hoffman Estates Independence Day committee.

Both men start their duties at a campaign kick-off cocktail party March 7, at the Dale House Restaurant.

The Democratic candidates in Hoffman Estates will be known as the "BEST Party Candidates." The logo was chosen taking the first from the last names of the three candidates running for trustee. They are William Brilliant, Lawrence Excell and Mrs. Barbara Jean Sherman.

Defending charges by Republicans that the candidate selections were made behind closed doors, the Democrats said the local press was informed of their slate making committee and persons interested in running with the Democrats were encouraged to contact the committee.

"THE SLATEMAKERS, as publicly as possible, in many locations, interviewed literally dozens of applicants, some even who have voted Republican," said John Kelly, slate making committee chairman.

"After almost two months we still weren't satisfied because we could agree on only one candidate. We continued to interview to the point that it almost became my full time job," Kelly added.

"We called prominent residents of the village asking for names of people that had the type of experience necessary to pass ordinances for the betterment of the village and after three months we had three candidates unanimously approved by the seven slate makers," he added.

"WE DIDN'T decide anything in closed doors," added Schwartz. "We recognize that (Republican Committeeman Donald) Totten brought partisan politics to the village with the help of the National Republican Party Organization and money enough to carry it out."

The Republicans selected their candidates, incumbent William Cowin, Dyrle Rathman and Mrs. Diane Jensen, at a convention held last December.

"We knew it was time to seek the very best and we did it without campaign money and without the help of any other Democratic organization," Schwartz added.

Only 1 School Candidate

Dr. Bernard Powell, 220 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg, is the only candidate to have filed a petition thus far for election to Schaumburg School Dist. 54 board of education.

Dr. Powell filed his petition Wednesday morning, the first filing day, and as first candidate to file he will be listed first on the ballot in the April 10 election.

An optician Dr. Powell has offices at 105 S. Roselle Rd. He has not previously sought elective office, but has served as chairman of a committee which developed tomorrow's mental health referendum for Schaumburg, Wheeling, Palatine and Elk Grove townships. He also is chairman of the Schaumburg Township Board of Mental Health.

OTHER announced candidates who have not filed are Robert Miller, 143 Rosedale, Hoffman Estates, and Sherwood (Jerry) Spatz, 7875 Ramagate Circle South, Hanover Park.

Petitions may be filed until March 19 to be listed on the ballot. Filing is 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the office of Marvin Lapicola, district business manager, at administration offices, 804 W. Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

Two seats are open for election in April. They currently are held by Mrs. Betty S. Landon and Mrs. Eleanor M. Thorsen, both of whom have said they will not run for reelection. Each seat carries a three-year term on the seven-member board.

Board members whose terms do not expire this year are Gordon L. Thoren, president, and Mrs. Mary B. Hannon, Mrs. Dianne Hart, Gerald J. Lewin and Don Rudd.

Hockey League's Leaders Announced

In Schaumburg Park District's newly organized hockey league, the Bruins are midget division leaders with three victories over their opponents the Flyers, while in the squirt division, the Seals lead their league.

In second place in the squirt division are the Hawks with the Falcons in third place.

In girls ponytail basketball play, the Sandbox Scorers are league leaders having squeaked by the Charging Six for a 30-29 victory last week.

Second place in the league is held by the Dribbles who won 38 to 20 over the Sharp Shooters last week.

High point girls from each team include Laurie Minarsik and Debbi Napone, both of the Charging Six, with 14 points each.

Sandy Nordin of the Sandbox Six had 14 points, while Sheila Ortwerth, a Sharp Shooter, came up with 16 points, with Randa Touquan and Diane Naponeui, Dribbles, coming up with 18 and 12 points respectively.

Gymnastics Class Is Being Offered

Schaumburg Park District is beginning a gymnastics class for junior high school age boys and girls, Jeff Fox, superintendent of recreation, said this week.

Fox explained the first gymnastics meeting will be held March 3 in Robert Frost Junior High School at 3 p.m. From that time on, the group will meet each Wednesday and Friday at Frost for a total of 20 lessons.

The class will be supervised and instructed by A.P. Lundgren and A.J. Cook.

Registration may be accomplished by contacting park offices, 220 S. Civic Drive before March 3. A fee of $10 per student is payable at registration.

Just Politics

by Ed Murnane

An abbreviated work week, due to the Lincoln's Birthday recess, and continued debate over the Senate filibuster rule resulted in an uneventful week in the 92nd Congress last week.

The two houses returned on Wednesday and the House of Representatives recessed the following afternoon.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 17

—The Senate. Two treaties, one with Nicaragua and the other with Spain, were ratified easily with Stevenson joining the "yes" voters and Percy not voting.

The two senators also joined as cosponsors of a bill to accelerate the expansion of world trade.

—House of Representatives. The House met for only 36 minutes and took no major action, other than introduction of bills.

Crane and McClory were cosponsors of legislation that would allow suspension of U.S. trade and aid to countries which do not control exporting of narcotics into the United States.

The same pair of congressmen also cosponsored bills which would take steps toward creation of a volunteer armed service.

THURSDAY, FEB. 18

Thursday's report was unavailable. It will be published at a later date.

FRIDAY, FEB. 19

—The Senate. There was little action other than continued debate on the filibuster rule and introduction of bills. Percy and Stevenson were among the 20 senators calling for an end to the debate.

Percy was a cosponsor of an administration bill which would give the President additional time to present Congress with his plans for the reorganization of the executive branch of the government.

Last week's column omitted the report for Tuesday, Feb. 9. The only activity on that day involving local officials was the cosponsorship by Percy of the bill to implement the President's revenue sharing program.

Eva Jefferson Urges Joint Peace Treaty

by TOM WELLMAN

About half-way through her talk yesterday afternoon at Harper College, Eva Jefferson looked out at the 250 students, teachers and administrators and said she was "tired of hearing herself talk."

"I don't want to stand up here and bore you," the president of the student body at Northwestern University told the students. She said she wanted Harper students to talk to her, as well as talking to them.

At the beginning of her talk, she had said that "people who are about to change things have to get to the point where they don't need leaders."

Later, she said she felt like a "traveling freak," a person who may be regarded as a celebrity whom persons come to hear because she is regarded as a celebrity.

What Miss Jefferson ultimately wanted to talk about was a Joint Treaty of Peace which had been signed recently between the Nation: Student Association (NSA) and a publisher in South Vietnam who wanted to encourage peace in Indochina.

SHE ENCOURAGED students to sign the treaty, which will be sent to Washington during a May war protest.

Miss Jefferson, a black woman who achieved considerable fame last May when she helped keep the peace during a student strike at Northwestern, said she was "disturbed" with American acceptance of the war.

She chided her audience for being inactive on the war issue and thus by default allowing the war to continue. She told her audience that "the war is not winding down," but that it is only becoming more mechanized.

Miss Jefferson also criticized what she called the Military's tendency to label all Vietnamese as "gooks." She added returning American soldiers were the persons who would "beat you to a pulp if you called a policeman a 'pig'."

SHE ALSO URGED her audience to become familiar with the facts in the trial of Angela Davis, a black woman who has been charged with conspiracy in the slaying of a California judge.

She asserted that the coming trial would be a "classical political trial" and she urged students at Harper to make themselves aware about repression of dissent in this country.

She began her loosely organized talk by briefly describing the growth of activism in the early 1960s, before speaking about the People's Peace Treaty. Harper's series of "Dialog '71" events will conclude today with a speech by U. S. Senator Birch Bayh, D-Indiana.

Local Leaders To Pursue New Hospital

tal will serve.

Robert Rew, also serving on the committee, is pursuing parties from outside the area who could help to finance the difference in cost and staff for the hospital.

Rew is president of the business council and Chamber of Commerce in Hoffman Estates. He is also president of the Suburban Bank of Hoffman Estates.

Plans to build the hospital conflict with those of a Schaumburg committee working to establish a hospital on 10 acres along Schaumburg Road.

Richard Regan, of the Hoffman Estates group, said the Robin property is better for a hospital because of close access to and from the Northwest Tollway and a larger site is available that will allow future expansions. The forest preserve property nearby is still another asset, he added.

Regan is chairman of the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission.

Also to serve on the Hoffman Estates committee will be Mayor Frederick Downey and Steve Robin of Robin Construction Co.

Sludge Opponents Meet With MSD

A group of Hanover Park residents and village officials opposed to the possible development of a 200-acre Metropolitan Sanitary District site adjacent to the village as a sludge farm met Wednesday with MSD representatives.

Mrs. Karen Goro, chairman of the Hanover Involved People (HIP) group who spearheaded the opposition to the project, reported that Ben Sosowitz, acting superintendent of the MSD, said the district has no thought of giving up the land. "They intend to use it for expansion of the present facility it adjoins," she added.

However, the site, known in the area as the Fisher farm, will not be developed this year and was purchased as an insurance policy for the time it would be needed, Sosowitz said.

MRS. GORO ADDED that the MSD officials were receptive to the village group composed of village trustees, Barry Rogers, James Scheuber, the Rev. David Bugh, Gordon Jensen, and Louis Barone, William Davies, village attorney Harold Humphreys, park board president Jack Ryan, a resident involved with the HIP group, Mrs. Jan Smith, chairman of the flood study committee, and herself.

She explained that according to Sosowitz the site was purchased by the MSD after the village president withdrew opposition to the sale. Since that action, the village trustees and attorney have excluded Pres. Richard Baker from all negotiations with the MSD.

The trustees told Sosowitz Wednesday of their action and asked that he ignore the president's correspondence as not representative of the board.

The MSD is not definite in its plans for the site, stressed Sosowitz. He added that other systems of disposal of the solids from the Hanover Park Sewage Treatment plant may be in effect in the next five years while development of the site is under consideration.

According to Mrs. Goro, Davies will keep in touch with the MSD and set future meetings. Davies asked the district why it did not consider the alternate sites proposed by the village. Sosowitz said because the alternate sites cost about $500,000 more than the Fisher farm.

Planning Unit Eyes Plans For Quadrominiums

A land plan to build 64 quadrominiums on 21 acres in Hoffman Estates was scrutinized Wednesday by the village's plan commission.

The buildings, providing four condominium units in each structure, are proposed by Kaufman & Broad and will be located in Barrington Square, south-east of Barrington and Hassell roads.

Major objection to the plan was four large dead-ending parking lots around which the buildings were to be constructed.

Plan commission officials requested that through streets, off street parking, and fire lanes be included in the land plan.

Ease of access for fire fighting equipment and a better insurance rating for the village effected by through-street availability were reasons for the requests.

William Kennicott, a K&B vice president, said the plan will be altered to meet the village's request.

HE TOOK EXCEPTION, however, to the request by Park District Pres. Fred Weaver that additional recreational land be made available from K&B.

but could not, to Davies satisfaction, explain why.

DAVIES ALSO ASKED if the MSD would consider selling the site to a developer who would use it for its best use — according to the village, it is prime industrial and commercial land.

Sosowitz said the district and he himself would not be interested in any proposal that was based on an "if" preface.

He suggested Davies come up with a concrete offer and show the district that a developer "was" interested and then I will present this alternative to the trustees," he said.

"Although nothing was really accomplished by the negotiation," said Mrs. Goro, she felt hopeful that the five year delay in development might bring some change.

acted by the library in spring 1972. The $13,000 levy is lower than last year's $16,000, but Madden said taxes would remain at the same level.

WHEN A LEVY is submitted to the collector, said Madden, the board has estimated the amount of property value in the township. The estimate last year was above the actual property value. In such a case, said Madden, the collector automatically taxes on the basis of legal tax rates, disregarding the total levy estimate.

This year's levy more accurately reflects taxable property values in the township than did last year's, Madden said.

The township library tax rate is 15 cents per $100 assessed value.

There'll Be Some Changes Made

In case you have noticed that commercials on TV seem a little different, you are right, they are.

For one thing, more new sponsors are on TV than have been in many years. Such products as jewelry, wood products, and other off-beat (for television) products are popping up on the tube.

Why? Because of the huge revenue loss from cigarette commercials being withdrawn from the air and because the recession in the broadcast industry is so severe that commercial spots are going at the lowest prices in years.

The Today and Tonight programs on NBC have proved particularly popular for first-time sponsors on TV, because both shows are also not only selling spots at bargain rates but are also not in "prime time" in the evening when rates are at their peak.

Another change which is slowly taking shape in TV is the switch back to 60-second commercials.

Sponsors at one time were convinced that they could get just as much for their money buying a 30-second spot as they could for buying a 60-second spot.

Now, some tests have revealed that commercial "clutter" seems to weaken the effectiveness of a commercial.

There has been little talk of sponsors once again becoming identified with particular programs, but it seems to me that some sponsors might consider reverting to that idea once again.

The FBI and Ford and Bonanza and Chevrolet are good examples of how strong sponsor identification can be built up when only one, or a few, sponsors present a program.

To this day, many people think of Lipton Tea when they hear Arthur Godfrey on radio, and although Hallmark sponsors only a few specials a year, their slogan and trademark are some of the most widely recognized marks of identification in America.

I think most viewers would benefit from more 60-second commercials and greater sponsor identification, if only to eliminate some of the "clutter" that is passing before our eyes in one great blur.

* * * * *

Still on the subject of commercials, I have received several complaints about the practice of Channel 7 interrupting their weekend daytime movies with news, sports, editorials, and weather, in addition to playing six or seven commercials in a row.

Practically nothing can be done about this irritating practice of Channel 7 except to complain to them in a letter or postcard.

Apparently Channel 7 is not willing to change this format, and the Federal Communications Commission will do nothing about it.

This is just another example of broadcasters failing to restrain themselves voluntarily, and it is also an indication of why TV critics feel so little sympathy with broadcasters who cry "government interference!" when they are finally regulated by the federal authorities.

Channel 7 is by no means alone in this heavy concentration of interruptions during movies and other programs. Secret Agent on Channel 9 Sundays is interrupted so many times that I sometimes feel I am watching automobile commercials that are broken every once in a while by a program.

I think broadcasters are going to push this thing with too many commercials, on radio and TV, until there is a massive public outcry and the FCC will step in.

That is not the best way to do it, but apparently it is the only way some broadcasters will respond.

On the Cover: Jackie DeShannon sings "Have I Stayed Too Long at the Fair" when "The Jim Nabors Hour" builds its entire program around a circus theme Thursday, March 4 (7:00-8:00 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network.

The same can be said when it comes to a successful savings program. Once you start the savings habit you're one step closer to a sound financial future. Each of us has a different reason for saving. The Time Certificates pay you 5 1/2 % to 5 % annually and the passbook pays you 4 1/2 % and the Golden Income Passbook pays you 5 %. All are insured for up to $15,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Begin your savings journey by stopping into the Schaumburg State Bank.

Dear Mr Wayne,
Thank you very much for the complementary award (really glad I didn't have to don a tux to receive it)

We do try to provide a forum for views from all who wish to participate and I'd be very interested in knowing what instances the treatment of a listener's opinion was not handled fairly

I'm certainly looking forward to meeting you on some occasion. Again, thanks much and I truly appreciate your comments I agreed with all of your statements regarding Chicago radio and TV fare Right on!

Peace,
—Stan Dale
WLS FM Stereo 94.7

ANSWER:
Thanks very much, Stan I believe it is as much an obligation for a TV and radio critic to point out the good things in broadcasting as it is to point out the bad, and your morning talk show is one of the very good things

Later this year, the "Wayne Awards" will get a bit more formal and we will actually be awarding plaques for the best in broadcasting in Chicago

What channel is THE BRADY BUNCH on? You better print this, you whip!

—Mel Williams, age 40
Arlington Heights, Illinois

ANSWER:
If you can't find out at age 40 that THE BRADY BUNCH is on Channel 7 then I can't help you

How come all the good movies are on at 1:30 a.m. in the night? W.C. Fields and the Marx Brothers are on at 1:30 a.m. Why?

—Linda Bume
Rolling Meadows, Illinois

ANSWER:

There are a lot of very bad movies on in the wee hours of the morning. Channel 9 shows a lot of poor movies on its weeknight schedule

As for the Fields and Marx Brothers movies, I hope Channel 7 will again show them Saturday or Sunday during the day as they once did before.

I would like to know if James Arness and Peter Graves are brothers I would also like to know if Mike Connors and Chuck Connors are brothers. The last thing I want to know is why isn't Chip the middle son, on MY THREE SONS any more?

—N.R.
Hoffman Estates, Illinois

ANSWER:
Jim and Peter are brothers. Mike and Chuck are not. Barry Livingston, who plays Chip, is now in the service.

Is "Elrod" simply an occasional substitute for "Oliver" on Bozo's CIRCUS? Also, where on earth did they dig him up?

—SMK
Mount Prospect, Illinois

ANSWER:
The people at Channel 9 told me that Elrod is not a substitute for "Oliver," but is rather an added character to the show who will be appearing regularly

"Elrod" is played by Pat Tobin, and he suffers greatly when compared with an old pro like Ray Rayner, who plays "Oliver."

I was wondering if THE PARTRIDGE FAMILY is the PARTRIDGE FAMILY that sings "I think I Love You." Who is Herman on THE MUSTERS?

—Pat Knollmueller
Rolling Meadows, Illinois

ANSWER:

Yes, it is the same PARTRIDGE FAMILY, but only Shirley Jones and David Cassidy sing on the record with a back-up group. "Herman" is Fred Gwynne, who was also on CAR 54, WHERE ARE YOU?

What address can I write to to get a copy of THE WGN-TV editorials?

—Mary Munson
Palatine, Illinois

ANSWER:

You can write for them at 2501 Bradley Place, Chicago, Illinois 60618. All of those who are angry about the cutback of EXERCISE WITH GLORIA can also write to that address.

The people at WGN claim that Gloria was put on later in the day because many viewers requested it.

Could you please tell me something about Joel Grey?
—J.T.
Arlington Heights, Illinois

ANSWER:

Joel was born in 1932 and is married. He has been in all kinds of hit shows on Broadway, including GEORGE M! If you want to write to him, you might have some luck by writing in care of the DICK CAVETT SHOW, ABC-TV, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10019.

I like your column and am enjoying TV TIME which I think is a wonderful addition to the HERALD paper. I am really wild about Richard Chamberlain both as an actor and as a man.

Can you tell me how old he is, whether he is married or engaged and what kind of girls does he date? Where does he live and how tall is he? Will he be on TV again?

—Carol Youngblood
Arlington Heights, Illinois

ANSWER:

It certainly does sound like you are a fan. Richard is 35, is not married, lives in England a lot these days, and probably will not be doing too much American TV until he spends more time in the U.S. once again.

As to the kind of girls he dates, I have no idea what he likes in character traits, but they are probably tall since he is over six feet tall.

Plan a Swimming Pool this Summer! Phone 774-1066

Don't do anything until you learn about the luxurious new swimming pool that needs no excavation . . . won't increase taxes . . . requires almost no upkeep . . . cost surprisingly little.

Normal upkeep expenses are all but eliminated by the wide use of vinyl and fiberglass. Almost nothing affects these two modern marvels, including sun, rain, heat, cold, snow. That's why almost every exposed surface on this pool is protected either with vinyl or fiberglass.

What about water costs? More good news. This is a pool you fill only once! Without you doing a thing, its "lazy man" filtration system automatically keeps the water cleaner and clearer than the tap water you drink.

A deck surrounds the entire pool, providing plenty of space for plenty of swimmers to walk around the pool or sit dangling their feet in the water. At one end the deck extends into a huge sun deck where you can entertain a whole crowd. For sure footing, non-skid vinyl covers every inch of the deck.

All around the deck there's a fence of solid fiberglass. Nobody can see in. This helps shut out the world and make your pool a real retreat truly a private playground.

As for strength the pool features a steel superstructure like that of a suspension bridge. Here's one pool with rock-solid construction. It's so strong it's portable! If you ever move it can go with you.

Yes, here's a lifetime pool, and you can bet it will change your life. It will give you a wonderful new place to entertain your friends...get your exercise...keep in trim...take a refreshing dip after a hot day's work...have exciting "water-edge" meals...enjoy money saving vacations at home...do more with your family than you've ever done before.

Mental Health Vote Slated For Tomorrow

by SANDRA BROWNING

Voters in four townships will decide tomorrow whether they want to be taxed for mental health and mental retardation services.

Tomorrow's mental health referendum will ask voter approval of a mental health tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with officials estimating that the first year's tax will be about half that amount. If the maximum rate were levied, the resulting tax would be about $15 on a home with a market value of $30,000.

The polls in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The precincts are the same as for the last regular election in November.

If approved, the township's boards of auditors will be authorized to levy a tax and create a special mental health fund. The boards will be authorized to determine the exact amount of the tax each year, with the first mental health tax being added to property bills in the spring of next year.

If voters approve the tax, the townships are authorized by state law to levy and collect the tax to provide local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

BEHIND THE REQUEST for the referendum is a citizens committee which is in the process of forming the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. This council includes representatives from the four townships, general hospitals, schools for handicapped children, mental health clinics, public schools and other agencies which serve residents in the four township area.

If the referendum is approved, one goal of the council will be to present a consolidated request to each township board in this manner, township boards could deal with one group, the council, for money from the mental health fund.

As planned, the consolidated budget would include the requests for mental health fund money from the 12 separate agencies in the council. With this plan, the council hopes to be able to eliminate duplication of services and encourage the development of new services not now provided.

ACCORDING TO the council, some of the services which are not presently readily available include treatment and follow-up for alcohol and drug addiction, partial hospitalization for those not needing full-time hospitalization, intensive treatment, post-hospital rehabilitation and residential care for severely retarded and emotionally disturbed youth.

The council will also be forming a comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services. This comprehensive plan would attempt to provide a range of mental health and mental retardation services, from youth to old age. The plan would also stress that these services be provided by local agencies as opposed to remote, impersonal facilities, according to council officials.

Concert Signup Ends Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the deadline for purchasing season memberships in the Northwest Community Concert Association for the 1971-72 concert season. Membership is open to all residents of the Northwest suburbs.

Memberships in the association may be obtained by contacting Marjorie Beu, president of the association, at the Dist 21 Administration Building, 537-8270.

Memberships are $10 for adults and $5 for students, and entitle the holder to admission at the four community concerts to be given in 1971-72. Tickets for individual performances will not be available.

Included in the 1971-72 concert series will be "Three on Broadway," "New York Pro Musical," and "Invitation to the Dance." The fourth concert has not been selected.

"THREE ON BROADWAY" will feature singers Ronald Rogers and Jan McArt, with pianist accompaniment. They will perform a variety of Broadway show tunes written by such composers as Richard Rogers, Leonard Bernstein, Victor Herbert, Sigmund Romberg, Irving Berlin and Cole Porter.

"New York Pro Musica" will feature a group of singers and instrumentalists performing medieval and Renaissance music.

"Invitation to the Dance," will feature as narrator, Ruth Page, choreographer and artistic director for the Lyric Opera of Chicago. Also featured on the program will be four dancers from Miss Page's Chicago company. They will perform ensemble and solo dances from both classic and contemporary repertory.

Electoral Unit To Determine Fate Of WHIP

A hearing will be held at 10 a.m. today to decide if the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) candidates will remain on the ballot for the April 20 village election.

The hearing, in Room 1706 of the Civic Center in Chicago, will be conducted by the municipal electoral board of Wheeling.

The board will rule on objections filed last week to the WHIP nominating petitions and statements of candidacy. Mrs. Dorothy Penix, of 420 Virginia Pl., Wheeling filed the objections.

The electoral board will consist of Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon (who will be chairman), Village Clerk Evelyn Diens, and Trustee Peter Egan.

The objections brought against the WHIP Party allege that the party's nominating petitions and statements of candidacy contain irregularities which should rule the four candidates off the village election ballot.

NORBERT BIGALKE, Michael Moran, Otis Hedlund, and Harold Fagan are running for village trustee posts on the WHIP slate.

If the WHIP candidates are stricken from the ballot, candidates on the Wheeling Active Citizens Ticket (ACT) will be unopposed on the ballot.

ACT candidates for the four trustee seats are: John Koeppen, Ronald Bruhn, Edward Berger and Albert Lang.

A total of 14 objections were filed to the WHIP petitions by Mrs. Penix.

Major charges included in the objections are that WHIP candidate Norbert Bigalke has not lived in the village long enough to run for trustee . . . that residents signed the petitions before they were marked to indicate which candidate would seek a two-year term . . . and that six of the petitions were circulated by someone other than the person who signed the affidavit as petition circulator.

Mrs. Diens said yesterday members of the electoral board would meet with acting village attorney Donald Norman to discuss the legal procedures for conducting the hearing.

Eye Village Board Action Monday Night

Zone Dispute Nears Climax

The second and perhaps final round of a zoning dispute over 40 acres of property south of St. Alphonsus Catholic Church will be fought Monday night in the Wheeling municipal building.

The village board will act on a recommendation from the village's zoning board of appeals that the village board deny a request to rezone the site for apartments. Arnold Lieblich, who owns the property, is seeking the zoning change.

Prospect Heights residents vehemently opposed the rezoning of the property from single family home zoning at zoning board of appeals hearing on Feb. 16.

Monday the village board can take one of two actions. It can uphold the zoning board recommendation and deny the rezoning request or it can vote to have the village attorney draw up an ordinance to rezone the property.

IF THE BOARD chooses to have an ordinance prepared there will be yet another meeting for the final action on the rezoning request.

The property will be an island of Wheeling in the new city of Prospect Heights if the unincorporated town is successful in its bid to become a city.

The site was annexed to Wheeling by a

Baseball Signup Ends On Sunday

Final registration for the 1971 Wheeling Athletic Association boys baseball season will be held from noon to 3 p.m. Sunday in the Heritage Park Fieldhouse, 222 S. Wolf Rd.

Parents or guardians must make the registration. Boys are eligible who will be 8 years old on or before July 31 and who will not reach their 17th birthday on or before that date.

The fees are $15 for one boy in a family, $17 for two, $20 for three or more. After Sunday, registrations will be accepted only to bring teams to full strength and there will be an additional $2 charge.

point annexation, meaning it touches the village only as its north east corner.

Reasons cited by zoning board members for the recommended denial included possible flooding problems, traffic problems, safety for school children in the area, and questions of whether the developer was actually seeking planned development zoning instead of simple multiple family zoning.

One member of the zoning board, Chairman Douglas Gargill, cast the only vote in support of the rezoning.

Sing Outs Slated

"Sing Out Palatine," a group of young performers, will give musical shows Saturday, March 6, and Sunday, March 7, at Wheeling High School.

The March 6 show starts at 7:30 p.m. Starting time on March 7 is 3 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for students and children under six are admitted free.

Revived Baby Is Reported In Fair Condition

The eight-month-old Wheeling girl whose life was saved by an Arlington Heights policeman's actions Wednesday morning remained in fair condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital.

The girl, Tammi Williams, daughter of Mrs. Veronica Williams of 942 Norman Ln., was revived at the hospital after she arrived with no respiration, and a very weak pulse. She was admitted in fair condition and treated for shock and infection.

The baby's life was probably saved by Patrolman Robert Lindquist, of the Arlington Heights police, who rushed the child to the hospital in his squad car.

Mrs. Williams, being driven to the hospital by a neighbor, reportedly was delayed from crossing the Chicago and North Western Rwy. tracks for several minutes by two trains.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Gov. Ogilvie announced a $1.1 billion welfare budget for fiscal 1972, including an expected $65 million in federal money.

The Illinois House created a special ethics commission to evaluate the various Paul Powell investigations, and suggest ethics legislation.

A bill was introduced to the General Assembly that would put the regulation and licensing of cable television under the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Weather officials warned that a potential flood situation still exists in the Rock River Basin. The flood waters in the river were receding, but shifting ice jams upstream created the new threat.

State Treasurer Alan Dixon said he'd do away with "the old guessing game" of whether there is a surplus in the state treasury. He promised a monthly computerized report for every Illinois agency.

The Nation

President Nixon — in his State of the world message — said Russia's huge increase in strategic military power could tempt the Soviets into bolder challenges in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Wholesale prices showed their highest jump in 15 years in January and February, largely because of an increase in livestock prices. Higher meat prices are expected as a result.

The War

South Vietnam President Thieu was quoted as saying it's only a matter of time until his country's forces launch a drive against North Vietnam . . . Hanoi's delegate at the Paris peace talks repeated the charge that the United States is planning such an invasion . . . Communist troops followed heavily armed tanks through American rocket and artillery fire to overrun one South Vietnamese position in Laos, and threaten another . . .

U.S. battle deaths in the Indochina fighting were reported at 59 for the past week, the highest since last Nov. 21.

The Weather

Relief came to the blizzard-swept central plains, with springlike temperatures spreading up from the Southwest to cover most of the nation. Only in Maine were temperatures frigid, with the nation's low — 10 below zero — at Houlton. With the general thaw came threats of floods over a wide portion of the nation's midsection.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	59	37
Houston	52	29
Los Angeles	72	51
Miami Beach	77	74
Minneapolis	35	18
New York	45	37
Phoenix	71	44
Seattle	47	37

The Market

Trading slowed at the finish, but the third straight day of higher prices held on the Big Board. At the close, 16,200,000 shares had been traded, and the Dow-Jones Industrial barometer showed a rise of 6.36. Prices held steady on the American Exchange in moderate turnover, with the Amex index up 0.02.

Joint Youth Services Talk Slated

A discussion of the joint youth services program proposed by the Wheeling Youth Commission, HELP, Inc. and the TORCH Mental Health Clinic will highlight the next meeting of HELP on March 24.

The meeting at Wheeling High School will be open to the public.

Richard Wynn, director of the TORCH Mental Health Clinic, will discuss the youth proposal and answer questions. Wynn was originally scheduled to make the presentation.

At Wednesday's meeting, HELP members learned from Dist. 214 officials that the final results of the confidential drug survey recently administered in all Dist. 214 schools would not be completed for several months.

THE SECOND PART of the survey, which will involve personal interviews with about 100 high school students, will not be completed until fall. The Dist. 214 representatives said that about 13,000 of the 18,000 district high school students answered the survey.

David Whiteside, instructional coordinator for Dist. 214, told HELP members about the drug seminars currently under way in four of the district's high schools. Purpose of the seminars, started with the aid of a grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, are to train the district staff to become more comfortable in dealing with drug abuse problems, Whiteside said.

The program involves daytime seminars between high school teachers, counselors and students, and evening sessions between Dist. 214 teachers, counselors and parents. Persons trained in the field of drug abuse moderate the sessions and are used as resource people, he said.

Whiteside said he feels the program has been successful in familiarizing the Dist. 214 personnel with the problems of drug abuse and how to counsel persons with these problems.

Library Loaned 1,000 Books

The Wheeling Public Library has received 1,000 books on permanent loan from the Illinois State Library.

"They are children's and young adult books, and including many titles we did not have," said Ray Deutsch, head librarian of the Wheeling district.

The books, now in storage, will be placed in the new Wheeling library when completed in spring.

"They will help to expand our children's section," Deutsch said.

The North Suburban Library System paid the cost of shipping the books to Wheeling. A total of 12,000 books were given to the system by the state library. The system forwarded the books to 10 library districts.

When Naming Chips Are Down...

by GRAIG GAARE

If Elk Grove has Elk Grove High School, and Wheeling has Wheeling High School, then why shouldn't Dist. 214's proposed eighth high school be named Buffalo Grove High School?

The same reasoning can be used about this issue as in my campaign to bring a buffalo back to Buffalo Grove. After all, if everything else in town is named after a buffalo, why not the high school too?

Consider for instance, alternate names for the school. Let's see, there could be Albert Frank High School, named after a local developer. What about Levitt and Sons High School, or Son-of-a-Levitt High School?

PERHAPS THE SCHOOL could be named after a village landmark which has aroused the interest of citizens — Arlington Heights Road.

The problem is that all of these suggested names are surrounded by controversy. Not every one likes Al Frank, everyone is not pleased with Levitt and Sons, and a lot of people are unhappy with rutted, decaying Arlington Heights Road. Besides, there already is an Arlington High School.

Actually, the way to avoid the entire issue is to name the school after something in the village. is Buffalo

3 In Concert Tour

Three residents of Wheeling have been selected to participate in the 1971 concert tours of Music for Peace International.

They are Alan Lynn Berry, 917 Woodland Dr., a trumpeter; Sue Eileen Boucek, 363 Walnut St., a flutist; Linda Susan Behar, 219 Fletcher Dr., an oboist.

Music for Peace is associated with the University of Miami, Fla.

Psychic Program Set

Palm readers, astrologers and tarot card interpreters will be in Arlington Heights Sunday for the second "Psychics in Action," sponsored by the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect.

The event will last from 1 to 9 p.m. It will be at the American Legion Hall, Douglas and Miner streets in Arlington Heights.

An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged. Cost for individual readings will be $2.50.

Jackie Hoffer of Des Plaines is one of the psychics who will be there. A palm reader, she believes, that "while everything that happens to a person registers scientifically on their hand, emotions are also recorded in areas of the palm."

ANOTHER of the psychics who will be there is the Rev. Amelia Doerr who has been active in psychic work for the last 10 years. He will be joined by the Rev. Fred Haas. Rev. Haas has been a psychic for 20 years.

Alan Sandler, who has been a counselor on psychic phenomena for the last 15 years will also be there. During the "Psychics in Action" event Sunday he will discuss astrology, tarot cards and hypnosis.

Among the other psychics who will be at the American Legion hall are Paul Ramon, a palmist; Ann Ferro, who will discuss "past lives;" and Charles Roy-sten, an astrologer.

Sunday's "Psychics in Action" is the second such gathering of psychics to be sponsored by the Guardsmen. Refreshments will be available during the day at the hall.

'Longfellow Day' Slated At School

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow has a birthday on Saturday and students at Longfellow School in Buffalo Grove will celebrate it with a party this morning.

The Longfellow student council has proclaimed today "Longfellow Day" at the school. The students will perform skits to illustrate the poetry of the 19th century poet. Primary grade students will present their skits at 9:30 a.m. and intermediate students at 10:30 a.m. Several groups will also sing "Happy Birthday" to Henry.

Today has also been proclaimed "Dress-Up Day" and the students will come to school dressed as for a birthday party.

The idea for the birthday party originated with Longfellow prin. Bob Sorenson.

"One of the big problems is that many of the kids don't know who Longfellow was, or what he wrote. When I found out tomorrow is Longfellow's birthday, I suggested a party to the teachers and the idea mushroomed," he said.

Longfellow would have been 164 tomorrow.

Investigate Burglary

Wheeling police are investigating a burglary from a house at 777 Jennie St.

Items missing in the burglary include a 22 inch tall safe, one or two small revolvers, two watches, two strings of pearls, a ladies wig, and a men's gym bag.

Wheeling police were called to the home at 10 p.m. Tuesday. Mrs. Eugene P. McCartney told police that she had left the house at 7:45 p.m. and returned at 10 p.m.

Police said the burglars apparently entered through a bedroom window.

Mental Health Vote Slated For Tomorrow

by SANDRA BROWNING

Voters in four townships will decide tomorrow whether they want to be taxed for mental health and mental retardation services.

Tomorrow's mental health referendum will ask voter approval of a mental health tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with officials estimating that the first year's tax will be about half that amount. If the maximum rate were levied, the resulting tax would be about $15 on a home with a market value of $30,000.

The polls in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The precincts are the same as for the last regular election in November.

If approved, the township's boards of auditors will be authorized to levy a tax and create a special mental health fund. The boards will be authorized to determine the exact amount of the tax each year, with the first mental health tax being added to property bills in the spring of next year.

If voters approve the tax, the townships are authorized by state law to levy and collect the tax to provide local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

BEHIND THE REQUEST for the referendum is a citizens committee which is in the process of forming the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. This council includes representatives from the four townships, general hospitals, schools for handicapped children, mental health clinics, public schools and other agencies which serve residents in the four township area.

If the referendum is approved, one goal of the council will be to present a consolidated request to each township board. In this manner, township boards could deal with one group, the council, for money from the mental health fund.

As planned, the consolidated budget would include the requests for mental health fund money from the 12 separate agencies in the council. With this plan, the council hopes to be able to eliminate duplication of services and encourage the development of new services not now provided.

ACCORDING TO the council, some of the services which are not presently readily available include treatment and follow-up for alcohol and drug addiction, partial hospitalization for those not needing full-time hospitalization, intensive treatment, post-hospital rehabilitation and residential care for severely retarded and emotionally disturbed youth.

The council will also be forming a comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services. This comprehensive plan would attempt to provide a range of mental health and mental retardation services, from youth to old age. The plan would also stress that these services be provided by local agencies as opposed to remote, impersonal facilities, according to council officials.

Concert Signup Ends Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the deadline for purchasing season memberships in the Northwest Community Concert Association for the 1971-72 concert season. Membership is open to all residents of the Northwest suburbs.

Memberships in the association may be obtained by contacting Marjorie Beu, president of the association, at the Dist. 21 Administration Building, 537-8270.

Memberships are $10 for adults and $5 for students, and entitle the holder to admission at the four community concerts to be given in 1971-72. Tickets for individual performances will not be available.

Included in the 1971-72 concert series will be "Three on Broadway," "New York Pro Musica," and "Invitation to the Dance." The fourth concert has not been selected.

"THREE ON BROADWAY" will feature singers Ronald Rogers and Jan McArt, with pianist accompaniment. They will perform a variety of Broadway show tunes written by such composers as Richard Rogers, Leonard Bernstein, Victor Herbert, Sigmund Romberg, Irving Berlin and Cole Porter.

"New York Pro Musica" will feature a group of singers and instrumentalists performing medieval and Renaissance music.

"Invitation to the Dance," will feature as narrator, Ruth Page, choreographer and artistic director for the Lyric Opera of Chicago. Also featured on the program will be four dancers from Miss Page's Chicago company. They will perform ensemble and solo dances from both classic and contemporary repertory.

St. Joseph The Worker

School Will Be Kept Open

St. Joseph the Worker School will open for the 1971-72 school year even though the Sisters of Mercy will no longer staff the Wheeling school on a full-time basis.

The announcement was made by the Rev. George Mulcahey, pastor of St. Joseph the Worker Church, and Edward Mertz, chairman of the parish board, at a general meeting of the parish Monday.

Father Mulcahey said the decision to keep the school open next year was reached jointly by the parish board and the Chicago Archdiocese.

He said the decision was based on the results of a survey of the parishioners taken in January. The survey found 73 per cent of the respondents to be in favor of keeping the school operating.

FATHER MULCAHEY said a drive will be conducted sometime this year to raise money for the church and school. Currently there is a $486,000 debt on the school building.

Tuition will be the same in the next school year as it is this year, $150 per child per year, $225 for two children from the same family, and $275 for three children from the same family.

Currently about 275 children attend St. Joseph.

The school will continue to offer classes for children in grades one through eight, as well as physical education, art and music programs.

Father Mulcahey said an all-day faculty would probably be employed, but he did not rule out the possibility of obtaining teaching sisters for the school.

IN DECEMBER, the Sisters of Mercy, who now have five teaching sisters at St. Joseph, announced that they would not teach there next fall, due to a shortage of personnel in the order.

Two sisters from the order will teach religion classes at the school in the next year.

The decision to keep the school open next year was made in the face of a financial crisis which has hit the school for the past several years.

The deficit for teachers' salaries was $65,000 last year, and enrollment has been going down, while tuition has been rising. Enrollment was 400 two years ago and tuition was $90 per child. Last year enrollment was 371 and tuition was $140.

Summer Baseball Signup Slated

The Buffalo Grove Recreation Association will hold a two-day registration this weekend for its summer baseball program.

CD Training Is Promised Commission

The director of Buffalo Grove's newly created civil defense commission has promised that the civil defense effort in the village will not consist of "a bunch of people running around with silly white helmets and radios."

Steven Brooks, of 851 Essington Ln., was named along with four other residents as the first members of the civil defense commission, created by village ordinance Feb. 1. In the past the village only had a civil defense director in charge of all civil defense operations.

Others named to the commission are Donald Duval, of 216 Glendale Rd., Lawrence Schwartz, of 129 Stonegate Rd., James Farrow, of 1 Forestway Ct., and Donald Schindler, of 550 Checker Rd. Schindler is also the village sanitarian.

"FIRST AND FOREMOST will be our efforts to seek accreditation of the program by the state of Illinois," Brooks said. "This will entitle us to certain privileges including the purchase of surplus government equipment."

Brooks said in order to gain accreditation by the state, the civil defense commission must submit a plan of operation to state officials. Once the plan is approved state funds can be used to buy equipment, Brooks said.

Brooks met with Robert S. Ritz Jr., deputy director of the Illinois Civil Defense Agency last week in Springfield to discuss the civil defense program in the village.

"Mr. Ritz promised the support and cooperation of his office in getting our program organized," Brooks said.

Brooks termed the civil defense program the village presently has as "inadequate," and said he has scheduled a meeting tomorrow with the fire chief, police chief and director of public works to discuss the new program.

"OUR PROGRAM will depend very heavily on the assistance we get from the police and fire departments. We need their advice and help to make any program work," Brooks said.

"We are hoping to get an area in the basement of the municipal building for an emergency operations and communications center," he added.

Brooks said the emphasis of the new program will be on natural disaster control rather than concentrating on reaction to a nuclear attack.

"We are trying to awaken the public and make them aware of the civil defense commission," Brooks said. He is in the process of preparing a tornado bulletin to be mailed to all village residents, describing safety precautions to be taken in case of a tornado warning.

The registration fee is $10 per person, with a maximum of $25 for more than two boys per family.

All boys also must purchase five decals at $1 each to resell to raise money for the program.

A second registration will be held the following weekend at the same times.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Gov. Ogilvie announced a $1.1 billion welfare budget for fiscal 1972, including an expected $65 million in federal money.

The Illinois House created a special ethics commission to evaluate the various Paul Powell investigations, and suggest ethics legislation.

A bill was introduced to the General Assembly that would put the regulation and licensing of cable television under the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Weather officials warned that a potential flood situation still exists in the Rock River Basin. The flood waters in the river were receding, but shifting ice jams upstream created the new threat.

State Treasurer Alan Dixon said he'd do away with "the old guessing game" of whether there is a surplus in the state treasury. He promised a monthly computerized report for every Illinois agency.

The Nation

President Nixon — in his State of the world message — said Russia's huge increase in strategic military power could tempt the Soviets into bolder challenges in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Wholesale prices showed their highest jump in 15 years in January and February, largely because of an increase in livestock prices. Higher meat prices are expected as a result.

The War

South Vietnam President Thieu was quoted as saying it's only a matter of time until his country's forces launch a drive against North Vietnam. Hanoi's delegate at the Paris peace talks repeated the charge that the United States is planning such an invasion. Communist troops followed heavily armed tanks through American rocket and artillery fire to overrun one South Vietnamese position in Laos, and threaten another.

U.S. battle deaths in the Indochina fighting were reported at 59 for the past week, the highest since last Nov. 21.

The Weather

Relief came to the blizzard-swept central plains, with springlike temperatures spreading up from the Southwest to cover most of the nation. Only in Maine were temperatures frigid, with the nation's low — 10 below zero — at Houlton. With the general thaw came threats of floods over a wide portion of the nation's midsection.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	59	37
Houston	52	29
Los Angeles	72	51
Miami Beach	77	74
Minneapolis	35	18
New York	45	37
Phoenix	71	44
Seattle	47	37

The Market

Trading slowed at the finish, but the third straight day of higher prices held on the Big Board. At the close, 16,200,000 shares had been traded, and the Dow-Jones Industrial barometer showed a rise of 6.36. Prices held steady on the American Exchange in moderate turnover, with the Amex index up 0.02.

Joint Youth Services Talk Slated

A discussion of the joint youth services program proposed by the Wheeling Youth Commission, HELP, Inc. and the TORCH Mental Health Clinic will highlight the next meeting of HELP on March 24.

The meeting at Wheeling High School will be open to the public.

Richard Wynn, director of the TORCH Mental Health Clinic, will discuss the youth proposal and answer questions. Wynn was originally scheduled to make the presentation.

At Wednesday's meeting, HELP members learned from Dist. 214 officials that the final results of the confidential drug survey recently administered in all Dist. 214 schools would not be completed for several months.

THE SECOND PART of the survey, which will involve personal interviews with about 100 high school students, will not be completed until fall. The Dist. 214 representatives said that about 13,000 of the 16,000 district high school students answered the survey.

David Whiteside, instructional coordinator for Dist. 214, told HELP members about the drug seminars currently under way in four of the district's high schools. Purpose of the seminars, started with the aid of a grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, are to train the district staff to become more comfortable in dealing with drug abuse problems, Whiteside said.

The program involves daytime seminars between high school teachers, counselors and students, and evening sessions between Dist. 214 teachers, counselors and parents. Persons trained in the field of drug abuse moderate the sessions and are used as resource people, he said.

Whiteside said he feels the program has been successful in familiarizing the Dist. 214 personnel with the problems of drug abuse and how to counsel persons with these problems.

Library Loaned 1,000 Books

The Wheeling Public Library has received 1,000 books on permanent loan from the Illinois State Library.

"They are children's and young adult books, and including many titles we did not have," said Ray Deutsch, head librarian of the Wheeling district.

The books, now in storage, will be placed in the new Wheeling library when completed in spring.

"They will help to expand our children's section," Deutsch said.

The North Suburban Library System paid the cost of shipping the books to Wheeling. A total of 12,000 books were given to the system by the state library. The system forwarded the books to 10 library districts.

Psychic Program Set

Palm readers, astrologers and tarot card interpreters will be in Arlington Heights Sunday for the second "Psychics in Action," sponsored by the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect.

The event will last from 1 to 9 p.m. It will be at the American Legion Hall, Douglas and Miner streets in Arlington Heights.

An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged. Cost for individual readings will be $2.50.

Jackie Hoffer of Des Plaines is one of the psychics who will be there. A palm reader, she believes, that "while everything that happens to a person registers scientifically on their hand, emotions are also recorded in areas of the palm."

ANOTHER of the psychics who will be there is the Rev. Amelia Doerr who has been active in psychic work for the last 10 years. He will be joined by the Rev. Fred Haas. Rev. Haas has been a psychic for 20 years.

Alan Sandler, who has been a counselor on psychic phenomena for the last 15 years will also be there. During the "Psychics in Action" event Sunday he will discuss astrology, tarot cards and hypnosis.

Among the other psychics who will be at the American Legion hall are Paul Ranon, a palmist; Ann Ferro, who will discuss "past lives;" and Charles Roytzen, an astrologer.

Sunday's "Psychics in Action" is the second such gathering of psychics to be sponsored by the Guardsmen. Refreshments will be available during the day at the hall.

'Longfellow Day' Slated At School

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow has a birthday on Saturday and students at Longfellow School in Buffalo Grove will celebrate it with a party this morning.

The Longfellow student council has proclaimed today "Longfellow Day" at the school. The students will perform skits to illustrate the poetry of the 19th century poet. Primary grade students will present their skits at 9:30 a.m. and intermediate students at 10:30 a.m. Several groups will also sing "Happy Birthday" to Henry.

Today has also been proclaimed "Dress-Up Day" and the students will come to school dressed as for a birthday party.

The idea for the birthday party originated with Longfellow prin. Bob Sorenson.

"One of the big problems is that many of the kids don't know who Longfellow was, or what he wrote. When I found out tomorrow is Longfellow's birthday, I suggested a party to the teachers and the idea mushroomed," he said.

Longfellow would have been 164 tomorrow.

Investigate Burglary

Wheeling police are investigating a burglary from a house at 84 E. Dennis St.

Items missing in the burglary include a 22 inch tall safe, one or two small revolvers, two watches, two strings of pearls, a ladies wig, and a men's gym bag.

Wheeling police were called to the home at 10 p.m. Tuesday. Mrs. Eugene P. McCartney told police that she had left the house at 7:45 p.m. and returned at 10 p.m.

Police said the burglars apparently entered through a bedroom window.

When Naming Chips Are Down...

by GRAIG GAARE

If Elk Grove has Elk Grove High School, and Wheeling has Wheeling High School, then why shouldn't Dist. 214's proposed eighth high school be named Buffalo Grove High School?

The same reasoning can be used about this issue as in my campaign to bring a buffalo back to Buffalo Grove. After all, if everything else in town is named after a buffalo, why not the high school too?

Consider for instance, alternate names for the school. Let's see, there could be Albert Frank High School, named after a local developer. What about Levitt and Sons High School, or Son-of-a-Levitt High School?

PERHAPS THE SCHOOL could be named after a village landmark which has aroused the interest of citizens — Arlington Heights Road.

The problem is that all of these suggested names are surrounded by controversy. Not every one likes Al Frank, everyone is not pleased with Levitt and Sons, and a lot of people are unhappy with rutted, decaying Arlington Heights Road. Besides, there already is an Arlington High School.

Actually, the way to avoid the entire issue is to name the school after something in the village. There is Buffalo

Craig Gaare

Grove Road, Buffalo Grove Mall, The Bank of Buffalo Grove, The Buffalo Grove Medical Center, all resulting in the name-Buffalo Grove High School.

Well let's try something else. There's Buffalo Creek and Bill's Buffalo House, giving us the name Buffalo High School. That would be a compromise, like Prospect High School, which accommodates students from Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights.

ALSO, NAMING THE school Buffalo High School would have the built-in advantage of not having to go through the school's athletic teams. The choice school's athletic teams. The choice would be obvious — the bison.

However, the ultimate compromise would be to name the school after a historical figure, a local landmark and still please those holding out for Buffalo Grove High School. The choice is so simple — "Buffalo" Bill Cody High School.

The name would incorporate everything, using the word Buffalo, the name "Bill," as in Bill's Buffalo House, and the surname of William F. Cody, a figure out of American history, who killed buffaloes. Maybe he killed all the buffaloes in Buffalo Grove and that's why there's none left.

Arlington Who?

Wheeling officials complained good-naturedly Monday about a recent advertising campaign for the new Sandpebble Walk condominium project on Palatine road.

Board members were miffed by the fact that the advertisements for the project describe it as being "in the Wheeling-Arlington Heights area" when the development is actually in the Wheeling village limits.

Village president Ted C. Scanlon told board members that the development has sold 32 condominium units in the past two weeks.

"Either it pays to advertise or it pays to be in Wheeling," Scanlon said.

Voters To Decide Mental Health Plan Fate Tomorrow

by SANDRA BROWNING

Voters in four townships will decide tomorrow whether they want to be taxed for mental health and mental retardation services.

Tomorrow's mental health referendum will ask voter approval of a mental health tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with officials estimating that the first year's tax will be about half that amount. If the maximum rate were levied, the resulting tax would be about $15 on a home with a market value of $30,000.

The polls in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The precincts are the same as for the last regular election in November.

If approved, the township's boards of auditors will be authorized to levy a tax and create a special mental health fund. The boards will be authorized to determine the exact amount of the tax each year, with the first mental health tax being added to property bills in the spring of next year.

If voters approve the tax, the townships are authorized by state law to levy and collect the tax to provide local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

BEHIND THE REQUEST for the referendum is a citizens committee which is in the process of forming the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. This council includes representatives from the four townships, general hospitals, schools for handicapped children, mental health clinics, public schools and other agencies which serve residents in the four township area.

If the referendum is approved, one goal of the council will be to present a consolidated request to each township board. In this manner, township boards could deal with one group, the council, for money from the mental health fund.

As planned, the consolidated budget would include the requests for mental health fund money from the 12 separate agencies in the council. With this plan, the council hopes to be able to eliminate duplication of services and encourage the development of new services not now provided.

ACCORDING TO the council, some of the services which are not presently readily available include treatment and follow-up for alcohol and drug addiction, partial hospitalization for those not needing full-time hospitalization, intensive treatment, post-hospital rehabilitation and residential care for severely retarded and emotionally disturbed youth.

The council will also be forming a comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services. This comprehensive plan would attempt to provide a range of mental health and mental retardation services, from youth to old age. The plan would also stress that these services be provided by local agencies as opposed to remote, impersonal facilities, according to council officials.

No Proposals Reached On Salt Creek

No final proposals concerning the dividing of the Salt Creek Rural Park District among the Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows Park Districts came out of a meeting of the district's representatives Wednesday evening.

Directors and attorneys of the districts will meet over the next six weeks to decide who will annex what portion of Salt Creek and pay what percentage of Salt Creek's $55,000 debt.

Ultimate say in which district gets what portion of Salt Creek will be decided by Salt Creek residents in an upcoming survey. Richard Mugalian, attorney for Salt Creek, said the survey will not be coming until the three park districts present presentations to residents regarding what they can offer.

The three park districts will be drawing up presentations during the next few weeks, emphasizing what they can offer Salt Creek residents that they do not have already.

EACH OF THE three park districts would like to annex certain portions of the smaller Salt Creek Rural Park District, with the district's approval. In several cases, two districts are claiming the same portions.

UNDER A TENTATIVE plan presented by Arlington Heights Park District representatives, they would annex the Arlington Park Race Track and Arlington Crest subdivision. Palatine Park District would annex Winston Park Unit 6 and Rolling Meadows Park District would get South Park and an industrial strip along Hicks Road.

Representatives of Palatine objected to the plan because it gave portions of corporate Palatine to the other two park districts. Arlington Crest subdivision and the southeast corner of Hicks Road and the Chicago and North Western Rwy. tracks are part of the Village of Palatine.

Arlington Heights Park Board president Charles Cronin defended his district's claiming of Arlington Crest by pointing out that Rte. 53 was a natural boundary. Arlington Crest is south of Rte. 53, nearly cut off from the rest of Palatine.

Cronin also pointed out that Arlington

Crest was closer to the Frontier Pool in Arlington Heights than to the Community Park Pool in Palatine.

PALATINE PARK BOARD president Norman Gaare argued that Arlington Crest was in Palatine and that putting it in the Arlington Heights park district would only cause further local boundary confusion. He added that Community Park pool is only a few extra blocks from Arlington Crest than Frontier Pool.

While Arlington Heights was holding up the Rte. 53 natural boundary for Palatine, it was pointed out that the tentative plan would give Arlington Heights land on both sides of Rte. 53 west of the U. S. 14-Rte. 53 intersection.

Representatives also discussed absorbing the $55,000 debt incurred by Salt Creek in building a fieldhouse in Arlington Crest. Dean Hallerud of the Rolling Meadows Park District suggested that the districts absorb a portion of the debt in proportion to the assessed valuation of property they annex.

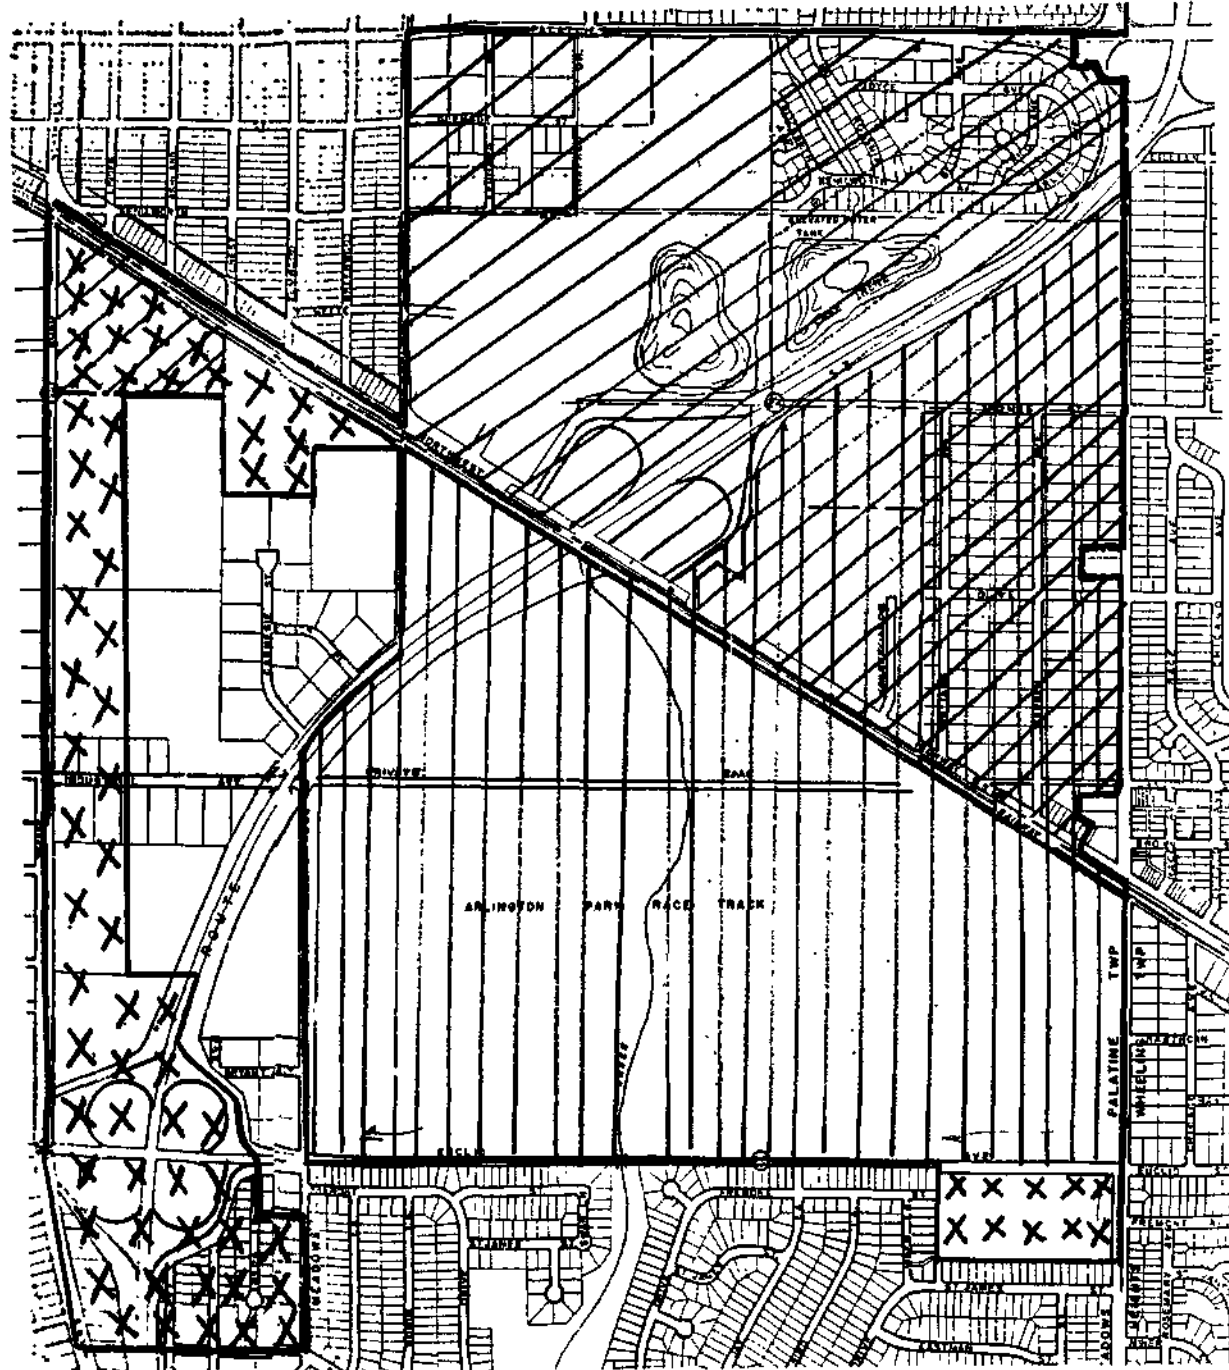

UNDER THE TENTATIVE plan, Arlington Heights would get about 45 percent of Salt Creek's $19,959,901 assessed property value. Arlington Heights would get $9 million in assessed property while Palatine and Rolling Meadows would get about $5.4 million each.

CHARLES BOBINETTE, Arlington Heights park district attorney, suggested that the districts enter into a pre-annexation agreement with Salt Creek so residents will pay off the debt. This way, residents of the three annexing park districts would not have to pay off Salt Creek's debt.

Arlington Heights park director Thomas Thornton suggested that since the debt was incurred building the fieldhouse in Arlington Crest, the district annexing the subdivision get all of the debt.

Bobinette suggested a special abatement levy on current Salt Creek property to pay for the fieldhouse. It was decided that the three park district's attorneys decide how the debt should be paid off.

Another meeting of the three park districts will be scheduled after the directors and attorneys have met and drawn up plans to present the Salt Creek board.

IF THE SALT Creek Rural Park District is dissolved, this is how the district would be divided among the three surrounding park districts according to the Arlington Heights plan. Arlington Heights' annexation area is marked by vertical lines, Palatine's by diagonal lines, and Rolling Meadows' by X's. Overlapping areas are claimed by Palatine, since they are within the corporate limits of Palatine. Who will get which piece of property will ultimately be decided by Salt Creek residents.

Retention Basin Eyed By Park Unit

Palatine Park Board members got a preliminary look at the Palatine and Quentin roads retention basin park at a recent meeting.

According to a conceptual plan presented by Richard Lanyon of the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD), the site will contain a permanent lake and large acreage of land that can be used for a recreational park.

Board Pres. Norman Gaare said the plan looked more attractive than the original plan, which called for a large bowl rather than plenty of level land.

MSD plans called for baseball diamonds, a football field, several tennis courts and a picnic area. The Palatine Park District, however, may call for a plan of their own from architect Bill Vaughan.

BOARD MEMBERS have been considering a proposal to develop a park at the site through an agreement with MSD and the U.S. Department of Soil Conservation. The retention basin has been proposed as part of the Salt Creek Water Shed Project.

If the park district and the agencies enter into an agreement, MSD will shape the earth at the basin site to park district specifications. Then, it will be the park district's job to maintain it.

Lanyon pointed out that the basin site would only be wet about 25 days a year. The rest of the time, it would be dry enough to use as a recreation site.

Light rains would be absorbed by the permanent lake on the site. Heavier rains would flood only part of the basin. Only really heavy rains would flood the entire basin.

Water in the basin would be controlled by pumps. Water that flows into the basin during flood conditions would be pumped out as soon as the level of Salt Creek drops, Lanyon said.

LANYON SAID MSD had learned a few things from previous retention basin it has built. He presented a slide show of one of MSD's first basins in Stickney Township.

Silt from the river became a problem in the Stickney retention basin, Lanyon pointed out. In the Palatine-Quentin site, the lake will be built to take silt out of the water. Then, every ten years, the lake would be dredged to its original depth.

Another problem was nearby residents dumping of garbage in the stream taking

This Morning In Brief

The State

Gov. Ogilvie announced a $1.1 billion welfare budget for fiscal 1972, including an expected $65 million in federal money.

The Illinois House created a special ethics commission to evaluate the various Paul Powell investigations, and suggest ethics legislation.

A bill was introduced to the General Assembly that would put the regulation and licensing of cable television under the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Weather officials warned that a potential flood situation still exists in the Rock River Basin. The flood waters in the river were receding, but shifting ice jams upstream created the new threat.

State Treasurer Alan Dixon said he'd do away with "the old guessing game" of whether there is a surplus in the state treasury. He promised a monthly computerized report for every Illinois agency.

The Nation

President Nixon — in his State of the world message — said Russia's huge increase in strategic military power could tempt the Soviets into bolder challenges in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Wholesale prices showed their highest jump in 15 years in January and February, largely because of an increase in livestock prices. Higher meat prices are expected as a result.

The War

South Vietnam President Thieu was quoted as saying it's only a matter of time until his country's forces launch a drive against North Vietnam. Hanoi's delegate at the Paris peace talks repeated the charge that the United States is planning such an invasion. Communist troops followed heavily armed tanks through American rocket and artillery fire to overrun one South Vietnamese position in Laos, and threaten another. U.S. battle deaths in the Indochina fighting were reported at 59 for the past week, the highest since last Nov. 21.

The Weather

Relief came to the blizzard-swept central plains, with springlike temperatures spreading up from the Southwest to cover most of the nation. Only in Maine were temperatures frigid, with the nation's low — 10 below zero — at Houlton. With the general thaw came threats of floods over a wide portion of the nation's midsection.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Houston	52	29
Atlanta	59	37
Los Angeles	72	51
Miami Beach	77	74
Minneapolis	35	18
New York	45	37
Phoenix	71	44

The Market

Trading slowed at the finish, but the third straight day of higher prices held on the Big Board. At the close, 16,200,000 shares had been traded, and the Dow-Jones Industrial barometer showed a rise of 6.36. Prices held steady on the American Exchange in moderate turnover, with the Ampex index up 0.02.

Speakout

Most Uninformed About Referendum

by JIM HODL

Quite a few people still do not know what tomorrow's mental health referendum is about. A few don't even know when it will be held.

In a random sample taken by phone, Speakout found few people who knew anything about the referendum in Palatine. Rolling Meadows and Inverness. While some read newspapers, they somehow missed any reference to Saturday's election. If passed by the electorate, four local townships will be able to levy a tax of 10 cents on $100 assessed property value toward supporting mental health.

Mrs. Nancy Perry of Palatine said she didn't know what the referendum was about. She said she didn't even know that the referendum was to be held tomorrow. Mrs. Perry was joined by Mrs. Daniel Boeup, 515 Bruno Dr., Palatine, and another Palatine resident, all who knew nothing of the referendum.

Mrs. Frances Scalpone, Box 348, Palatine, said she had no knowledge of the referendum being held tomorrow until she saw an election announcement posted at a local school.

"I wish somebody had told me about it," she said. "Nobody came to my house to tell me about it. I thought the precinct captains or somebody was supposed to inform the voters of these elections."

"I didn't even get a pamphlet in the mail concerning the referendum."

Mrs. Scalpone complained that people who live in rural areas like herself are often forgotten by the people in the village. Rarely do they get any information concerning the issues involved in them, she said.

She said she would like to vote on the referendum but knows very little about it.

"If the referendum will ultimately help mental health in this area, I'm all for it," she said. "However, I'd like to find out what the referendum means to taxpayers."

Mrs. Barbara Milewski, 3404 Peacock Ln., Rolling Meadows, said she had no opinion on the referendum.

She said she would like to see mental health improved in the area without raising taxes. She said something like Gateway House would be beneficial in the area, operating on private funds.

"Right now, it takes nine months to get a child into a mental health institution," Mrs. Milewski said. "This shouldn't be."

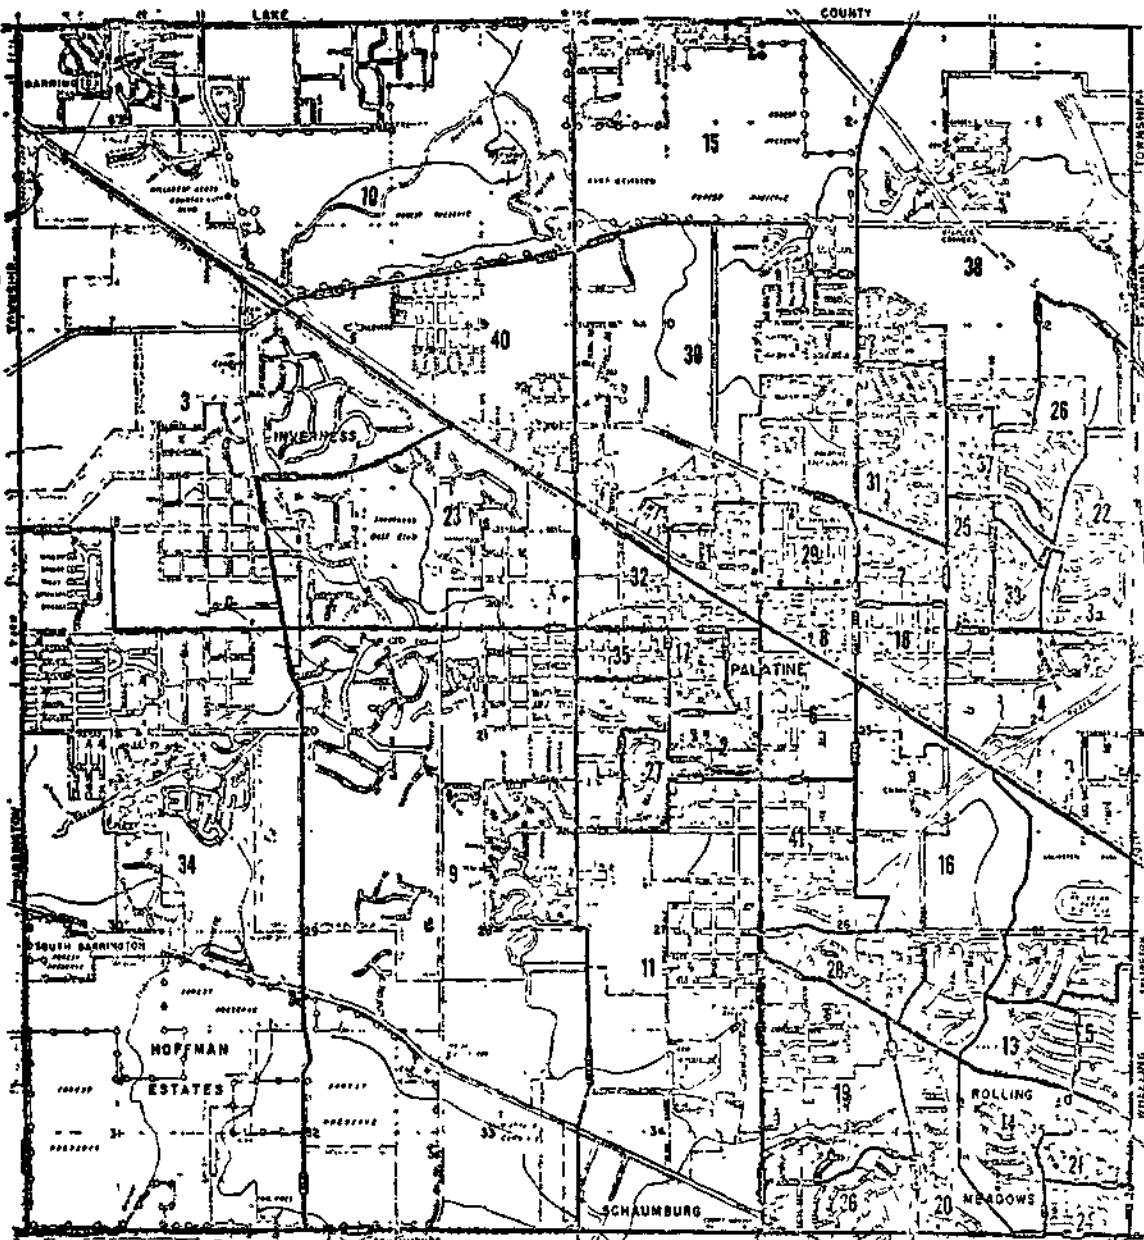

Some people did have a knowledge of the issues involved in the referendum. Frank Miller, 3104 St. James St., Rolling Meadows, said he was in favor of the referendum.

"This is a necessary thing," Miller said. "The mental health institutions need the aid and it has to come from somewhere."

An Inverness housewife said she was against it.

"I work at Little City," she said. "The issue is whether a child can get proper care. With public aid through taxes, local mental health care would be reduced to the level of a public hospital in quality."

"Mental health care will be better with private funding. Government should be kept out of this area."

This is a map of the 41 precincts within Palatine Township.

Wins Table Decoration Prize

Cub Scout Tim Kohn won the grand prize for designing the best table decoration used at Pack 188's recent Blue and Gold Dinner.

Kohn built a carousel out of a "genius kit" to win the prize. Runners-up were Andy Countryman, Mark Doebler, Paul Krebaum and Sean Reilly.

For the second year, Pack 188 has given scouts "genius kits" to build table decorations for the dinner. Each kit contains some construction paper, a piece of plastic, some macaroni noodles, popsicle sticks, a few pipecleaners, some buttons, stars, a piece of cardboard, a paper plate, a paper cup and a coffee can lid.

FROM THIS, scouts build anything they want to, ranging from shooting galleries to windmills.

In distributing scouting awards at the dinner, Paul Krebaum led all other scouts, winning a gold and two silver arrows. Mark Reppinger and Andy Countryman also were awarded gold arrows.

Webbs, Kevin Ricess, Jerry Swaim and Tracy Butler each won an activity badge. Jay Saladino was awarded his Bear Badge.

At the pack's next meeting on March 26, scouts will compete in the annual Pinewood Derby.

Local Leaders To Pursue New Hospital

A 150-bed acute care hospital to be located in Hoffman Estates will be pursued by a committee of local community leaders.

A 25-acre site on the Robin Construction Co. property near the southwest corner of Higgins and Barrington roads is being considered for the facility.

The hospital, expected to cost $50,000 per bed, will be organized as a not-for-profit facility. The possibility of profit making service facilities within the hospital is still in the exploratory stages.

On the committee is Michael Redmond, a member of the Hoffman Estates plans commission and an executive administrator at Weiss Memorial Hospital in Chicago.

The hospital will have to serve communities central between St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village, Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights and Sherman Hospital in Elgin, he said.

Participation by community leaders from Barrington, Palatine, Inverness, Schaumburg, Roselle, Hanover Park, Streamwood and Bartlett was mentioned. Redmond said that 30 to 40 per cent of the funds to build the hospital will have to come from the communities the hospital will serve.

Robert Rew, also serving on the committee, is pursuing parties from outside the area who could help to finance the difference in cost and staff for the hospital.

Rew is president of the business council and Chamber of Commerce in Hoffman Estates. He is also president of the Suburban Bank of Hoffman Estates.

Plans to build the hospital conflict with those of a Schaumburg committee working to establish a hospital on 10 acres along Schaumburg Road.

Richard Regan, of the Hoffman Estates group, said the Robin property is better for a hospital because of close access to and from the Northwest Tollway and a larger site is available that will allow future expansions. The forest preserve property nearby is still another asset, he added.

Regan is chairman of the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission.

Also to serve on the Hoffman Estates committee will be Mayor Frederick Downey and Steve Robin of Robin Construction Co.

School To Host Music Contest

Approximately 1,700 music students will spend the day at Douglas MacArthur Junior High School tomorrow to compete in a contest sponsored by the Illinois Grade School Music Association.

Mac Arthur School officials are hosting students from 25 schools in the Northern Illinois region. The competition will be held in three categories: solo, ensemble and instrumental.

At the beginning of the day, about 9 a.m., each of the judges will be assigned to a particular classroom and instrument. Each student will be evaluated on an individual rating sheet. These sheets will be tabulated at the school office, and the first through third place winners will be announced at the end of the day.

Last year, according to Mac Arthur principal Gerald McGovern, the majority of the Prospect Heights students entered in the contest received a first place award.

Girl Missing 3 Weeks, Is Home

A Rolling Meadows teenager missing from home for almost three weeks was returned to her mother yesterday.

Dawn Miller, 14, was returned home by Rolling Meadows police after she walked into a police station in Woodstock, Ill. early Thursday morning.

The girl told police she knew they were close to finding her and decided to stop hiding, according to Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case.

He said immediately after she was reported missing flyers with her picture were sent to all surrounding police departments.

A juvenile court hearing will be held sometime next week, according to Case. But Dawn already has been referred to the newly created Youth Referral Committee in Rolling Meadows.

Designed to help troubled local youth, the new committee is expected to help with home, and school problems.

"THIS IS A GOOD test for the new group," Case said.

Dawn disappeared from her home on Feb. 6. Case said she remained in the general vicinity of Rolling Meadows, although she was not in the city. He said she spent several days in the Elgin area.

"There were several adults along the way who gave her housing," Case said.

"I don't understand how people can do that without calling the police," he added.

The juvenile court hearing will be held to determine if any action should be taken against those who contributed to her delinquency, according to Case.

Retention Basin Eyed By Park Unit

water back to the creek. Lanyon said the garbage created all sorts of problems, so the stream was channeled into a closed culvert.

But Lanyon added that MSD tries to keep such streams in the open wherever possible.

Board members suggested that dirt dredged from the basin be put on a ten acre swampy area northeast of the basin site. Then, they said, roads heading north could be dead-ended and parking lots, needed near the park could be built.

LANYON SAID THE entire water shed project will cost $50 million, but that $30 million had already been spent on land acquisition. All that remains is for the basins to be designed and built.

He said this would be done after plans for the water shed project clear Congress. Work should begin some time after this fall, he said.

In addition to maintaining a recreational park on the Palatine and Quentin roads site, the Palatine Park District will maintain another site behind the Reseda West subdivision near the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way.

The park district may also maintain another site near Rte. 53 at Rossiter Lake and join Harper College in maintaining still another near the college on Algonquin Road.

Lanyon said the Palatine-Quentin retention basin was important since it would control flooding at Salt Creek's headwaters. By controlling the flooding there, a larger one down stream could be prevented, he said.

PTA Notes

"PARTICIPATE TOGETHER In Arts and Crafts," a special art display, will be featured at the next meeting of the Kimball Hill School PTA at 8 p.m. March 9.

Following a short business meeting in which new PTA officers will be elected, PTA members will take a "Hobby Walk" in which a wide variety of art objects will be viewed.

Instruction sheets on construction of many of the objects to be displayed will also be available. Coffee and refreshments will be served at the meeting.

A SPRING LUNCHEON and fashion show, sponsored by the Immanuel Lutheran School Parent Teacher League, will be held at 11 a.m. March 13 in the school cafeteria.

Beverly Fashions will present a complete line of spring fashions featuring clothes for teens to the elderly. Tickets may be purchased at the door at the school office. Donations are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for school children. A door prize will be given at the show.

Immanuel Lutheran is located at North Plum Grove Road and Lincoln in Palatine.

Revived Baby Is Reported In Fair Condition

The eight-month-old Wheeling girl whose life was saved by an Arlington Heights policeman's actions Wednesday morning remained in fair condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital.

The girl, Tammi Williams, daughter of Mrs. Veronica Williams of 942 Norman Ln., was revived at the hospital after she arrived with no respiration, and a very weak pulse. She was admitted in fair condition and treated for shock and infection.

The baby's life was probably saved by Patrolman Robert Lindquist, of the Arlington Heights police, who rushed the child to the hospital in his squad car.

Mrs. Williams, being driven to the hospital by a neighbor, reportedly was delayed from crossing the Chicago and North Western Rwy tracks for several minutes by two trains.

Voters To Decide Mental Health Plan Fate Tomorrow

by SANDRA BROWNING
Voters in four townships will decide tomorrow whether they want to be taxed for mental health and mental retardation services.

Tomorrow's mental health referendum will ask voter approval of a mental health tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with officials estimating that the first year's tax will be about half that amount. If the maximum rate were levied, the resulting tax would be about $15 on a home with a market value of $30,000.

The polls in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The precincts are the same as for the last regular election in November.

If approved, the township's boards of auditors will be authorized to levy a tax and create a special mental health fund. The boards will be authorized to determine the exact amount of the tax each year, with the first mental health tax being added to property bills in the spring of next year.

If voters approve the tax, the townships are authorized by state law to levy and collect the tax to provide local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

BEHIND THE REQUEST for the referendum is a citizens committee which is in the process of forming the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. This council includes representatives from the four townships, general hospitals, schools for handicapped children, mental health clinics, public schools and other agencies which serve residents in the four township area.

If the referendum is approved, one goal of the council will be to present a consolidated request to each township board. In this manner, township boards could deal with one group, the council, for money from the mental health fund.

As planned, the consolidated budget would include the requests for mental health fund money from the 12 separate agencies in the council. With this plan, the council hopes to be able to eliminate duplication of services and encourage the development of new services not now provided.

ACCORDING TO the council, some of the services which are not presently readily available include treatment and follow-up for alcohol and drug addiction, partial hospitalization for those not needing full-time hospitalization, intensive treatment, post-hospital rehabilitation and residential care for severely retarded and emotionally disturbed youth.

The council will also be forming a comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services. This comprehensive plan would attempt to provide a range of mental health and mental retardation services, from youth to old age. The plan would also stress that these services be provided by local agencies as opposed to remote, impersonal facilities, according to council officials.

No Big Deal? City Marks Its 16th Birthday

It's not such a big deal as last year, but today Rolling Meadows marks its 16th birthday.

Over 850 residents attended an anniversary dance last year to celebrate the 15th birthday. This year, the city's aldermen celebrated by cutting into and eating a birthday cake at their latest council meeting.

The city was incorporated on Feb. 26, 1955.

One of the youngest towns in the Northwest suburban area, Rolling Meadows has grown from its original 144 families to almost 20,000 residents in the 1970 census. Increasing industry and businesses have provided the city government with healthy finances and a substantial sales tax surplus, making it the envy of many surrounding municipalities.

THE CITY GOT its start in the early 1960's when Kimball Hill, the father of Rolling Meadows, purchased 500 acres on the south side of Euclid Avenue to begin his housing development. The rolling, but not hilly, topography of the land led Hill to give the area its appropriate name.

In 1964, the area for the shopping center on Kirchhoff Road, the central business area of town, was determined but construction did not begin until leases were signed. At that time, a firm of engineers surveyed the area and estimated the customer potential of the proposed shopping center at 19,000.

DURING THE SIXTIES, a boom in commercial and industrial expansion hit the city, primarily in the south and west sections of town. As large apartment complexes were constructed, the face of the single-family, quiet community began to be changed into that of a busy and successful city.

In the past year, Rolling Meadows has been given a high school of its own, a new elementary school, purchased new fire fighting equipment, including a large snorkel, built an expansive Sports Complex complete with professional sized ice rink, and greatly improved its garbage service.

Backed by its sales tax surplus, improvement of existing facilities within the city and development of more structures in and around the city should continue as Rolling Meadows begins its 16th year.

An Arlington Heights resident's suit against the high school Dist. 214 school board 1971-72 attendance map has been continued until 2 p.m. today in Cook County Circuit court.

John Kirkland, a lawyer who lives at 606 S. Patton in southwest Arlington Heights, has asked the court to make the school district redraw boundary lines to include Kirkland's residence in the Arlington High School attendance area.

Present 1971-72 boundary lines approved by the board in November, place Kirkland and the Cantino subdivision where he lives in the Rolling Meadows High School attendance area.

In court before Judge Edward Egan yesterday, Kirkland said he would try to prove the board discriminated against one of the oldest established areas of the village when it modified a plan suggested by the district's administration to include in the Arlington High School area only one part of the central portion of the village.

IF THE SALT Creek Rural Park District is dissolved, this is how the district would be divided among the three surrounding park districts according to the Arlington Heights plan. Arlington Heights' annexation area is marked by vertical lines, Palatine's by diagonal lines, and Rolling Meadows' by X's. Overlapping areas are claimed by Palatine, since they are within the corporate limits of Palatine. Who will get which piece of property will ultimately be decided by Salt Creek residents.

No Proposal Reached On Salt Creek

No final proposals concerning the dividing of the Salt Creek Rural Park District among the Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows Park Districts came out of a meeting of the district's representatives Wednesday evening.

Directors and attorneys of the districts will meet over the next six weeks to decide who will annex what portion of Salt Creek and pay what percentage of Salt Creek's $55,000 debt.

Ultimate say in which district gets what portion of Salt Creek will be decided by Salt Creek residents in an upcoming survey. Richard Mugalian, attorney for Salt Creek, said the survey will not be coming until the three park districts present presentations to residents regarding what they can offer.

The three park districts will be drawing up presentations during the next few weeks, emphasizing what they can offer Salt Creek residents that they do not have already.

EACH OF THE three park districts would like to annex certain portions of the smaller Salt Creek Rural Park District, with the district's approval. In several cases, two districts are claiming the same portions.

UNDER A TENTATIVE plan presented by Arlington Heights Park District representatives, they would annex the Arlington Park Race Track and Arlington Crest subdivision. Palatine Park District would annex Winston Park Unit 6 and Rolling Meadows Park District would get South Park and an industrial strip along Hicks Road.

Representatives of Palatine objected to the plan because it gave portions of corporate Palatine to the other two park districts. Arlington Crest subdivision and the southeast corner of Hicks Road and the Chicago and North Western Rwy. tracks are part of the Village of Palatine.

Arlington Heights Park Board president Charles Cronin defended his district's claiming of Arlington Crest by pointing out that Rte. 53 was a natural boundary. Arlington Crest is south of Rte. 53, nearly cut off from the rest of Palatine.

Cronin also pointed out that Arlington Crest was closer to the Frontier Pool in Arlington Heights than to the Community Park Pool in Palatine.

PALATINE PARK BOARD president Norman Gaere argued that Arlington Crest was in Palatine and that putting it in the Arlington Heights park district would only cause further local boundary confusion. He added that Community Park pool is only a few extra blocks from Arlington Crest than Frontier Pool.

NOW YOU SEE THEM, now you don't. The demand for current bestsellers is pretty heavy at the Rolling Meadows Library. Once a bestseller is returned by a borrower to the library, it's back in circulation within three hours, which keeps the librarians awfully busy.

"HEY LEW, you didn't have your Wheaties!" Poor Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case apparently didn't have his last week. While walking from the police station to his home, he slipped on the ice and broke his wrist.

TIMES HAVE changed, but not officially. The Rolling Meadows calendar has the city council meetings scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., but instead they have been brought to order at 8:30 for the past month. How time flies in those private pre-council conferences.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Gov. Ogilvie announced a $1.1 billion welfare budget for fiscal 1972, including an expected $65 million in federal money.

The Illinois House created a special ethics commission to evaluate the various Paul Powell investigations, and suggest ethics legislation.

A bill was introduced to the General Assembly that would put the regulation and licensing of cable television under the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Weather officials warned that a potential flood situation still existed in the Rock River Basin. The flood waters in the river were receding, but shifting ice jams upstream created the new threat.

State Treasurer Alan Dixon said he'd do away with "the old guessing game" of whether there is a surplus in the state treasury. He promised a monthly computerized report for every Illinois agency.

The Nation

President Nixon — in his State of the world message — said Russia's huge increase in strategic military power could tempt the Soviets into bolder challenges in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Wholesale prices showed their highest jump in 15 years in January and February, largely because of an increase in livestock prices. Higher meat prices are expected as a result.

The War

South Vietnam President Thieu was quoted as saying it's only a matter of time until his country's forces launch a drive against North Vietnam. Hanoi's delegate at the Paris peace talks repeated the charge that the United States is planning such an invasion. Communist troops followed heavily armed tanks through American rocket and artillery fire to overrun one South Vietnamese position in Laos, and threaten another. U.S. battle deaths in the Indochina fighting were reported at 50 for the past week, the highest since last Nov. 21.

The Weather

Relief came to the blizzard-swept central plains, with springlike temperatures spreading up from the Southwest to cover most of the nation. Only in Maine were temperatures frigid, with the nation's low — 10 below zero — at Houlton. With the general thaw came threats of floods over a wide portion of the nation's midsection.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Houston	52	29
Atlanta	59	37
Los Angeles	72	51
Miami Beach	77	74
Minneapolis	35	18
New York	45	37
Phoenix	71	44

The Market

Trading slowed at the finish, but the third straight day of higher prices held on the Big Board. At the close, 16,200,000 shares had been traded, and the Dow-Jones Industrial barometer showed a rise of 6.36. Prices held steady on the American Exchange in moderate turnover, with the Amex index up 0.02.

Speakout

Most Uninformed About Referendum

by JIM HODL

Quite a few people still do not know what tomorrow's mental health referendum is about. A few don't even know when it will be held.

In a random sample taken by phone, Speakout found few people who knew anything about the referendum in Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Inverness. While some read newspapers, they somehow missed any reference to Saturday's election. If passed by the electorate, four local townships will be able to levy a tax of 10 cents on $100 assessed property value toward supporting mental health.

Mrs. Nancy Perry of Palatine said she didn't know what the referendum was about. She said she didn't even know that the referendum was to be held tomorrow.

Mrs. Perry was joined by Mrs. Daniel Boeup, 515 Bruno Dr., Palatine, and another Palatine resident, all who knew nothing of the referendum.

Mrs. Frances Scalpone, Box 348, Palatine, said she had no knowledge of the referendum being held tomorrow until she saw an election announcement posted at a local school.

"I wish somebody had told me about it," she said. "Nobody came to my house to tell me about it. I thought the precinct captains or somebody was supposed to inform the voters of these elections."

"I didn't even get a pamphlet in the mail concerning the referendum."

Mrs. Scalpone complained that people who live in rural areas like herself are often forgotten by the people in the village. Rarely do they get any information concerning the issues involved in them, she said.

She said she would like to vote on the referendum but knows very little about it.

"If the referendum will ultimately help mental health in this area, I'm all for it," she said. "However, I'd like to find out what the referendum means to taxpayers."

Mrs. Barbara Milewski, 3404 Peacock Ln., Rolling Meadows, said she had no opinion on the referendum.

She said she would like to see mental health improved in the area without raising taxes. She said something like Gateway House would be beneficial in the area, operating on private funds.

"Right now, it takes nine months to get a child into a mental health institution," Mrs. Milewski said. "This shouldn't be."

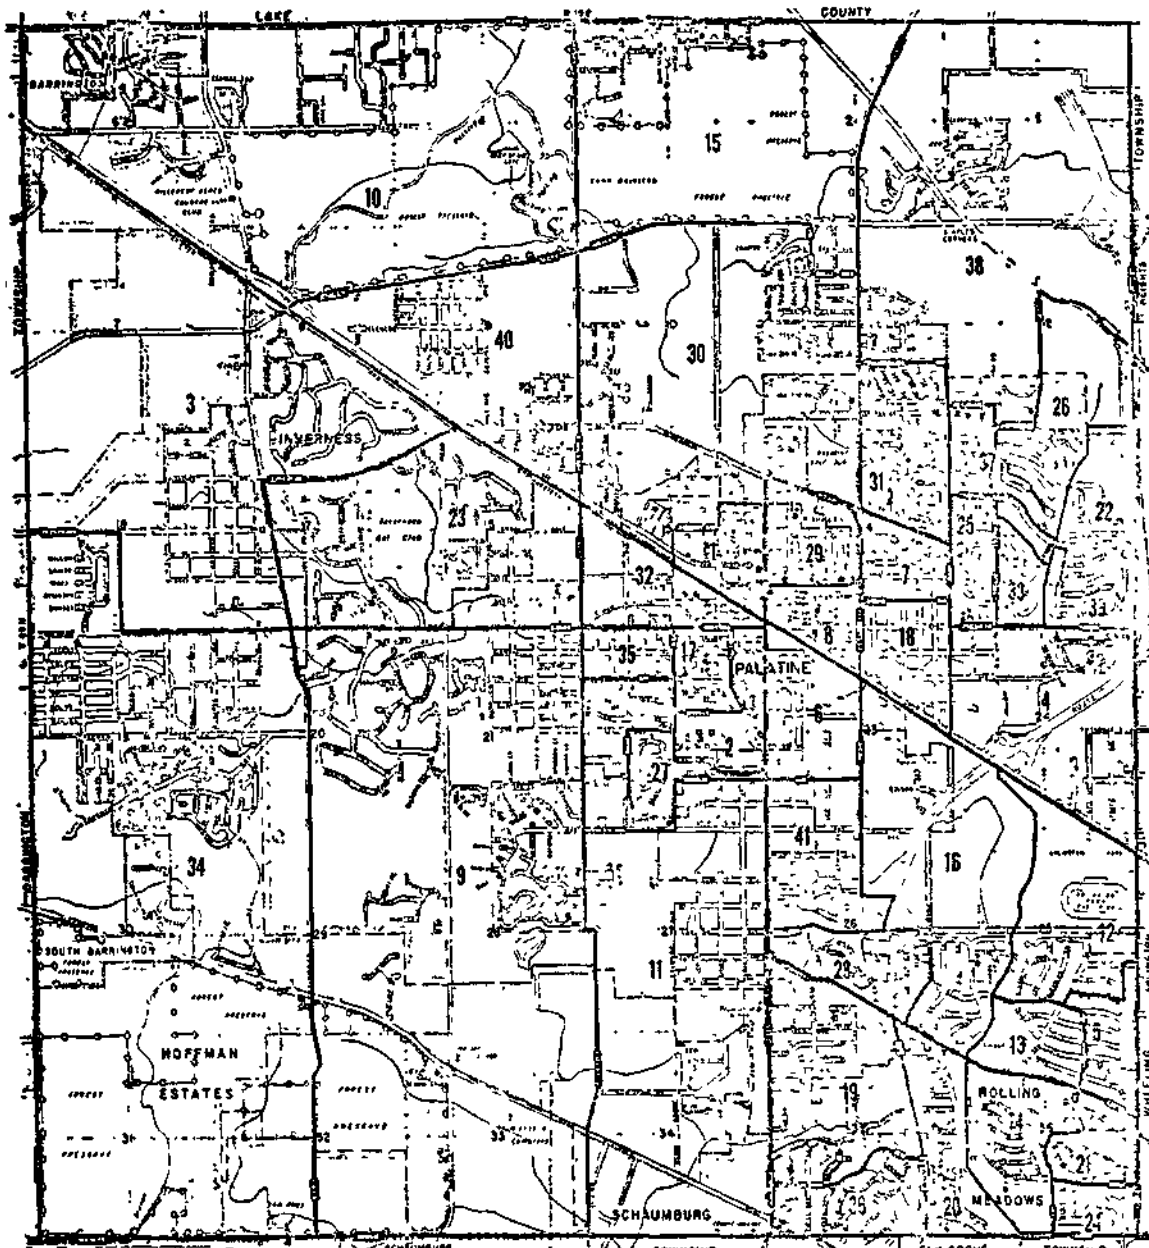

Some people did have a knowledge of the issues involved in the referendum. Frank Miller, 3104 St. James St., Rolling Meadows, said he was in favor of the referendum.

"This is a necessary thing," Miller said. "The mental health institutions need the aid and it has to come from somewhere."

An Inverness housewife said she was against it.

"I work at Little City," she said. "The issue is whether a child can get proper care. With public aid through taxes, local mental health care would be reduced to the level of a public hospital in quality."

"Mental health care will be better with private funding. Government should be kept out of this area."

This is a map of the 41 precincts within Palatine Township.

Wins Table Decoration Prize

Cub Scout Tim Kohn won the grand prize for designing the best table decoration used at Pack 188's recent Blue and Gold Dinner.

Kohn built a carousel out of a "genius kit" to win the prize. Runners-up were Andy Countryman, Mark Doebl, Paul Krebaum and Sean Reilly.

For the second year, Pack 188 has given scouts "genius kits" to build table decorations for the dinner. Each kit contains some construction paper, a piece of plastic, some macaroni noodles, popsicle sticks, a few pipecleaners, some buttons, stars, a piece of cardboard, a paper plate, a paper cup and a coffee can lid.

FROM THIS, scouts build anything they want to, ranging from shooting galleries to windmills.

In distributing scouting awards at the dinner, Paul Krebaum led all other scouts, winning a gold and two silver arrows. Mark Reppinger and Andy Countryman also were awarded gold arrows.

Weblos, Kevin Riess, Jerry Swaim and Tracy Butler each won an activity badge. Jay Saladino was awarded his Bear Badge.

At the pack's next meeting on March 26, scouts will compete in the annual Pinewood Derby.

No Proposal Reached On Salt Creek

While Arlington Heights was holding up the Rte. 53 natural boundary for Palatine, it was pointed out that the tentative plan would give Arlington Heights land on both sides of Rte. 53 west of the U. S. 14-Rte. 53 intersection.

Representatives also discussed absorbing the $55,000 debt incurred by Salt Creek in building a fieldhouse in Arlington Crest. Dean Hallerud of the Rolling Meadows Park District suggested that the districts absorb a portion of the debt in proportion to the assessed valuation of property they annex.

UNDER THE TENTATIVE plan, Arlington Heights would get about 45 per cent of Salt Creek's $19,999,901 assessed property value. Arlington Heights would get $9 million in assessed property while Palatine and Rolling Meadows would get about $5.4 million each.

CHARLES BOBINETTE, Arlington Heights park district attorney, suggested that the districts enter into a pre-annexation agreement with Salt Creek so residents will pay off the debt. This way, residents of the three annexing park districts would not have to pay off Salt Creek's debt.

Arlington Heights park director Thomas Thornton suggested that since the debt was incurred building the fieldhouse in Arlington Crest, the district annexing the subdivision get all of the debt.

Bobinette suggested a special abatement levy on current Salt Creek property to pay for the fieldhouse. It was decided that the three park district's attorneys decide how the debt should be paid off.

Another meeting of the three park districts will be scheduled after the directors and attorneys have met and drawn up plans to present the Salt Creek board.

Local Leaders To Pursue New Hospital

A 150-bed acute care hospital to be located in Hoffman Estates will be pursued by a committee of local community leaders.

A 25-acre site on the Robin Construction Co. property near the southwest corner of Higgins and Barrington roads is being considered for the facility.

The hospital, expected to cost $50,000 per bed, will be organized as a not-for-profit facility. The possibility of profit making service facilities within the hospital is still in the exploratory stages.

On the committee is Michael Redmond, a member of the Hoffman Estates plans commission and an executive administrator at Weiss Memorial Hospital in Chicago.

The hospital will have to serve communities central between St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village, Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights and Sherman Hospital in Elgin, he said.

Participation by community leaders from Barrington, Palatine, Inverness, Schaumburg, Roselle, Hanover Park, Streamwood and Bartlett was mentioned.

Redmond said that 30 to 40 per cent of the funds to build the hospital will have to come from the communities the hospital will serve.

Robert Rew, also serving on the committee, is pursuing parties from outside the area who could help to finance the difference in cost and staff for the hospital.

Rew is president of the business council and Chamber of Commerce in Hoffman Estates. He is also president of the Suburban Bank of Hoffman Estates.

Plans to build the hospital conflict with those of a Schaumburg committee working to establish a hospital on 10 acres along Schaumburg Road.

Richard Regan, of the Hoffman Estates group, said the Robin property is better for a hospital because of close access to and from the Northwest Tollway and a larger site is available that will allow future expansions. The forest preserve property nearby is still another asset, he added.

Regan is chairman of the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission.

Also to serve on the Hoffman Estates committee will be Mayor Frederick Downey and Steve Robin of Robin Construction Co.

School To Host Music Contest

Approximately 1,700 music students will spend the day at Douglas MacArthur Junior High School tomorrow to compete in a contest sponsored by the Illinois Grade School Music Association.

MacArthur School officials are hosting students from 25 schools in the Northern Illinois region. The competition will be held in three categories: solo, ensemble and instrumental.

At the beginning of the day, about 9 a.m., each of the judges will be assigned to a particular classroom and instrument. Each student will be evaluated on an individual rating sheet. These sheets will be tabulated at the school office, and the first through third place winners will be announced at the end of the day.

Last year, according to MacArthur principal Gerald McGovern, the majority of the Prospect Heights students entered in the contest received a first place award.

Girl Missing 3 Weeks, Is Home

A Rolling Meadows teenager missing from home for almost three weeks was returned to her mother yesterday.

Dawn Miller, 14, was returned home by Rolling Meadows police after she walked into a police station in Woodstock, Ill. early Thursday morning.

The girl told police she knew they were close to finding her and decided to stop hiding, according to Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case.

He said immediately after she was reported missing flyers with her picture were sent to all surrounding police departments.

A juvenile court hearing will be held sometime next week, according to Case. But Dawn already has been referred to the newly created Youth Referral Committee in Rolling Meadows.

Designed to help troubled local youth, the new committee is expected to help with home, and school problems.

"THIS IS A GOOD test for the new group," Case said.

Dawn disappeared from her home on Feb. 6. Case said she remained in the general vicinity of Rolling Meadows, although she was not in the city. He said she spent several days in the Elgin area.

"There were several adults along the way who gave her housing," Case said.

"I don't understand how people can do that without calling the police," he added.

The juvenile court hearing will be held to determine if any action should be taken against those who contributed to her delinquency, according to Case.

16 Homeowners To Act Against 'City' Boundary

Owners of 16 homes in the Euclid-Lake Association area in Prospect Heights plan to file a petition with the Cook County Circuit Court, objecting to the boundaries of the proposed city of Prospect Heights.

The incorporation proposal was submitted to the county court last week by the leaders of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA), which represents the "old town" area west of Wolf Road. The PHIA leaders have proposed incorporating the "old town" area and portions of unincorporated Wheeling, connected by a strip of the Prospect Heights "new town" area.

The homeowners who are protesting PHIA's plans, live on sections of Indigo Court and Indigo Drive. The area has been included in the boundaries of the proposed city. These residents live north of 118 N. Indigo Dr., on the west side of the street. The homes are in the "new town" portion of Prospect Heights.

JACK GILLIGAN, PHIA leader, said the "new town" residents were included in the proposed city because of "a last minute decision of our surveyor. It was easier for him to use a street to draw our boundary lines than lot lines."

Gilligan said efforts would be made to correct the problem but he indicated the boundaries could not be changed before a March 24 hearing to review the incorporation proposal.

At a meeting Wednesday, called by the Euclid Lake Association, the homeowners agreed to file a formal objection to the boundaries of the proposed city with the county court. State statutes require that objections be filed with the court no later than five days before the hearing.

According to leaders of the Euclid-Lake Association, the decision to petition the court was made after consulting with attorney Pat Link, a resident of the Woodview Association area.

ONE OF THE protesting residents, Clarence Schons, said "I plan to do everything I can to be excluded from the proposed city. I haven't talked to anyone in the group favoring incorporation, but I don't think it is a good idea."

Schons' main objection is the fact that "we (new town) have so little in common with them (old town). We have sewers and water, and we are in different, school, park and fire districts than 'old town.' It seems foolish for them to include us."

In the midst of the controversy, five "new town" associations plan to go ahead with their plan to petition to be annexed to the Village of Mount Prospect.

A survey which was made of the five associations for the petition included Indigo Court and Indigo Drive. Now, according to Marie Caylor, a leader of the Euclid-Lake Association, the survey will have to be redone excluding the portion of Indigo Court and Indigo Drive that is in the proposed city. "We hope all of our association can be included in our annexation plan, eventually," she said.

"IF ANNEXATION becomes a reality before the boundary dispute is resolved, the protesting homeowners can petition on their own to be annexed to Mount Prospect," said Link.

"If a decision on the incorporation proposal is unduly delayed, there might be a procedure by which the residents can request exclusion from the city. If the residents can't be excluded from the initial incorporation, they can file for dis-annexation afterwards and then petition to annex to Mount Prospect," he added.

Eye Village Board Action Monday Night

Zone Dispute Nears Climax

The second and perhaps final round of a zoning dispute over 40 acres of property south of St. Alphonsus Catholic Church will be fought Monday night in the Wheeling municipal building.

The village board will act on a recommendation from the village's zoning board of appeals that the village board deny a request to rezone the site for apartments. Arnold Liebling, who owns the property, is seeking the zoning change.

Prospect Heights residents vehemently opposed the rezoning of the property from single family home zoning at zoning board of appeals hearing on Feb. '6.

Monday the village board can take one of two actions. It can uphold the zoning board recommendation and deny the rezoning request or it can vote to have the village attorney draw up an ordinance to rezone the property.

IF THE BOARD chooses to have an ordinance prepared there will be yet another meeting for the final action on the rezoning request.

The property will be an island of Wheeling in the new city of Prospect Heights if the unincorporated town is successful in its bid to become a city.

The site was annexed to Wheeling by a point annexation, meaning it touches the village only as its north east corner.

Reasons cited by zoning board members for the recommended denial included possible flooding problems, traffic problems, safety for school children in the area, and questions of whether the developer was actually seeking planned development zoning instead of simple multiple family zoning.

One member of the zoning board, Chairman Douglas Cargill, cast the only vote in support of the rezoning.

Forest View Band Continues Fruit Sale

Forest View High School band members will continue taking orders for Texas oranges and grapefruit this weekend to raise money for a spring band tour to Alexander, Ky.

The members have been canvassing all week but plan to step up their campaign in Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines.

The fruit will be shipped directly from Texas at $3 for a 20-pound box or $5 per 40-pound box.

Both the concert and jazz bands will leave by bus for the week-long tour on April 12. Teachers Fred Elliot and Jim Kasprzyk will accompany the students.

Forest View is located at 2121 S. Goebert Road in Arlington Heights.

Mental Health Referendum Tomorrow

by SANDRA BROWNING

Voters in four townships will decide tomorrow whether they want to be taxed for mental health and mental retardation services.

Tomorrow's mental health referendum will ask voter approval of a mental health tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with officials estimating that the first year's tax will be about half that amount. If the maximum rate were levied, the resulting tax would be about $15 on a home with a market value of $30,000.

The polls in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The precincts are the same as for the last regular election in November.

If approved, the township's boards of auditors will be authorized to levy a tax and create a special mental health fund. The boards will be authorized to determine the exact amount of the tax each year, with the first mental health tax being added to property bills in the spring of next year.

If voters approve the tax, the townships are authorized by state law to levy and collect the tax to provide local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

BEHIND THE REQUEST for the referendum is a citizens committee which is in the process of forming the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. This council includes representatives from the four townships, general hospitals, schools for handicapped children, mental health clinics, public schools and other agencies which serve residents in the four township area.

If the referendum is approved, one goal of the council will be to present a consolidated request to each township board. In this manner, township boards could deal with one group, the council, for money from the mental health fund.

As planned, the consolidated budget would include the requests for mental health fund money from the 12 separate agencies in the council. With this plan, the council hopes to be able to eliminate duplication of services and encourage the development of new services not now provided.

ACCORDING TO the council, some of the services which are not presently readily available include treatment and follow-up for alcohol and drug addiction, partial hospitalization for those not needing full-time hospitalization, intensive treatment, post-hospital rehabilitation and residential care for severely retarded and emotionally disturbed youth.

The council will also be forming a comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services. This comprehensive plan would attempt to provide a range of mental health and mental retardation services, from youth to old age. The plan would also stress that these services be provided by local agencies as opposed to remote, impersonal facilities, according to council officials.

This week Mrs. Warren Wengen, 406 N. Dale Ave., has been up to her elbows in soap suds, mineral oil, bluing, and a vigorously protesting, sopping wet Persian cat. She is getting Kasha, their 9-month-old pet, ready to enter his first cat show. Vonnie and the fluffy white Persian plan to spend Saturday and Sunday at the Lincoln State Cat Club's 11th Championship Show at the Ford City Exhibition Hall. Other cat enthusiasts from Illinois and other states will also be showing their pets.

Girls from five local scout troops will bring dolls to their special meeting at Busse School this afternoon. However, the dolls aren't for playing. They will be dressed to represent countries in the Girl Scout World Alliance. Each participating troop will present a skit and bring cookies to represent one country.

Italy is the choice of Troop 183, led by Joyce Lampe and Mae Abrath, and Troop 881, led by Eileen Cattani. Girls of Troop 52, led by Lee Schuler and Alice Johnson, will present Norway. With leaders Valerie Carl and Joey Johnson, Troop 237 will tell about Japan.

Flags of countries with Girl Scouting will flutter around the table centerpiece made by girls in Troop 283. This troop will also show "Small World," a film-strip. Their leaders are Mary Janisch and Jane Branch. Knowledge, say the Girl Scouts, must precede understanding and peace among peoples of the world.

Fun Fair '71 is the theme for tomorrow's fund raising event at Lincoln Junior High School, and many seventh and eighth graders are pitching in to make it a big success. Girls in home economics classes have made cakes for the bake sale. Camp Fire Girls, led by Barbara Nerwin, Dee Wells, and Kay Bateman, will run a jewelry engraving booth. Troop 597 Girl Scouts will check coats and substitute for absent booth workers. And after it's all over, Boy Scouts from Troop 155 will act as cleanup crew.

There will be lots of games, a hot dog lunch, a mod jewelry booth, a bake sale, and plenty of refreshments, according to Joan Hering, chairman. The fair will be from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and everyone is welcome.

Park District Eyes Added Insurance Plan

The River Trails Park District is investigating the feasibility of adding accident coverage to its present insurance policy.

The district's policy with the Allen T. Archer Co., an insurance broker, only includes liability coverage.

The district commissioners have directed Park Director Marvin Weiss to investigate the cost of additional coverage. He said the accident coverage is applicable only to accidents which occur during organized, supervised programs.

"This type of accident coverage may not be advantageous for us because most of our accidents do not occur during organized programs," said Weiss.

A death occurred this year as a result of an accident on park property. A girl died after a collision on the district sled hill.

State Approves Light

A request for a stop light at the intersection of Euclid Avenue and Sycamore Lane has been approved by the Illinois Division of Highways.

The River Trails Park District wants the light for pedestrians who cross the intersection going to Woodland Trails Park. The park is located on the north side of Euclid Avenue, and west of Wolf Road.

According to Park Director Marvin Weiss, "Pedestrians now have to walk east to the intersection of Euclid Avenue and Wolf Road, in order to cross Euclid Avenue with a stop light. They then have to walk west to reach Woodland Trails." These pedestrians live in the River Trails District, south of Euclid Avenue and west of Wolf Road in unincorporated Mount Prospect.

The highway division approved the request on the basis of pedestrian attendance at the park facilities. Weiss reported to the state that six days' attendance at the swimming pool totaled 6,838. He estimated that 75 per cent of those walked to the park.

DURING THE SKATING season Weiss said an average of 600 attended the two rinks each day. During the Christmas holiday, he said the attendance rose to 1,000 a day.

It is now the responsibility of the park district to pay for the light and its installation. Weiss said he is now taking estimates from various traffic consultant engineer firms. The light will be designed with a button that pedestrians can push to change the signal. Weiss said it would cost between $20,000 and $40,000.

Last September the highway division, after taking a traffic count at the intersection, refused to pay for the light and its installation. The state officials said the traffic count on Euclid Avenue warranted a state paid light, but the traffic count on Sycamore was too low.

Just Politics

by Ed Murnane

An abbreviated work week, due to the Lincoln's Birthday recess, and continued debate over the Senate filibuster rule resulted in an uneventful week in the 92nd Congress last week.

The two houses returned on Wednesday and the House of Representatives recessed the following afternoon.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 17

—The Senate. Two treaties, one with Nicaragua and the other with Spain, were ratified easily with Stevenson joining the "yes" voters and Percy not voting.

The two senators also joined as cosponsors of a bill to accelerate the expansion of world trade.

—House of Representatives. The House met for only 36 minutes and took no major action, other than introduction of bills.

Crane and McClory were cosponsors of legislation that would allow suspension of U.S. trade and aid to countries which do not control exporting of narcotics into the United States.

The same pair of congressmen also cosponsored bills which would take steps toward creation of a volunteer armed service.

THURSDAY, FEB. 18

Thursday's report was unavailable. It will be published at a later date.

FRIDAY, FEB. 19

—The Senate. There was little action other than continued debate on the filibuster rule and introduction of bills. Percy and Stevenson were among the 20 senators calling for an end to the debate.

Percy was a cosponsor of an administration bill which would give the President additional time to present Congress with his plans for the reorganization of the executive branch of the government.

Last week's column omitted the report for Tuesday, Feb. 9. The only activity on that day involving local officials was the cosponsorship by Percy of the bill to implement the President's revenue sharing program.

Eva Jefferson Urges Joint Peace Treaty

by TOM WELLMAN

About half-way through her talk yesterday afternoon at Harper College, Eva Jefferson looked out at the 250 students, teachers and administrators and said she was "tired of hearing herself talk."

"I don't want to stand up here and bore you," the president of the student body at Northwestern University told the students. She said she wanted Harper students to talk to her, as well as talking to them.

At the beginning of her talk, she had said that "people who are about to change things have to get to the point where they don't need leaders."

Later, she said she felt like a "traveling freak," a person who may be regarded as a celebrity whom persons come to hear because she is regarded as a celebrity.

What Miss Jefferson ultimately wanted to talk about was a Joint Treaty of Peace which had been signed recently between the National Student Association (NSA) and a publisher in South Vietnam who wanted to encourage peace in Indochina.

SHE ENCOURAGED students to sign the treaty, which will be sent to Washington during a May war protest.

Miss Jefferson, a black woman who achieved considerable fame last May when she helped keep the peace during a student strike at Northwestern, said she was "disturbed" with American acceptance of the war.

She chided her audience for being inactive on the war issue and thus by default allowing the war to continue. She told her audience that "the war is not winding down," but that it is only becoming more mechanized.

Miss Jefferson also criticized what she called the Military's tendency to label all Vietnamese as "gooks." She added returning American soldiers were the persons who would "beat you to a pulp if you called a policeman a pig."

SHE ALSO URGED her audience to become familiar with the facts in the trial of Angela Davis, a black woman who has been charged with conspiracy in the slaying of a California judge.

She asserted that the coming trial would be a "classical political trial" and she urged students at Harper to make themselves aware about repression of dissent in this country.

She began her loosely organized talk by briefly describing the growth of activism in the early 1960s, before speaking about the People's Peace Treaty. Harper's series of "Dialog '71" events will conclude today with a speech by U. S. Senator Birch Bayh, D-Indiana.

Traffic Lights Out And Then On Again

Traffic lights at the intersection of Euclid Avenue and Rand Road in Mount Prospect went out of order yesterday for the second time in two days.

State police said the traffic lights were repaired by 11 a.m., about an hour after a motorist reported they were out of order. The lights were also out of order for a short time Wednesday, police said.

The traffic lights were repaired by Mead Electric Co. of Chicago. State police directed traffic at the intersection while the lights were repaired.

Psychic Program Set

Palm readers, astrologers and tarot card interpreters will be in Arlington Heights Sunday for the second "Psychics in Action," sponsored by the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect.

The event will last from 1 to 9 p.m. It will be at the American Legion Hall, Douglas and Miner streets in Arlington Heights.

An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged. Cost for individual readings will be $2.50.

Jackie Hoffer of Des Plaines is one of the psychics who will be there. A palm reader, she believes that "while everything that happens to a person registers scientifically on their hand, emotions are also recorded in areas of the palm."

ANOTHER of the psychics who will be there is the Rev. Amelia Doerr who has been active in psychic work for the last 10 years. He will be joined by the Rev. Fred Haas. Rev. Haas has been a psychic for 20 years.

Alan Sandier, who has been a counselor on psychic phenomena for the last 15 years will also be there. During the "Psychics in Action" event Sunday he will discuss astrology, tarot cards and hypnosis.

Among the other psychics who will be at the American Legion hall are Paul Ranton, a palmist; Ann Ferro, who will discuss "past lives;" and Charles Roysten, an astrologer.

Voters To Decide Mental Health Plan Fate Tomorrow

by SANDRA BROWNING
Voters in four townships will decide tomorrow whether they want to be taxed for mental health and mental retardation services.

Tomorrow's mental health referendum will ask voter approval of a mental health tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with officials estimating that the first year's tax will be about half that amount.

The polls in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The precincts are the same as for the last regular election in November.

If approved, the township's boards of auditors will be authorized to levy a tax and create a special mental health fund. The boards will be authorized to determine the exact amount of the tax each year, with the first mental health tax being added to property bills in the spring of next year.

If voters approve the tax, the townships are authorized by state law to levy and collect the tax to provide local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

BEHIND THE REQUEST for the referendum is a citizens committee which is in the process of forming the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. This council includes representatives from the four townships, general hospitals, schools for handicapped children, mental health clinics, public schools and other agencies which serve residents in the four township area.

If the referendum is approved, one goal of the council will be to present a consolidated request to each township board. In this manner, township boards could deal with one group, the council, for money from the mental health fund.

As planned, the consolidated budget would include the requests for mental health fund money from the 12 separate agencies in the council. With this plan, the council hopes to be able to eliminate duplication of services and encourage the development of new services not now provided.

ACCORDING TO the council, some of the services which are not presently readily available include treatment and follow-up for alcohol and drug addiction, partial hospitalization for those not needing full-time hospitalization, intensive treatment, post-hospital rehabilitation and residential care for severely retarded and emotionally disturbed youth.

The council will also be forming a comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services. This comprehensive plan would attempt to provide a range of mental health and mental retardation services, from youth to old age. The plan would also stress that these services be provided by local agencies as opposed to remote, impersonal facilities, according to council officials.

Teichert Tells Elders—Push For 'Own Programs'

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert yesterday advised senior citizens to convince candidates in the upcoming village elections they should listen to the pleas of the local elderly.

Teichert spoke to more than 60 members of the Extensioners, a Mount Prospect senior citizen group, at their weekly meeting at the Community Presbyterian Church of Mount Prospect, 407 N. Main St. He was invited by the group to speak on the possibility of establishing a senior citizen center here.

"You have to convince the village board that some of the taxes you're paying should go back into your programs," Teichert said. He said the village board is used to dealing "with things and not people."

MORE THAN A year ago, the Extensioners asked the village board to appropriate about $51,000 for a local senior citizens' center. The board's finance committee reviewed the request when drafting its budget for the 1970-71 fiscal year. The board said the funds would not be available this year, but $1,000 would be appropriated in "token recognition" of the problem.

At that time, the board told the Extensioners it would consider the request again when preparing the budget for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

Elizabeth Meyer, spokesman for the club, said the Extensioners have asked for part of the post office building, 202 E. Evergreen Ave. The federal government is supposed to build a new building for the Mount Prospect facilities.

Teichert told the senior citizens "You have made a step but I feel badly it wasn't such a big step." He also told them "the village board can't underwrite the Extensioners because they are a private group. You have to keep in mind you represent maybe 3,000 senior citizens and not just the Extensioners."

CURRENTLY PLANS are being made to set aside four rooms in the Mount Prospect Community Center, 800 Sec-Gwyn Ave., as a meeting place for local senior citizens. The rooms will be vacated this spring when Mount Prospect Park District officials move into new offices at Lions Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St.

The center would remain under the jurisdiction and be staffed by the park district. Funds for the center would come from the district's budget.

"You've had better progress with the park board than the village board," said Teichert. "If the space is available I don't think it matters from which governmental body it comes."

Mrs. Meyer said some of the Extensioners, which has approximately 280 members, are worried about transportation to the community center and about the rooms being too small.

JOSEPH GRITANI, president of the club's board of directors, said the park district center "would be a beginning with great things to come."

He told the Extensioners to "go over in droves so they can't handle everyone over there." He said the senior citizens will "have to prove the need for a senior center" and that they should start with the park district.

Grittani also said the club's governing board would consider the possibility of a mini-bus to transport the elderly to the community center.

A meeting scheduled for last night between park district officials, architects and members of the club's governing board was postponed.

Paul Caldwell, assistant park director, said the meeting would be postponed for about three weeks because "we are not as far along as we anticipated with any official plans for critique." The meeting was scheduled to discuss plans for transforming the four rooms into a center.

Fire Station No. 2 Gets Remodeling

Mount Prospect firemen have remodelled Station No. 2 at Golf and Busse roads, to house offices for the Fire Prevention Bureau.

The fire chief's office and the officer's sleeping quarters were eliminated to provide room for bureau offices. Fire Chief Larry Pairitz's office is at Fire Station 1 in the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy. The quarters in the station have enough beds for officers and firemen.

Air conditioning was also installed in the building, in addition to remodeling.

Four Vying For 2 School Bd. Posts

Although four persons have been endorsed by the Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 General Caucus, only two new board members will be selected in the April 10 elections.

Edith Freund, 107 N. Prospect Manor; Robert Novy, 206 E. Council Tr.; Erwin Linkman, 508 N. Elmhurst Ave.; and Kenneth Panczyk, 509 S. Albert St. will speak to the district's seven PTA's next month to get voter support.

The four will be vying for the two school board posts that will be vacated by current board members Patricia Kimball and Jack Ronchetto. Both incumbents have said they will not run again.

The four candidates were endorsed by the 32-member caucus after they gave short speeches and answered questions. The fifth candidate who appeared before the caucus, Donald O'Rourke, failed to win caucus endorsement. He said he would not run as an independent candidate.

"AS A CANDIDATE I would solicit your opinions, your needs and your wants," Linkman told caucus members. "And as a board member I would execute them."

Linkman said finance and planning were the two major areas for the board to consider in the future. He said the school board "must look toward the experts within the system to determine what the needs and the goals are."

Linkman said he favored merit pay for teachers "in any form or kind" but that a merit system could not be imposed on the teachers if they did not want it. He also said that in a choice between a balanced budget and education programs, budget considerations must come first.

"We must make sure we are getting the most mileage out of those dollars," said Linkman. "It is difficult to equate a balanced budget and education because if you don't have the money you may end up with nothing."

LINKMAN SAID he could assist the board in "its financial development." A graduate of both the University of Illinois and Marquette University, Linkman has taught economics at various universities. Currently he is employed in the marketing resource department of the Hammond Organ Co. in Chicago.

Edith Freund said she is qualified to be a board member because "I am very familiar with its operation and the general trends of education in this district." Mrs. Freund has covered School Dist. 57 for various area newspapers since 1969.

She said she is "not in favor of merit pay for teachers but of de-merit firing." She also said the communication problems exist between the board and community because of "closed door negotiations."

"Until that door is opened to a responsible member of the press or the public we will never be able to pass a referendum that will be needed to pay for the teachers demands," she said.

"We must not just think of money but its connection to the programs in the district," she said. She also said that a teacher strike is "something to be avoided, but I won't say 'avoided at all costs.'"

SHE FAVORED THE board's hiring of Richard Zwieback, professional negotiator, to help with teachers negotiations although "the public is reacting negatively." She said that a professional negotiator is the only thing that would help the district pass a referendum because it showed "the board is trying to keep expenses down."

Robert Novy, a resident of the Dist. 57 area for 9 1/2 years, said hiring of a professional negotiator would "give board members more time to concentrate on other matters."

He would "use sound judgment on making decisions, communicate effectively."

Forest View Band Continues Fruit Sale

Forest View High School band members will continue taking orders for Texas oranges and grapefruit this weekend to raise money for a spring band tour to Alexander, Ky.

The members have been canvassing all week but plan to step up their campaign in Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines.

The fruit will be shipped directly from Texas at $3 for a 20-pound box or $5 per 40-pound box.

Both the concert and jazz bands will leave by bus for the week-long tour on April 12. Teachers Fred Elliot and Jim Kasprzyk will accompany the students.

Forest View is located at 2121 S. Goebbert Road in Arlington Heights.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Gov. Ogilvie announced a $1.1 billion welfare budget for fiscal 1972, including an expected $65 million in federal money.

The Illinois House created a special ethics commission to evaluate the various Paul Powell investigations, and suggest ethics legislation.

A bill was introduced to the General Assembly that would put the regulation and licensing of cable television under the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Weather officials warned that a potential flood situation still exists in the Rock River Basin. The flood waters in the river were receding, but shifting ice jams upstream created the new threat.

State Treasurer Alan Dixon said he'd do away with "the old guessing game" of whether there is a surplus in the state treasury. He promised a monthly computerized report for every Illinois agency.

The Nation

President Nixon — in his State of the world message — said Russia's huge increase in strategic military power could tempt the Soviets into bolder challenges in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Wholesale prices showed their highest jump in 15 years in January and February, largely because of an increase in livestock prices. Higher meat prices are expected as a result.

The War

South Vietnam President Thieu was quoted as saying it's only a matter of time until his country's forces launch a drive against North Vietnam. Hanoi's delegate at the Paris peace talks repeated the charge that the United States is planning such an invasion. Communist troops followed heavily armed tanks through American rocket and artillery fire to overrun one South Vietnamese position in Laos, and threaten another.

U.S. battle deaths in the Indochina fighting were reported at 59 for the past week, the highest since last Nov. 21.

Trading slowed at the finish, but the third straight day of higher prices held on the Big Board. At the close, 16,200,000 shares had been traded, and the Dow-Jones Industrial barometer showed a rise of 6.36. Prices held steady on the American Exchange in moderate turnover, with the Ampex index up 0.02.

This week Mrs. Warren Wangen, 405 N. Dale Ave., has been up to her elbows in soap suds, mineral oil, bluing, and a vigorously protesting, sopping wet Persian cat. She is getting Kasha, their 8-month-old pet, ready to enter his first cat show. Vonnie and the fluffy white Persian plan to spend Saturday and Sunday at the Lincoln State Cat Club's 11th Championship Show at the Ford City Exhibition Hall. Other cat enthusiasts from Illinois and other states will also be showing their pets.

Girls from five local scout troops will bring dolls to their special meeting at Busse School this afternoon. However, the dolls aren't for playing. They will be dressed to represent countries in the Girl Scout World Alliance. Each participating troop will present a skit and bring cookies to represent one country.

Italy is the choice of Troop 183, led by Joyce Lampe and Mae Abrath, and Troop 881, led by Eileen Cattani. Girls of Troop 32, led by Lee Schuler and Alice Johnson, will present Norway. With leaders Valerie Carl and Joey Johnson, Troop 237 will tell about Japan.

Flags of countries with Girl Scouting will flutter around the table centerpiece made by girls in Troop 283. This troop will also show "Small World," a film-strip. Their leaders are Mary Janisch and Jane Branch. Knowledge, say the Girl Scouts, must precede understanding and peace among peoples of the world.

Fun Fair '71 is the theme for tomorrow's fund raising event at Lincoln Junior High School, and many seventh and eighth graders are pitching in to make it a big success. Girls in home economics classes have made cakes for the bake sale. Camp Fire Girls, led by Barbara Nerwin, Dee Wells, and Kay Bateman, will run a jewelry engraving booth. Troop 597 Girl Scouts will check coats and substitute for absent booth workers. And after it's all over, Boy Scouts from Troop 155 will act as cleanup crew.

There will be lots of games, a hot dog lunch, a mod jewelry booth, a bake sale, and plenty of refreshments, according to Joan Hering, chairman. The fair will be from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and everyone is welcome.

4 Seek School Board Posts

tively, sell his ideas to the community and be objective.

Novy has been an active participant in the general caucus for the past three years, last year serving as chairman of the nominating committee. He said he has worked on citizens' committees "for passage of vital referendums in the past," affecting the district. He is also the recipient of the first certificate of service in education given by the board to a person not directly involved with the district.

Kenneth Panczyk said that as a board member he would have "lots of questions to ask and maybe if I ask those questions I can find the solutions."

PANCZYK, A FORMER DIST. 57 science teacher at Lions Park School and currently a teacher in Niles Dist. 63, said he would be helpful as a board member because "I understand kids — not that I would be an expert on education."

Panczyk said he thinks merit pay for teachers is "a coming thing. I think teachers are looking for a status or a position." He said hiring of a professional negotiator was "all right if he earns his money." He said teachers also have professional negotiators from the Illinois Education Association and the National Education Association working with them.

Panczyk said he would be willing to let teachers strike rather than meet unreasonable demands because one week of school would not make that much difference in the "educational growth" of the students.

A candidate need not be endorsed by the caucus to run for the board. Nominating petitions can be filed no later than March 19 at the district office, 701 W. Gregory St., and must carry at least 50 signatures of residents of the school district, which serves central and northern Mount Prospect.

Park District Eyes Added Insurance Plan

The River Trails Park District is investigating the feasibility of adding accident coverage to its present insurance policy.

The district's policy with the Allen T. Archer Co., an insurance broker, only includes liability coverage.

The district commissioners have directed Park Director Marvin Weiss to investigate the cost of additional coverage. He said the accident coverage is applicable only to accidents which occur during organized, supervised programs.

"This type of accident coverage may not be advantageous for us because most of our accidents do not occur during organized programs," said Weiss.

A death occurred this year as a result of an accident on park property. A girl died after a collision on the district sled hill.

Mental Health Vote Slated For Tomorrow

by SANDRA BROWNING

Voters in four townships will decide tomorrow whether they want to be taxed for mental health and mental retardation services.

Tomorrow's mental health referendum will ask voter approval of a mental health tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with officials estimating that the first year's tax will be about half that amount. If the maximum rate were levied, the resulting tax would be about $15 on a home with a market value of $30,000.

The polls in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The precincts are the same as for the last regular election in November.

If approved, the township's boards of auditors will be authorized to levy a tax and create a special mental health fund. The boards will be authorized to determine the exact amount of the tax each year, with the first mental health tax being added to property bills in the spring of next year.

If voters approve the tax, the townships are authorized by state law to levy and collect the tax to provide local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

BEHIND THE REQUEST for the referendum is a citizens committee which is in the process of forming the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. This council includes representatives from the four townships, general hospitals, schools for handicapped children, mental health clinics, public schools and other agencies which serve residents in the four township area.

If the referendum is approved, one goal of the council will be to present a consolidated request to each township board. In this manner, township boards could deal with one group, the council, for money from the mental health fund.

As planned, the consolidated budget would include the requests for mental health fund money from the 12 separate agencies in the council. With this plan, the council hopes to be able to eliminate duplication of services and encourage the development of new services not now provided.

ACCORDING TO the council, some of the services which are not presently readily available include treatment and follow-up for alcohol and drug addiction, partial hospitalization for those not needing full-time hospitalization, intensive treatment, post-hospital rehabilitation and residential care for severely retarded and emotionally disturbed youth.

The council will also be forming a comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services. This comprehensive plan would attempt to provide a range of mental health and mental retardation services, from youth to old age. The plan would also stress that these services be provided by local agencies as opposed to remote, impersonal facilities, according to council officials.

An Arlington Heights resident's suit against the high school Dist. 214 school board 1971-72 attendance map has been continued until 2 p.m. today in Cook County Circuit court.

John Kirkland, a lawyer who lives at 806 S. Patton in southwest Arlington Heights, has asked the court to make the school district redraw boundary lines to include Kirkland's residence in the Arlington High School attendance area.

Present 1971-72 boundary lines approved by the board in November, place Kirkland and the Cantino subdivision where he lives in the Rolling Meadows High School attendance area.

In court before Judge Edward Egan yesterday, Kirkland said he would try to prove the board discriminated against one of the oldest established areas of the village when it modified a plan suggested by the district's administration to include in the Arlington High School area only one part of the central portion of the village.

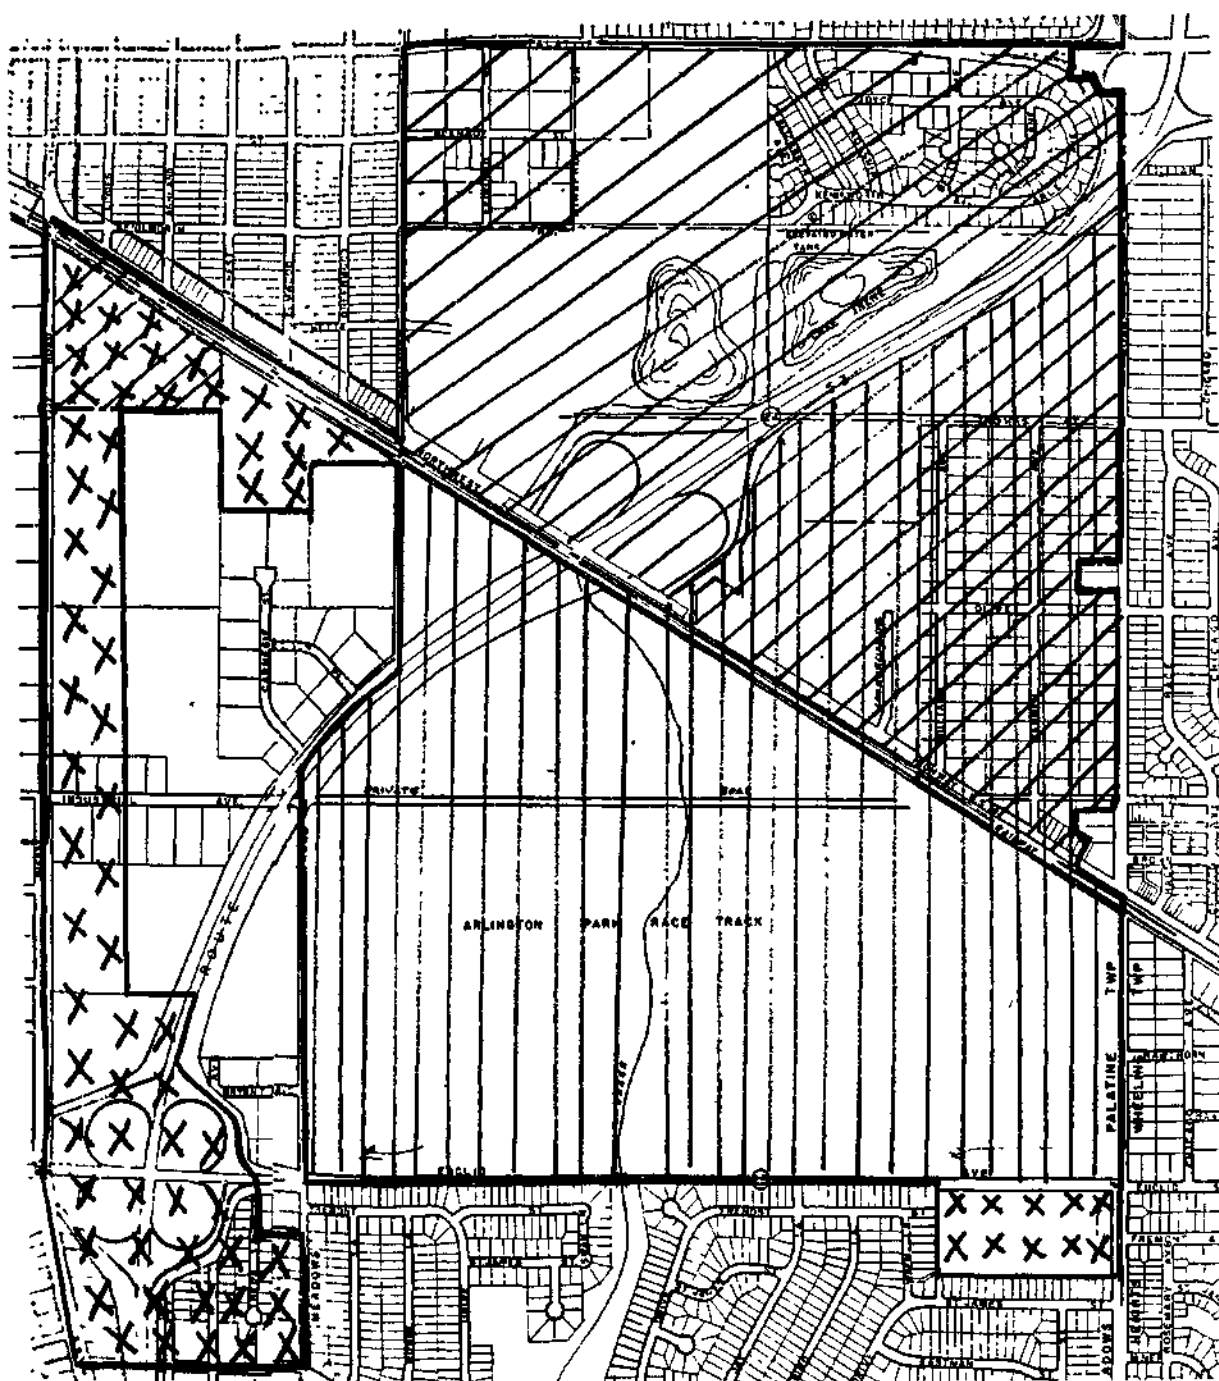

Revived Baby Is Reported In Fair Condition

The eight-month-old Wheeling girl whose life was saved by an Arlington Heights policeman's actions Wednesday morning remained in fair condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital.

The girl, Tammi Williams, daughter of Mrs. Veronica Williams of 942 Norman Ln., was revived at the hospital after she arrived with no respiration, and a very weak pulse. She was admitted in fair condition and treated for shock and infection.

The baby's life was probably saved by Patrolman Robert Lindquist, of the Arlington Heights police, who rushed the child to the hospital in his squad car.

Mrs. Williams, being driven to the hospital by a neighbor, reportedly was delayed from crossing the Chicago and North Western Rwy. tracks for several minutes by two trains.

IF THE SALT Creek Rural Park District is dissolved, this is how the district would be divided among the three surrounding park districts according to the Arlington Heights plan. Arlington Heights' annexation area is marked by vertical lines, Palatine's by diagonal lines, and Rolling Meadows' by X's. Overlapping areas are claimed by Palatine, since they are within the corporate limits of Palatine. Who will get which piece of property will ultimately be decided by Salt Creek residents.

Dist. 25 Canvass Tomorrow

Teacher Unit Supports Vote

by WANDALYN RICE

Teachers from a newly formed political action organization are planning to canvass School Dist. 25 in Arlington Heights on Saturday in support of the March 13 tax rate referendum. Members of the local teacher's association will apparently not be involved in the effort.

The canvass will be conducted by teachers in the Educators for Political Action (EPA), an organization designed to involve teachers in Wheeling and Elk Grove townships in referendum campaigns and school board elections.

Formation of the EPA was announced by Richard Chierico and Richard Hemme, both teachers at Elk Grove High School and active members of the Northwest Suburban branch of the Illinois Education Association.

Teachers from Elk Grove Dist. 59, High School Dist. 214 and other districts in the two townships will canvass the area, according to Judy Whipple, a Dist. 59 teacher and member of the executive council of the EPA.

However, Richard Walker, president of the Arlington Teachers' Association (ATA), the bargaining agent for teachers in Dist. 25, said there would be "absolutely" no ATA involvement in the campaign effort.

Mrs. Whipple said she had been assigned two Wheeling Township precincts and had several helpers who would canvass with her.

She said the EPA has assigned 15 precincts to the Dist. 59 volunteers and that as of Wednesday night they had individuals assigned to eight of them.

Canvassers will hand out fact sheets about the referendum and will answer any questions voters have, Mrs. Whipple said.

"We will be meeting people face to face," she said. "We don't want to just dump leaflets."

The Dist. 25 referendum, she said, is the first test for the EPA, which plans to take part in campaigns for other referenda and in school board elections.

"We want to see all referenda passed, and one referendum helps the other," Mrs. Whipple said.

In addition, she said the members of the EPA will gain experience for future campaigns. "I've never been involved in a campaign for a tax referendum," Mrs. Whipple said. "I think we stand to learn a lot from this."

The executive council of the EPA, besides Chierico Hemme and Mrs. Whipple also includes Dave Robert, a Dist. 59 teacher and former negotiator for the Dist. 59 Teacher's Council, and John Fender, a teacher in Dist. 25.

The March 13 referendum will ask teachers in Dist. 25 to approve an educational fund tax rate increase of 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

I'LL TRADE YOU MARVIN Gardens for Park Place — During a joint meeting between the Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows Park boards this week, park board members were discussing the splitting up of the Salt Creek Rural Park District which includes Arlington Park Race Track. As the discussion continued, Norman Gaare, president of the Palatine Park Board, said to the Arlington Heights board, "O.K. You can have Arlington Crest (a subdivision) if you give us half of the track in trade."

A NON-MONETARY CRISIS is facing School Dist. 25. Now, in the middle of the referendum campaign, Supt. Donald Strong is waiting out the incubation period for mumps — he was exposed this week by his six-year-old son and doesn't think he's ever had them.

A VACATION? Also, according to a news release issued by the architects who built Berkley School in Dist. 25, Strong and the director of administration and planning, Robert Boos, were really enjoying themselves at a convention in Atlantic City last weekend and the first part of this week. The administrators had planned to attend the affair, the annual meeting of the Association of School Administrators, until the referendum campaign intervened, but the word didn't spread to whoever wrote the release. At Monday night's meeting of the board of education, Strong looked wistful — "I sure hope I'm having a good time," he said.

A MIXED BLESSING . . . Traffic on Euclid Street is getting worse and worse, but if it is widened many of the trees will have to be removed — at the cost of upset tree lovers. The problem caused Village Mgr. Rudy Hanson to reflect during a meeting with the Ridge Park Community Association this week. Hanson recalled the fight the last time widening the street was suggested and said, "It's funny, we have Dutch Elm disease all over town, but it doesn't ever seem to affect Euclid at all."

DURING A DISCUSSION of the possibility of a new commuter station at Arlington Park at the same meeting this week, one harassed motorist was moved to comment: "All the talk is about mass transit to get people into Chicago. My problem is I don't have to get to Chicago — I only want to get across town."

CHANGE OF HEART? During the Arlington vs. Prospect basketball game Friday night, team managers kept towels and powder constantly handy to clean up the mess from a leak in the ceiling of Grace Gym at Arlington High School. As one woman in the crowd watched the managers scramble out onto the floor with their towels and powder, she said that her children were involved in the Arlington boundary change and would be attending the new Rolling Meadows High School. "Maybe I shouldn't be so upset about the transfer — at least they'll have a roof over their heads that won't leak," she said.

DURING THE JOINT meeting between the Cultural Commission and the village board, Village Board member Burton Thompson said sometimes commissions are created to give expert advice on special matters and then, sometimes, it's hard not to follow the advice. "It's very difficult to kill your own dog, even if it's rabid," Thompson said.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Gov. Ogilvie announced a $1.1 billion welfare budget for fiscal 1972, including an expected $65 million in federal money.

The Illinois House created a special ethics commission to evaluate the various Paul Powell investigations, and suggest ethics legislation.

A bill was introduced to the General Assembly that would put the regulation and licensing of cable television under the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Weather officials warned that a potential flood situation still exists in the Rock River Basin. The flood waters in the river were receding, but shifting ice jams upstream created the new threat.

State Treasurer Alan Dixon said he'd do away with "the old guessing game" of whether there is a surplus in the state treasury. He promised a monthly computerized report for every Illinois agency.

The Nation

President Nixon — in his State of the world message — said Russia's huge increase in strategic military power could tempt the Soviets into bolder challenges in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Wholesale prices showed their highest jump in 15 years in January and February, largely because of an increase in livestock prices. Higher meat prices are expected as a result.

The War

South Vietnam President Thieu was quoted as saying it's only a matter of time until his country's forces launch a drive against North Vietnam. Hanoi's delegate at the Paris peace talks repeated the charge that the United States is planning such an invasion. Communist troops followed heavily armed tanks through American rocket and artillery fire to overrun one South Vietnamese position in Laos, and threaten another. U.S. battle deaths in the Indochina fighting were reported at 59 for the past week, the highest since last Nov. 21.

No Proposals Reached On Salt Creek

No final proposals concerning the dividing of the Salt Creek Rural Park District among the Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows Park Districts came out of a meeting of the district's representatives Wednesday evening.

Directors and attorneys of the districts will meet over the next six weeks to decide who will annex what portion of Salt Creek and pay what percentage of Salt Creek's $55,000 debt.

Ultimate say in which district gets what portion of Salt Creek will be decided by Salt Creek residents in an upcoming survey. Richard Mugalian, attorney for Salt Creek, said the survey will not be coming until the three park districts present presentations to residents regarding what they can offer.

The three park districts will be drawing up presentations during the next few weeks, emphasizing what they can offer Salt Creek residents that they do not have already.

EACH OF THE three park districts would like to annex certain portions of the smaller Salt Creek Rural Park District, with the district's approval. In several cases, two districts are claiming the same portions.

UNDER A TENTATIVE plan presented by Arlington Heights Park District representatives, they would annex the Arlington Park Race Track and Arlington Crest subdivision. Palatine Park District would annex Winston Park Unit 6 and Rolling Meadows Park District would get South Park and an industrial strip along Hicks Road.

Representatives of Palatine objected to the plan because it gave portions of corporate Palatine to the other two park districts. Arlington Crest subdivision and the southeast corner of Hicks Road and the Chicago and North Western Rwy. tracks are part of the Village of Palatine.

Arlington Heights Park Board president Charles Cronin defended his district's claiming of Arlington Crest by pointing out that Rte. 53 was a natural boundary. Arlington Crest is south of Rte. 53, nearly cut off from the rest of Palatine.

Cronin also pointed out that Arlington Crest was closer to the Frontier Pool in Arlington Heights than to the Community Park Pool in Palatine.

PALATINE PARK BOARD president Norman Gaare argued that Arlington Crest was in Palatine and that putting it in the Arlington Heights park district would only cause further local boundary confusion. He added that Community Park pool is only a few extra blocks from Arlington Crest than Frontier Pool.

While Arlington Heights was holding up the Rte. 53 natural boundary for Palatine, it was pointed out that the tentative plan would give Arlington Heights land on both sides of Rte. 53 west of the U. S. 14-Rte. 53 intersection.

Representatives also discussed absorbing the $55,000 debt incurred by Salt Creek in building a fieldhouse in Arlington Crest. Dean Hallerud of the Rolling Meadows Park District suggested that the districts absorb a portion of the debt in proportion to the assessed valuation of property they annex.

UNDER THE TENTATIVE plan, Arlington Heights would get about 45 percent of Salt Creek's $19,959,591 assessed property value. Arlington Heights would get $9 million in assessed property while Palatine and Rolling Meadows would get about $5.4 million each.

CHARLES BOBINETTE, Arlington Heights park district attorney, suggested that the districts enter into a pre-annexation agreement with Salt Creek so residents will pay off the debt. This way, residents of the three annexing park districts would not have to pay off Salt Creek's debt.

Arlington Heights park director Thomas Thornton suggested that since the debt was incurred building the fieldhouse in Arlington Crest, the district annexing the subdivision get all of the debt.

Bobinette suggested a special abatement levy on current Salt Creek property to pay for the fieldhouse. It was decided that the three park district's attorneys decide how the debt should be paid off.

Another meeting of the three park districts will be scheduled after the directors and attorneys have met and drawn up plans to present the Salt Creek board.

Is The Wheel Chair In Good Working Order?

Just as any other mechanical device needs to be taken care of, so does that wheel chair. For if it is neglected it will not give good service. We realize that the person confined to a wheel chair usually cannot do this necessary work themselves and that others in their families might not be able to do it for them.

Cuban Refugees

At Last! Aid For Exiled Family

A sick and frightened Cuban refugee family in Chicago will receive aid next week from Elk Grove High School students.

The students began the campaign four months ago to help relocate the family exiled in Madrid, Spain. Delays in the United States Labor Department have kept the family from arriving, and more delays are expected to last one to three months.

Meanwhile the students have $500 and carloads of donated furniture and household items they want to give to someone. They found a family that arrived in the United States two weeks ago.

Mrs. Ann Garcia, Spanish instructor who started the project, said the family was sickened from their vaccination shots and is frightened because it has no friends or relatives in this area.

The family is Lucas Milan, 39; Marcia, 28; and three children, Marcia, 7; David, 5, and Sara, 16 months.

It has been in quarantine since its arrival in Chicago, but must now seek housing, food, and a job for the father. The students have decided to help.

They can give away much of what they have and still be able to provide the necessities for the original family when it arrives, said Ann Garcia, Spanish instructor who began the project.

She said many of the students who worked to raise the money are seniors and may be gone before the arrival of the family from Madrid, Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Angel Ulloa Torres and two children.

"They wanted to do something now," she said.

When Mrs. Garcia heard of the family in Chicago the group immediately approved contributing $250 and some of the furniture. The new family will use it to help pay for food and housing at least until the father can find a job.

The family has apparently found an apartment they can afford in Chicago, according to Mrs. Garcia, but clothing and food for small children are still needed. The Madrid family has two teenagers, and nothing donated for them would fit the smaller children.

Several students, Mrs. Garcia, and Charles Aldrich, advisor, are expected to visit the family next Wednesday with some of their donations.

Awards were presented to the following scouts: John Holzapfer, Jim Stewart and Mike Theile, wolf badges; Matt Holzinger, denner bar and wolf badge; Brian Galligan, wolf badge and gold and silver arrows; Mike Riba and Ron Vitales, wolf badges and gold arrows.

4-Township Mental Health Referendum Tomorrow

by SANDRA BROWNING

Voters in four townships will decide tomorrow whether they want to be taxed for mental health and mental retardation services.

Tomorrow's mental health referendum will ask voter approval of a mental health tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with officials estimating that the first year's tax will be about half that amount. If the maximum rate were levied, the resulting tax would be about $15 on a home with a market value of $30,000.

The polls in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The precincts are the same as for the last regular election in November.

If approved, the township's boards of auditors will be authorized to levy a tax and create a special mental health fund. The boards will be authorized to determine the exact amount of the tax each year, with the first mental health tax being added to property bills in the spring of next year.

If voters approve the tax, the townships are authorized by state law to levy and collect the tax to provide local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation.

BEHIND THE REQUEST for the referendum is a citizens committee which is in the process of forming the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. This council includes representatives from the four townships, general hospitals, schools for handicapped children, mental health clinics, public schools and other agencies which serve residents in the four township area.

If the referendum is approved, one goal of the council will be to present a consolidated request to each township board. In this manner, township boards could deal with one group, the council, for money from the mental health fund.

As planned, the consolidated budget would include the requests for mental health fund money from the 12 separate agencies in the council. With this plan, the council hopes to be able to eliminate duplication of services and encourage the development of new services not now provided.

ACCORDING TO the council, some of the services which are not presently readily available include treatment and follow-up for alcohol and drug addiction, partial hospitalization for those not needing full-time hospitalization, intensive treatment, post-hospital rehabilitation and residential care for severely retarded and emotionally disturbed youth.

The council will also be forming a comprehensive plan for mental health and mental retardation services. This comprehensive plan would attempt to provide a range of mental health and mental retardation services, from youth to old age. The plan would also stress that these services be provided by local agencies as opposed to remote, impersonal facilities, according to council officials.

Most Boards Endorse Issue

A majority of the public boards which have discussed tomorrow's mental health referendum have endorsed the need for passage of the issue.

Ken Dougan, coordinator for the referendum, said that many groups which he has found to be whole-hearted supporters unofficially, would take no official action to endorse the referendum. Many private and public bodies have general policies of not endorsing referenda. Dougan said some of this unofficial support has come from schools, clergymen and others.

The following includes a list of the public bodies which have discussed the referendum and taken some official action. The referendum was discussed by some other public boards, but no action was taken.

THE LIST includes school boards, township boards of auditors and village boards or city councils throughout the four township area.

—Harper College Board urged the passage of the referendum.

—Dist. 21 Board of Education voted unanimously to support the referendum. The district includes schools in Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Wheeling.

—Elk Grove Township's Board of Auditors voted unanimously to endorse the referendum.

—Arlington Heights' Village Board passed a resolution calling the citizens attention to the referendum and recommending that citizens of the village participate in the election.

—Elk Grove's Village Board approved endorsement of the referendum.

—Rolling Meadows' City Council voted to defeat a resolution supporting the referendum. Mayor Roland Meyer cast the deciding vote to break a tie among the city's 10 aldermen.

'Casino Royale' Dance Is Slated

Maine East High School sophomores will have a "Casino Royale" class party from 8 to 11 p.m. Saturday in the school cafeteria.

The cafeteria will be decorated to look like a Las Vegas gambling casino.

"Euphoria," a rock combo, also will perform.

The party is sponsored by the sophomore class student council and the Parent Teacher Council.

Class officers are Steve Hadden, president; Harry Abrams, vice president; Deborah Finato, secretary; and Arnold Schaffer, treasurer. Randi Dorn is decorations chairman.

Revived Baby Is Reported In Fair Condition

The eight-month-old Wheeling girl whose life was saved by an Arlington Heights policeman's actions Wednesday morning remained in fair condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital.

The girl, Tammi Williams, daughter of Mrs. Veronica Williams of 942 Norman Ln., was revived at the hospital after she arrived with no respiration, and a very weak pulse. She was admitted in fair condition and treated for shock and infection.

The baby's life was probably saved by Patrolman Robert Lindquist, of the Arlington Heights police, who rushed the child to the hospital in his squad car.

Mrs. Williams, being driven to the hospital by a neighbor, reportedly was delayed from crossing the Chicago and North Western Rwy. tracks for several minutes by two trains.

Erbach Will Host Open House Sunday

Ward residents and all interested citizens have been invited to the open house, which will be held between 2 and 5 p.m.

Gov. Ogilvie announced a $1.1 billion welfare budget for fiscal 1972, including an expected $85 million in federal money.

The Illinois House created a special ethics commission to evaluate the various Paul Powell investigations, and suggest ethics legislation.

A bill was introduced to the General Assembly that would put the regulation and licensing of cable television under the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The State

Weather officials warned that a potential flood situation still exists in the Rock River Basin. The flood waters in the river were receding, but shifting ice jams upstream created the new threat.

State Treasurer Alan Dixon said he'd do away with "the old guessing game" of whether there is a surplus in the state treasury. He promised a monthly computerized report for every Illinois agency.

The Nation

President Nixon — in his State of the world message — said Russia's huge increase in strategic military power could tempt the Soviets into bolder challenges in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Wholesale prices showed their highest jump in 15 years in January and February, largely because of an increase in livestock prices. Higher meat prices are expected as a result.

The War

South Vietnam President Thieu was quoted as saying it's only a matter of time until his country's forces launch a drive against North Vietnam. Hanoi's delegate at the Paris peace talks repeated the charge that the United States is planning such an invasion. Communist troops followed heavily armed tanks through American rocket and artillery fire to overrun one South Vietnamese position in Laos, and threaten another. U.S. battle deaths in the Indochina fighting were reported at 59 for the past week, the highest since last Nov. 21.

Roots Of Saturday's Health Referendum Dates Eight Years

by SANDRA BROWNING

The roots of tomorrow's mental health referendum can be traced back to the Community Mental Health Act passed by the state legislature eight years ago.

If the referendum passes, the future of mental health and mental retardation services in the four township area will rest largely on the shoulders of the Northwest Mental Health and Mental Retardation Council. The council is an organization including representatives from the townships and various private agencies, including the Salvation Army Counseling Service in Des Plaines.

The referendum involves residents of Elk Grove, Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg townships. About one-fifth of Des Plaines' population lives within the boundaries of Elk Grove Township and another small portion of the residents live in Wheeling Township.

In 1963 the state legislature passed the Community Mental Health Act and, since that time, various amendments to the act have been adopted as late as 1969.

THE ACT OUTLINES the government's role in establishing local services to treat mental illness, alcoholism, drug addiction and mental retardation. The powers of establishing these services are given to any county, city, village, incorporated town, township, public health department, county health department, multiple county health department, school district, or any combination of these.

If tomorrow's referendum passes, each township will establish a Community Mental Health Fund as outlined by the state law and levy a tax.

Under the provisions of the law, each township board may appoint its own seven-member Community Mental Health Board which will make recommendations on how the tax money will be spent.

While the Community Mental Health Act provides the authority for townships to levy taxes, a survey of mental health and mental retardation services completed in July, 1969, recommends structure for the tax money disbursement.

The survey includes the mental health and mental retardation services available to residents of the four townships. The report was paid for by Clearbrook Center in Rolling Meadows, Northwest Mental Health Association which operates a clinic in Arlington Heights, and St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village.

THE SURVEY recommended the formation of a four-township mental health agency designed to administer a comprehensive program. By using this method, duplication of services could hopefully be eliminated and a coordinated effort to provide a wide range of services could be started.

In the spring of 1970, representatives of various agencies and townships began meeting informally to discuss the comprehensive four-township plan. Also at this time, the disbursement of excess township funds was declared unconstitutional.

Before this ruling, townships had allotted thousands of dollars from their excess funds to various mental health agencies providing services to township residents. The solution to the funds cut-back in the face of growing services and needs, seemed to be the formation of a cooperation between townships, and public and private agencies, with the idea of progressing towards a referendum to approve a mental health tax levy.

Members of a citizens committee contacted township boards of auditors in January of this year to ask them to authorize holding the referendum.

The citizens committee is also working on the formation of a not-for-profit corporation called the Northwest Mental Health and Mental Retardation Council. The planning and implementation of a comprehensive mental health program by the council may come if voters in at least two townships approve tomorrow's referendum.

MEMBERSHIP ON THE council will be divided into two classifications. Township mental health boards will each have two representatives. No other taxing body may join unless the state changes its designation of the four-township area as a planning area. About four years ago, Illinois was divided into planning areas for the purpose of establishing comprehensive mental health programs.

The second classification concerns agencies which may become members of the council.

Any agency which offers mental health or retardation services in the four-township area is eligible to apply for membership. As a member of the council, each agency must sign an agreement saying it will not discriminate by age, sex, race, color, creed, national origin, or ability to pay. Each agency must also agree to not solicit public funds except through the council.

A board of directors will be the council's governing board. The directors will review applications for membership from agencies, approve the consolidated budget drawn up by an executive director, assess either initiation or annual fees on the agencies and decide other matters.

IF THE REFERENDUM is approved, the hiring of an executive director and part-time secretary is planned for the first year. Salaries and expenses are expected to be near $31,000.

After the council formally incorporates, and voters have decided whether they will allow themselves to be taxed, the agencies and township mental health boards will hire an executive director who will work with the agencies on a comprehensive mental health plan. Guidelines for allocating local, state, and federal funds to each agency according to the comprehensive plan will be determined. If local tax funds are not available, the council will try to get state and federal grants until local funds are available.

Agencies in the council will submit their own budgets on mental health and retardation services to the council for consolidation into one budget. The council will then submit that budget to each township mental health board for approval. The budget will then go to the township board of auditors which will decide on the tax levy. From the townships, the budget will eventually be submitted to the state for possible matching funds.

THE CITIZENS committee which includes many of the same representatives as the council has adopted a philosophy of continued localization of community services. Youth and family counseling, drug addiction and alcoholism programs which have sprung up in the past couple of years will be supported and improved, rather than combined with service programs of other communities.

In areas where community programs do not exist, the council hopes to encourage present as well as new agencies to channel their efforts towards providing local services.

The 12 agencies who will be members of the council also hope to plan area-wide facilities for partial hospitalization. An around-the-clock residential care center will probably also be included in the area-wide plan, although it would not be built for a couple years.

Through comprehensive planning, the mental health council hopes to eliminate duplication of expensive services. One proposed plan is a central referral center which would handle testing and diagnosis for individuals requesting care. Each agency working with an individual would then not have to re-test a patient while he is in the care of that agency.

THIS YEAR, the 12 agencies which are in the council are spending $1.9 million to provide services in the four townships. By 1980, they hope to expand to a conglomerate budget of $4.7 million, half of which would come from the local referendum. The other half would come from private grants and gifts, state and federal money.

If the mental health referendum fails in one township and passes in three, the council may ask the township to call a referendum a second time. Failure in two or three townships may mean pushing for state legislation authorizing mental health tax levies without voter approval.

A second type of legislation which may also be suggested would be to create a separate mental health taxing district.

Here's Where To Vote Saturday

Here is a list of polling places where residents may vote in tomorrow's mental health referendum in Elk Grove Township. Further inquiries should be directed to the town hall, 437-0300.

Oakton May Offer Three New Courses

Oakton Community College may present courses this fall in police work, child care and X-ray technology.

It also may present courses in fire prevention, electronics, and laboratory technology.

Administrators, faculty members, citizens committees and Oakton board representatives have been meeting to assess community needs and to set up two-year job training programs, at the new junior college.

The junior college Tuesday will examine these programs in preparation for a school application for state vocational funds.

THESE COURSES WILL be designed for the fall semester when Oakton's full and part-time student population is expected to triple to 2,400 according to John Donohue, dean of student personnel.

The school hopes to have at least 15 per cent of its students taking job-training courses. Donohue said Vocational courses will increase as society becomes more aware of the growing need for those trained for non college degree jobs according to Richard Jordan, dean of faculties, who has been directing the development of vocational courses.

Oakton has to satisfy state vocational course requirements to receive state funds through the Illinois Junior College Board, about $23 per student for each hour of course he said. Funds also come from the State Superintendent of Public Instruction Office.

This school year, Oakton has courses in data processing (practical experience and background to become a computer operator or programmer), mechanical design (drafting and design), secretarial science (shorthand bookkeeping, office practice) and business middle-management (which would allow a student to become a supermarket manager or to manage a retail shop), Jordan said.

PLANS FOR NEXT school year, include two-year programs, or 60 credit hours of work, leading up to an associate in applied science degree, he said.

An electronic technology course is being planned. This curriculum would allow a graduate to work for any of the large electronics tool or production companies in the Oakton district, Jordan said.

Students would receive training in electronics and wiring, and related science courses. They could work in research, testing and measuring for electronic firms.

A fire science curriculum is being planned. It would have courses in properties of heat, the chemistry of fire fighting and fire prevention.

Firemen in the Oakton district could take these courses at Oakton Jordan said. A committee of fire chiefs has been formed to study the program.

A police science curriculum is also being studied. Criminology, crime prevention, statistics and other courses related to police work would be included.

A CHILD CARE curriculum is being examined. This course would have the double advantage of providing child care for women who want to take courses, but who have no place to leave their children during class hours, he said.

Oakton officials are meeting this week with hospital representatives to discuss vocational training in medical fields, including x-ray technology and lab technology.

At present, Oakton has a licensed practical nursing program. Oakton might share hospital facilities in providing other medical-related job programs. Students could then take related courses in science, and even go on to a four year college, Jordan said.

Wells Not Tested For Mercury

Nich said. He said he assumed that the county would change its standard to include mercury tests if the federal guidelines are changed.

According to Todd mercury poisoning destroys brain cells often affecting children more than adults. Mercury levels in suburban water systems are nowhere near the intensity needed to cause alarm.

In addition to bacteria counts, the 20 substances monitored on occasion by the county include copper, arsenic, lead, silver and alcohol benzyne sulfonate, a by-product of detergents. Nich said.

THOSE SUBSTANCES, however, are not regularly checked by his agency Nich said and only receive attention under special circumstances. Examples of the special circumstances would include discovery of an unusual color or odor in the water or desire of a municipality to measure mineral content when setting up a water softening plant.

James Vaughn, purification engineer for Chicago's water system, said the water pumped by Chicago last year received 450,000 separate tests.

The city's laboratories, in addition to conducting 80 bacteria checks a day from all over the Chicago water system, also test for mercury, radioactivity, pesticides and trace metal substances, Vaughn said.

Mercury levels in Chicago water have never been tested at higher than 1 part per billion, he said. Seven or eight mercury tests are conducted each day, according to Vaughn.

More Than 'Just A Job'

Specialized Training Is Available

by DOROTHY OLIVER
(Second in a series)

There is a category which runs between unskilled jobs and the professions. These careers demand specialized training but not a college degree. Training for many careers is available in the northwest suburban area.

The young woman fresh out of high school, the housewife interested in going to work and the woman dissatisfied with her present position can find fulfilling careers by seeking out special schools of instruction. They can be as near as the telephone.

If dogs are your fancy the Pampered Poodle Grooming Salon, Skokie, offers a two-month course in dog grooming. Students clip a dog a day and are trained to cut all breeds as well as take care of their other grooming needs.

MR. AND MRS. ROY Mulay, owners of the salon, will also teach students how to begin and manage a business of their own. Students are taught individually and can either remain at this shop or seek employment elsewhere. The cost is $450.

Many women are professional photographers using their talents in everything from portrait photography to newspaper photography to motion picture photography.

Winona School of Photography is headquartered in Des Plaines. They offer courses in almost all phases of professional photography and their students range from beginners to amateurs to highly skilled professionals.

A total of 43 courses are available through Winona including a basic beginner's course (tuition $250), another in criminal photography and, the highest priced, another in motion picture techniques ($525 tuition).

OF THE 366 STUDENTS attending Winona in 1970, 22 per cent were women.

Courses are held only during the summer, beginning in June and ending Labor Day. They are conducted at Winona Lake, Ind.

Tuition includes the use of all equipment and all materials but does not include housing or meals. Ed Purrington, director of the school, suggests registration should take place before April 15. All information about the school is available in Des Plaines through Purrington.

"We do believe in woman's lib," he said. "About 8½ per cent of our instructors are women and we have a large amount of women students."

IF YOUR CAREER interest lies in the field of graphics or if you are a beginner in the field, the Professional Graphics Institute, Park Ridge offers 15 courses. Lithography (from both the production and sales standpoint), estimating, production planning, marketing computer basics and management cost controls are some of the classes.

Women are involved in this field, according to George Schmitz, founder and director of the Institute. "Two of our women students are among the first printing saleswomen in the Chicago area. We also have women from advertising agencies who are here to learn about their product. Women work in printing shops, and in the photographic end of graphics there are a large number of women."

The Institute works closely with the graphics industry; most of their courses have been added because the industry had no place to send people who needed background or further instruction about their job. Approximately 97 per cent of the tuition for courses (which ranges between $200 and $250) has been paid for by the industry.

THE SCHOOL APPEALS to those interested or already working in printing sales, production and agencies. Classes are held at North Park College Science Center, Foster and Kedzie, Chicago, and the curriculum includes field trips and lab work. Every course has a combination of lectures and field work.

A course takes 10 months to complete and classes are held once a month on Saturdays. School begins in September and ends in May. Private students may call and apply. If you're already involved in the graphics industry, brochures are available to show your boss.

Most of the students at the Stock Market Institute, Park Ridge, are already involved — either as brokers or registered representatives — in the market, but the novice is welcomed. A single correspondence course, costing $750, teaches you the finer points of making buy-sell decisions.

EVEN IF YOUR eventual goal is not a career in the market, J. F. Schindbeck, educational director, suggests that the course is valuable to anyone who plans on making or already has investments.

"Financial analysts, trustees, mutual fund managers, financial advisers, registered representatives — anyone involved with the stock market should have the knowledge behind their investments," he said.

An aptitude test is given before enrollment. The name of the course is the Richard D. Wyckoff course in Stock Market Science Techniques, and it takes between a year and a year and a half to complete. Vocational seminars, held throughout the nation, are included in the training.

Daily stock reports are sent to students for six months. The course is accredited by the National Home Study Council and the Veterans Administration.

EDUCATORS FROM the northwest suburban area are working on plans for a "University Without Walls." With the cooperation of the Northwest Educational Cooperative, headquartered in Arlington Heights, by-laws are being created and officers selected.

The immediate goal is to provide in-service training for teachers in the 10 school districts included in NEC. The future goal is to provide community education.

"What we offer will depend on the interests of the communities," said Dr. Gloria Kinney who is working on the "University." "We plan on assessing the interests of the people and from that decide whether we will be oriented toward career or general education."

TOMORROW: Hair styling, a booming career for women.

Food Stores Hiring More Women

by GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — It makes sense that the hands which push the cart at the supermarket also should help to pull down some of the jobs connected with the store operation.

Which is one way of saying that food stores are hiring more women, many for jobs once considered man's work.

One of the reasons is woman's natural talent as a housekeeper, which carries over into store operation. Another is the fact that even at a time when unemployment is high, there may not be a man available for the job.

"With the male labor pool tight in many areas . . . a good man these days may be hard to find," says Progressive Grocer in its current issue. "To fill the gap, many retailers are giving more thought to hiring women on a part-time or full-time basis for jobs usually filled by men."

THE PUBLICATION, in a review of the growing numbers of women in food retailing, cites as one example Bob Young, operator of four IGA supermarkets in Ohio. Young found part-time women workers successful in increasing sales and reducing out-of-stocks in his frozen foods departments. His stores, he added, are in small towns and are not high-volume businesses.

Fireco Sales, Ltd., Canada's largest service merchandiser with some 1,800 food stores spread throughout the dominion, started hiring women part-time three years ago. They worked primarily in rural and small town areas.

Fireco's President Michael Firestone said the project started as a way of having personnel on the scene when store shipments arrived. If shipments were delayed, it would save the company traveling salesman costs if someone in the neighborhood could check arrivals. No juggling of schedules, no costly long distance trips.

WOMEN, HE SAID, found the part-time jobs a good way of "getting out of the house," earning extra money, and still keeping up with the housework and children.

Firestone said women in the main were the non-breadwinner, non-career types, often meaning less job turnover than with men who "tend to be more ambitious . . . impatient if growth opportunities are not immediately apparent."

Firestone said his company's experience with both the part-timer and the full-timer worker indicated the full-timer is more likely to produce better results.

He cited two reasons. The full-timer is more serious about her work. And working full-time maintains a pace that leads to more productivity through job knowledge and a "feel for the business."

German Paintings At Art Institute

German painting of the 19th century, an exhibition of more than 100 works by 40 painters, will open tomorrow at the Art Institute of Chicago. The exhibit will continue through March 28.

The most comprehensive exhibition of 19th century German painting ever to be shown outside of Germany, the exhibition encompasses a wide variety of painting including portraits, landscapes, seascapes and city scenes as well as allegorical, religious, mythological and romantic works.

The paintings are on loan from 16 museums in West Germany, from the collections of the West German Federal Republic and from German private collections.

AMONG THE artists included are Caspar David Friedrich, Philipp Otto Runge, Peter von Cornelius, Adolf von Menzel, Hans von Mares and Wilhelm Leibl.

The Art Institute's assistant curator of early painting, Joseph Rishel, commented about the exhibit, "German painting is best known in America through the work of Durer and his contemporaries or to come closer to our own time, through the activity of the Expressionists shortly after 1900."

"There has until now been relatively little interest in the 19th century painters, and American public collections are particularly weak in representations of this period."

"There is a severe limitation," he continued, "when we consider that German painters had a great influence on the development of our own artists, especially through Dusseldorf and the German colony in Rome, and in their quality and variety. German painters are often as interesting as their better known French and English contemporaries."

IT HAS BEEN felt by many scholars in 19th century art and culture that is particular period of German art has been neglected outside its home country.

They agree that a great deal of both British and American 19th century art developed on the basis of influences from Germany rather than from France.

Beyond this, most scholars generally recognize the fact that Germany produced during the 19th century more artists of major international stature than any other country outside of France.

The accompanying photographs are printed through the courtesy of the Art Institute.

OIL ON AN OAK panel is the medium used for Philipp Otto Runge's 19th century painting, "Self-Portrait In A Brown Coat." The exhibition which opens tomorrow will continue through March 28.

"PORTRAIT OF Gertraud Fuchs as a child" by Max Slavogt is one of some 100 19th century German paintings opening in an exhibit tomorrow. The German works will be displayed in the Morton Wing.

Des Plaines Love Story

Mr. and Mrs. Marc Bonnier

Recently united in marriage were two Des Plaines young people, Jean Kay Frank daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frank of 1360 Dennis Place and Marc Thomas Bonnier, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Bonnier of 879 Greenview.

The Rev. Donald M. Halberg officiated at the double ring, candlelight ceremony in Trinity Lutheran Church.

The bride wore a traditional white gown of satrapeau trimmed with Chantilly and Venise lace, embellished with tiny seed pearls. The bodice had high neckline and long bishop sleeves, the A-line skirt gathered at the Empire waist line. Attached to an invisible crown, the full-flowing matching mantilla extended into a long train. Her cascade of flowers was of white poinsettia centered on white lace rosettes.

PAULA SUTOR served as maid of honor. Sherry Bark, Lee LeVeau, and Barbara Jones were bridesmaid. Leading the wedding procession was Jymette Bonnier junior bridesmaid. The girls were attired in cranberry velvet jumpers with white lace trimmed blouses, and cranberry velvet crown headpieces with short veil. The attendants' ensembles were made by the bride and her mother.

The groom's party consisted of Guy Bonnier best man, John Meador, Tom Curtin and Rusty Lino.

A buffet dinner reception for 200 guests was held at Carpenters Hall following the wedding. The newlyweds are now residing in Rolling Meadows.

Sororities

ALPHA DELTA PI

The piggy banks will be emptied at next Tuesday's meeting of Alpha Delta Pi Northwest Countryside Alumnae.

To stuff the "piggies" talents big and small have been put to work by the alumnae to raise funds for the annual Easter Seal campaign.

Hostessing Tuesday's 8 p.m. meeting will be Mrs. Louis Blanc 219 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights with Mrs. John Potter Jr. of Palatine as co-hostess. Election of officers is also on the evening's agenda.

All ADPI's are invited and new alumnae may contact Mrs. Blanc at 392-5247.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

As a "thank you" to friends who have supported its fund raising projects throughout the year Northwest Suburban Club of Alpha Gamma Delta is hosting a Guest Night Tuesday at the Plum Grove Club in Palatine.

The alumnae have arranged to have Beverly Bergdahl of Rolling Meadows, master graphoanalyst as speaker for the evening. Mrs. Bergdahl will explain many of the mysteries and misperceptions of handwriting analysis and will explain some of its values in business, police, forgery, work guidance, counseling and human relationships.

GRAPHOANALYSIS is a form of handwriting study based on the strokes in writing and how they are interpreted to determine the personality and character of the writer. Mrs. Bergdahl is a graduate of the University of Michigan and has over five years of professional experience in graphoanalysis, after earning a master's certification from the International Graphoanalysis Society of Chicago. She teaches at Palatine High School in the adult education program of District 211.

Co-hostesses for Tuesday's meeting of Alpha Gammas and their guests are Mrs. James Holder Palatine and Mrs. Thomas Fluke and Mrs. James Enright, both of Arlington Heights.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Zeta Tau Alpha Northwest Suburban Alumnae Association will have a program on home decoration at next Tuesday's meeting at the home of Mrs. William Brockschmidt 1207 W. Cedar Lane, Arlington Heights.

Any Zetas interested in attending may call Mrs. Brockschmidt at 259-9845.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

The natives are restless again. All it takes is a breath of warm breezes. The florists get a rash of flower shoppers. The woods feel the attack of bud-swell watchers. The pussywillows and forsythias get hacked off and brought indoors for forcing.

Already one Arlington Heights woman reported the first robin.

Another claimed she spotted a tulip pip.

Someone said her pansies were green under the mulch. Another measured her grass and claimed it grew some.

I even saw someone crush a lapel button that read "Winter Love it or leave it."

See someone swinging a bat, jogging in track shorts or driving around with the top down, and you know the spring rushers are out in full force.

That was last week. This week it's freeze, flurries and flu. Everyone finally realized the groundhog went back in the hole for another month.

ARTISTS AT WORK, with brushes big and little, are doing their thing to fill their Easter Seal piggy banks. Mrs. Louis Blanc and Mrs. Joseph Adelman are members of Alpha Delta Pi Northwest Countryside Alumnae who are polishing shoes, sewing gifts, babysitting, painting, making wall plaques and even charging the family for haircuts to raise money for the sorority's national philanthropy of providing help to crippled children.

Spares 'Face Reality'

The Rev. Edgar Pearl Lake Shore Unitarian Universalist church, Wilmette, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Spares Sunday Evening Club Sunday, 7:30 p.m. at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 2328 Central Road, Glenview, their new location.

He is affiliated with the Academy of Religion and Health, president of the Unitarian Midwest Ministers, on the boards of Clergy Concerned for Vietnam, Evanston YWCA and Wilmette Human Relations.

THE SPARES HELD their annual election of officers at their Feb. 14 meeting. James T. Lambdin, III handed the presidential gavel to the new president, Norman Bowman of Oak Park. Others elected were vice president, Jack Porter, Des Plaines; executive vice president, Betty Zerbe, Glenview; secretary, Amanda Bottari, Morton Grove; treasurer, Olive Terwilliger Wheelock, Park Ridge; assistant treasurer, Henrietta Arendt, Northfield; corresponding secretary, Irene Larson, Morton Grove; and auditor, Chet Arnt, Chicago.

The club is an organization for widowed divorced, legally separated and single adults serving residents of Lake, Cook and DuPage Counties. Meetings are held the second and fourth Sundays of the month with guests welcomed.

Cards, Lunch For GOP Women

The only fund raising event of the whole year for the Maine Township Republican Women's Club will be held Wednesday, March 3, at the VFW Hall, 2067 Miner, Des Plaines. It will be the annual salad bar luncheon and card party.

The affair will begin at 11:45 a.m. with a social hour, to be followed by luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Dennis Ganey, ticket chairman, at 299-2124.

Working to make the event a success is Mrs. Donald Clark, ways and means chairman. Assisting her are Mrs. H. H. Korff, co-chairman, Mrs. J. Wittbold, decorations chairman, Mrs. Alan Wright, president, Mrs. Raymond Hanch and Mrs. J. Hart.

Collecting

with Grace Carolyn

Mrs. Ann Rebillard of Palatine has a dozen or more dogs in her home, but the neighbors don't complain about the noise, and these pets never seed. They're the breed known as Staffordshire, for the district in England where they originated. Made of earthenware, or glazed pottery, they are a popular collectible among those who wish to impart an antique flavor to their home.

Mrs. Rebillard's decor is American Primitive, and the dogs, in their earthy colors of black, russet, brown and cream, lend just exactly the right touch of antique interest.

Staffordshire spaniels were just about the biggest thing ever to come out of the kilns in England, collectible-wise. The thousand and more potteries also produced bull dogs, poodles, whippet hounds, cats, sheep, lions and other genera, but none was ever more popular and displayed in more homes than the spaniel.

THE DETACHED, somnolent expressions on the faces hardly vary from dog to dog, and no matter their size, from 3½ inches to almost lifesize, they are always posed on their haunches. Originally sold in pairs (one left-pawed, one right), many sets remain extant, but are more often found singly. Occasionally, silver, gold and copper lustre were used in the coloring, provided by metallic pigment in the glaze. Most dogs are properly domesticated with a collar and chain.

The same molds used by the Staffordshire potters were copied by other factories to create colors and types of earthenware figures peculiar to the local clays and glazes available. The famed Bennington and other Eastern United States potters turned out a brown colored or Rockingham glazed dog, and Mrs. Rebillard also has one in an extremely heavy solid black pottery which has not yet been identified. Her supreme coup in collecting would be the acquisition of a Galena pottery dog, from the lead-glazed production of Western Illinois.

THE DOGS ARE just one of her fields of interest. She also collects the stone-ware jugs, crocks and bottles for which Pennsylvania, New York and other points east became so famous. These will be featured in a future column.

If you have a question or comment on antiques or collecting please address it to Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 289, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Wolf Boy Changes Face In 'Dark Of The Moon'

Warriors Seek Undisputed Title

Showdown Time Again! West Meets South

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Scarcely every week since December Maine West and Maine South have merely been going through the motions

There have been games that have meant something, such as those against the Arlingtons, the Deerfields and the Proviso Easts. But mostly these two teams have been marking time by waltzing through the Central Suburban League, tearing up such innocents as the Niles Norths, the Glenbrook Norths and the Niles Wests.

But all of the games on the schedule, some exciting and some yawners, have all taken a back seat in anticipation for tonight's game between the Warriors of Maine West and the Hawks of Maine South.

An overflow crowd of more than 3,000 is expected tonight in the Maine West gymnasium to watch the Warriors and the Hawks battle for the Central Suburban League championship.

Not only is the CSL title on the line but also the questions of who will win the league scoring title, who has the cutest cheerleaders, the loudest cheering section and the bounciest pom-pom girls have to be answered.

Other paraphernalia such as winning streaks, unbeaten streaks at home, "shoot for state" buttons, "pluck the Hawks" buttons, "beat the Warriors" buttons, revenge, District 207 supremacy and the like, which all sprout forth when a big rivalry game is in the making, will add a flavor to the contest.

Maine West has already clinched a share of the CSL championship with a 12-1 record. If Maine West wins tonight the Warriors will have their first undisputed league title since 1965. If Maine South emerges victorious, as it did a month ago in the Hawk gymnasium against Maine West, Maine South, which has an 11-2 league mark, will be crowned co-champion with the Warriors.

And the idea of sharing a league title with hated Maine South brings out the overwhelming response of "yeyeech" from Maine West fans.

While the contest is progressing another league title will be in the making — the league scoring leadership. Mike Bonk of Maine South has 239 points this season and Maine West's Tom Kummer has tallied 226 points. Both trail Deerfield's John Riley, who has 245 points, but, with a big scoring outburst, both have a shot at winning the individual scoring title.

Earlier in the season, with fans packed in every crevice of the Maine South gymnasium, the Warriors came out on the short end of a 70-65 score. In that game the spotlight was stolen away from the league's top scorers but a couple of relative unknowns on the Maine South contingent — Roger Sauter and Jerry Jones. Sauter scored 25 points and Jones 19 to hand the Warriors the defeat.

But tonight the game will be played in the friendly confines of the Maine West gymnasium where the Warriors are 7-0. Maine West has also reeled off six straight victories since that loss at Maine South.

Maine South coach Bernie Brady will probably start Bonk and Sauter at guard, Jones and Tim Semrau at forward and Russ Hylen at center. This contingent is the highest scoring in the CSL, averaging 73.2 points per game. On defense, however, Maine South ranks fourth, giving up 61.1 points per game.

Maine West is second in the scoring department with a scoring average of 71.5 points per game and the Warriors are first in defense, giving up only 57.1 points per contest.

Maine West coach Gaston Freeman will start Kummer, averaging better than 17 points per game, and Dennis Willison, averaging around 16 points per game, at forward. Both are 6-6.

Bruce Kerr, who is averaging right around 10 points a game, is 6-9 and will start at center though 6-5 Fred Horn, who is average 11 a game, will see plenty of action at that position.

George Woodley, who is scoring at an 11 point per game clip, will start at one guard and the playmaking guard will either be Bill Besenhofer or Jim Hanselmann.

FINE REBUILDING JOB

Dear Sirs:

I was recently looking at an autographed 1969-70 Chicago Bulls basketball. There are 13 players' signatures. Of these, only six are still on the present team. The players gone are Clem Haskins, Bob Kauffman, Shaler Halimon, Ed Manning and Walt Wesley. Loy Peterson and Ken Spain were not with the club all last season. Partially, the Bulls' success this season should be attributed to General Manager Pat Williams and his staff. They have obtained Jimmy Fox and a new starter, Matty Goukas. He also obtained superstars Bob Love and Chet Walker before last season. The Bulls may not make the playoffs this season as they did last year, but they are a much-improved team.

Ed Colleton
Arlington Heights

Your letter was received before last weekend when the Bulls rammed the Detroit Pistons twice to move into a solid hold on second place. We agree that Williams has done a tremendous job in re-viving the franchise since his arrival in September, 1969. Playoffs, here we come! — Paul Logan

CUB STATISTICS DECEIVING?

Dear Sirs:

Statistics may not lie, but sometimes they can be deceiving. Good examples are Ferguson Jenkins and Ron Santo of the Cubs.

Jenkins has signed for close to $100,000 and Santo makes more than $80,000 a year. The chief arguments for these inflated salaries are that Jenkins has won 20 or more games four years in a row and Santo last year had 114 runs batted in and led the Cubs in "game-winning" hits.

What fans often fail to realize is the large number of losses Jenkins also has over those four years. In that time there is just one National League pitcher who has lost more games. And his earned-run average, while not bad, is not worthy of 100 grand. He is admittedly one of the finest pitchers in the game, but the $100,000 plateau is getting much too common and should be reserved only for bona fide superstars.

As for Santo, many of his so-called "game-winning" hits are not clutch hits. These two terms are not the same as many people falsely assume. For example, a hit driving in the third run in the second inning in an ultimate 12-2 victory is classified as a game-winning hit. Is it a clutch hit? Many of Santo's are of this variety. And his RBI total looks good only because he comes to bat with so many men on base. We never hear how many runners he strands — which is a lot.

These two, especially Santo, are not nearly as valuable as many think and their salaries are ridiculous. Besides, they are both touchy and temperamental and Jenkins talks like a prima donna, not a man whose first interest is in his team.

Bruce Gast
Des Plaines

Deception, in this case, is an understatement. While you failed to mention the importance of Santo's "Golden Glove" and the occasional productivity of Jenkins' bat, the robust number of six-figure salaries is getting to be a joke. And with P. K. Wrigley willing to stand pat with his consolation winners for another year, the price of gum may climb to a dime by the All-Star break! — Jim Cook

FIGHTING NECESSARY?

Dear Sirs:

Your writer Larry Everhart has proven that he knows very little about hockey.

There is no way a person can say hockey is why "we have become a violent, angry society of killers and haters." Mr. Everhart points out cries of protest like, "You can't back down in this league or they'll push you around." This statement is false. They'll push you right out of a job.

Hockey fights have nothing to do with the war in Vietnam. I have never heard of boxing having to do with a war. In this sport the combatants are paid a million dollars for one fight. Nowhere in the NHL will you find a player who is paid like that.

In a sport where players are moving at 25 miles per hour with sharp skates and what Mr. Everhart would call a sphere, a hard rubber disk moving at speeds exceeding 125 miles per hour, something has to give. The temper is the easiest thing for a human being to lose control of.

When Mr. Everhart said, "Kids are taught to drop gloves at the first hint of trouble because they see their idols doing it," this proved he doesn't know hockey. (In youth leagues) if gloves are dropped the boy is immediately removed from that game. If it happens more than once it could mean a couple of games.

Hockey "businessmen" are not as rough on each other as salesmen and other businessmen. They do things worse than cause bodily harm. They hurt each other's jobs and ways of income. Many times grudges are held and they continue to hurt each other. After a hockey fight the players let bygones be bygones.

Bryan Bloom
Rolling Meadows

Your points are well taken, but I still hold to my original position.

I think there is a very real connection between the war and hockey fighting, though it may be hard to understand. Every example of violence helps shape the ways of our country. Our Vietnam policy was not shaped by any one man at any one time. Collectively, we feel we can solve differences with other nations on the battlefield instead of the conference room. Just as we feel we can solve smaller differences (like those in hockey) physically.

I feel if it is necessary to continually and brutally fight to hold a job in hockey, that job is not worth it. If league officials cracked down enough to make all players change their attitudes, and if amateur and pro players would decide that fighting is not worth playing, fights would be less common and the game would be less dangerous.

My column dealt with hockey only, but I feel boxing is also ridiculous and not worth the danger involved in most cases. The income of top boxers is far beyond reason.

I have been an avid hockey fan for years and realize that a puck is not a sphere. This was a slip of the typewriter (maybe from writing about too many ball games!)

I was not aware of any leagues having a rule to eject players who drop gloves and doubt that all of them have this policy. I applaud the ones which do. Unfortunately, there is no such rule in the NHL.

You think hockey players don't also "hurt each other's jobs and ways of income?" How about the many players who miss games, in part or entirely, from injuries incurred while fighting? The less they play, the less they help their team and the less money they make. What about Teddy Green of the Boston Bruins who underwent brain surgery and was in critical condition after a stick fight in 1969?

Fights may be fun to watch, but there are many amusing pastimes that are not safe or right. — Larry Everhart

HASBACH: HERALD TOPS

Dear Sirs:

I would like to thank you for the fine job you do in covering high school sports. My mother still sends me the sports sections so I can keep up with what's going on. My friends here that see the paper can't believe the coverage you give. They've never seen anything like it. They are especially impressed by the pictures. I think the fans in the Paddock area shouldn't be so concerned about what page their story is on or how many words it has. They should be thankful the story does appear. Not everybody is so fortunate as to have a paper such as the Herald to cover their high school sports so thoroughly.

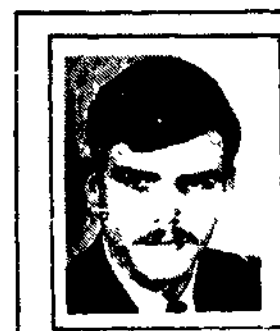

Thanks again for doing a great job!

Dave, your comments are appreciated. As the area grows, the demands of the job grow. We welcome constructive criticism, a newspaper profits by it, but it's also nice, and refreshing, to receive a letter like this one. Thanks. — Herald Sports Staff.

Demons Clash With Touted Lions

Larry Mlynczak

AS "MARCH MADNESS" unfolds across Illinois for basketball fans, the "Prediction Plague" hits the sports writers.

Regional basketball tournaments will be getting underway Monday night as teams throughout the state bid for berths in sectional tournaments.

Among area teams, Maine West will compete in the Prospect Regional. Notre Dame will compete in the Niles West Regional and Maine East will host its own regional.

The area squads have had a great deal of success in two cases and an improved season in another. Going into tonight's action Maine West has a 15-3 record and Niles East is 18-11. Notre Dame, which has already completed its season, closed out with an 18-3 mark.

The combined record of 44-17 shows the marked strength the area had on the hardwoods in 1970-71.

With the start of tournament action, however, past records mean nothing since each team starts on an equal basis.

The winners of the Prospect, Niles West, Wheeling and Waukegan regionals will compete in the Fremd Sectional.

The winners of the Maine East, LaGrange, Downers Grove North and Morton West regionals will advance to the Hinsdale Central Sectional.

Which teams will advance to these sectionals?

This is where the "Prediction Plague" comes in. Never one to miss out on an opportunity to hang out on a limb, here are my forecasts.

PROSPECT REGIONAL: The top seeded team in the regional was Arlington and Maine West was given the second seed. Earlier in the season Arlington edged Maine West 77-75 — but on the Arlington floor.

It certainly appears that these two are the superior teams in the tournament with Prospect pegged as a darkhorse.

Therefore, my first round picks have Arlington 71, Conant 66; St. Viator 48, Elk Grove 46; Maine West 84, Forest View 47, and Prospect the winner over the Fenton District winner.

The semi-final predictions have Arlington 63, St. Viator 56 and Maine West 78, Prospect 70.

In the finals my crystal ball has Maine West 73, Arlington 70.

NILES WEST REGIONAL: For some unexplainable reason, Evanston and New Trier East were seeded 1-2 ahead of Notre Dame which was seeded third.

A year ago this was one of the tougher regionals in the state. This year it does not possess much strength — other than third seeded Notre Dame.

In the first round my predictions are Evanston 58, Glenbrook South 55; New Trier West 71, Niles East 58; New Trier East 66, Niles West 48, and Notre Dame 75, Niles North 59.

In the semi-finals I have Evanston 60, New Trier West 58 and Notre Dame 68, New Trier East 60.

In the finals: Notre Dame 67, Evanston 62.

WHEELING REGIONAL: Hersey and Wheeling have the best cracks at winning this tourney with Carmel of Mundelein as the darkhorse.

My first round picks have Hersey 68, Libertyville 49; Barrington 59, Palatine 53; Carmel 60, Fremd 57, and Wheeling over the district representative.

In the semi-finals the picks are Hersey 69, Barrington 56 and Wheeling 58, Carmel 56.

Hersey is the pick over Wheeling in the finals, 61-58.

WAUKEGAN REGIONAL: In other years this has been a strong tournament but not this year. Highland Park was the top seeded team.

The first round picks are Highland Park 63, Lake Forest 58; Deerfield 73, Warren 59; Zion-Benton 62, North Chicago 59; and Waukegan 66, Glenbrook North 51.

In the second round I have Highland Park 74, Deerfield 69 and Waukegan 63, Zion-Benton 60.

My prediction has Highland Park beating Waukegan in the finals 70-65.

If these predictions run true to form the Fremd Sectional would have Maine West, Notre Dame, Hersey and Highland Park.

MAINE EAST REGIONAL: St. Patrick was given the first seed as the Suburban Catholic Conference champion. Maine East was seeded second.

St. Patrick won the SCC title because of height but there are teams, such as Maine East, which can handle the Shamrocks' size.

The opening round picks are St. Patrick 65, Proviso West 61; Maine South 68, West Leyden 66; Maine East 77, Holy Cross 69; and, assuming favored Ridgewood wins the district, Ridgewood 70, East Leyden 66.

The semi-final round should look like St. Patrick 68, Maine South 65 and Maine East 71, Ridgewood 69.

The upset special in the finals: Maine East 76, St. Patrick 75.

LAGRANGE REGIONAL: Because of the home floor advantage, defending state champion LaGrange should have the edge over the rest of the field. Hinsdale Central will pose as the biggest threat.

First round picks are LaGrange 92, Carl Sandburg 50; Chicago Christian 77, Stagg 58; Oak Lawn 59, St. Joseph 53; and Hinsdale Central 69, Reavis 60.

In the semi-finals the picks are LaGrange 68, Chicago Christian 63 and Hinsdale Central 84, Oak Lawn 68.

The finals: LaGrange 63, Hinsdale Central 62.

MORTON WEST REGIONAL: Proviso East is far and away the class of this tournament.

First round picks have Proviso East 83, Argo 50; Oak Park 57, Morton West 56; St. Ignatius 61, Morton East 54; and St. Mel 62, Riverside-Brookfield 52.

In the semi-finals, Proviso East 73, Oak Park 61 and St. Ignatius 65, St. Mel 62.

The finals: Proviso East 67, St. Ignatius 61.

DOWNERS GROVE NORTH REGIONAL: A solid tournament with Willowbrook, York and Downers Grove North having a shot at winning.

The first round choices have Willowbrook 80, Hinsdale South 62; Montini 61, Lisle 58; York 65, Downers Grove South 54; and Downers Grove North 68, Benet Academy 59.

Semi-final choices are Willowbrook 78, Montini 66 and York 68, Downers Grove North 66.

The finals: Willowbrook 67, York 64. If these predictions run true to form Maine East, LaGrange, Proviso East and Willowbrook will meet in the Hinsdale Central Sectional.

And which teams will advance to the Evanston Super Sectional?

That's another prediction column for another day.

It is time to regroup forces at Maine East before the regional basketball tournament gets underway next week.

And what could possibly be a better way of getting on the right track than with a victory over defending state champion LaGrange tonight?

The first time that Maine East took on LaGrange was in January. At that time Maine East held a 9-5 record overall and was 3-3 in the West Suburban League.

The Demons battled LaGrange all the way and held a 48-46 lead with 2:28 remaining in the third quarter. Then the roof fell in on the Demons, LaGrange won 74-59, and nothing has gone right for Maine East since.

Injuries and illnesses have hindered the Demons lately but, even so, Maine East simply has not been playing as well as it did in winning nine of its first 13 games.

Maine East has lost its last two games and also has losses in seven of its eight last outings.

With the regional approaching next week, Maine East coach Paul McClelland is attempting to get his squad back into early season form.

Tonight at LaGrange at 8:15 would be a nice time to start.

With a victory tonight, Maine East could knock LaGrange out of an undisputed West Suburban League title. The Demons have already dampened Hinsdale Central's title hopes with a 66-65 win over the Red Devils in January. Hinsdale Central has an 11-2 WSL record, one game behind LaGrange's 12-1.

Maine East is 4-9 in the WSL and the Demons are 10-11 overall. A win over LaGrange would give the Demons their winningest season since 1962-63.

Among the starters in the LaGrange lineup are a pair of heroes from last year's state champion squad, Owen Brown and Dave Van Skike.

Brown, when he feels like going all out, is a wizard on both offense and defense and can dominate any game. At 6-8 he has all the tools. Brown has played a number of listless games but appears to be coming around, as his 42-point total against Riverside-Brookfield last Friday testifies.

Van Skike's performances have been up and down all season but had one of his better nights of the season against Maine East the first time around when he had 21 points.

McClelland's starting lineup will have Dale Deschamps and Frank Knopf at forward, Mark Bondeson at center and Jack Cronin and either Russ Anderson or Bruce Potenza at guard.

Deschamps is the WSL's leading scorer and he and Bondeson and Knopf will be counted on to keep Brown from breaking the game wide open.

Wrestlers Open In State Tourney

by LARRY EVERHART
Every high school athlete and his team dreams of being state champions, even though it's an "impossible dream" all but a tiny fraction of the time.

"Since it's such a rarity to even get a shot at being recognized as the best in the state, this is a very special weekend for eight Herald area wrestlers and for Hersey's matmen as a team.

Tonight those eight will be in the big mushroom, Assembly Hall at the University of Illinois in Champaign, needing four more victories to be declared to in their weight in the Land of Lincoln.

The occasion, of course, is the 34th annual state meet to be held in four sessions. Although four more wins may not sound like a lot for boys with the highly-impressive credentials of the area's qualifiers, their competition and the pressure will probably be the greatest of their young lives.

Weigh-ins last until noon today with first-round matches starting at 1:00 and second-round bouts at 7:30. After another weigh-in session Saturday (there is a two-pound allowance over regular February weight), semi-finals and wrestling-backs start at 1:00, consolation finals at 6:00 and championships at 7:30.

All but one of those still alive from the Herald area have over 20 wins for the season and their combined record is a gaudy 191-27-1.

The individual breakdowns are: Brad Smith (Hersey), 29-0; Jim Battaglia (Hersey), 24-2-1; Tad Deluca (Hersey), 26-2; Frank Dai (Campo (Arlington)), 25-3; Bruce Beam (Maine West), 22-2; Paul

Morris (Elk Grove), 18-6; Tim Tuerk (Fremd), 25-4; and Mike Beard (Wheeling), 22-8.

Smith, a 128-pounder, not only has the best record but is the only one of this group who captured a sectional championship last weekend. The others were consolation winners, though they all were district champs.

Hersey, with its vaunted trio, has an outside shot at the team title, though East Aurora is the favorite.

"We have a possible chance to take it," says Huskie coach Tom Porter. "I've seen a team take it with only two qualifiers.

"East Aurora probably has the best chance, because they have five guys in it and they come from a very tough sectional."

Has the state meet been Hersey's goal all season? "No question about it," says

Porter. "All three of them are capable of going all the way with a little luck."

In protecting his perfect state, Smith was a champion in the West Leyden sectional to lead Hersey to second place. Beard was second in his own lair at the Wheeling sectional and the others all were second at West Leyden.

Smith was not seriously threatened in storming to his title, sandwiching a 7-0 whitewash between pins in 2:26 and 3:06. Making it as far as championship bouts before falling were Beam, Battaglia, Morris and Tuerk. The others lost in either the first or second round before battling to the top of the wrestle-back column.

Seven of the 12 weight classes will have representatives from the Herald area, with an emphasis on lighter classes. One category, 98 pounds, will have two locals — Dai Campo and Beard. Beam is at 105, Battaglia at 119, Smith at 126, Morris at 132, Deluca at 145 and Tuerk at heavyweight.

How they fare in the biggest tests of their lives in the next two days will be told in Monday's Herald.

'Y' Swimming Aids Schools

The Northwest Suburbs recently completed their swimming season at the Glenbrook South District Swim Meet. A high spot at the district was the outstanding performances of the area teams.

Gordon Aukerman, Forest View's coach, summed up the feelings of many who he said, "I was tickled with the results. I was pleased with the way all the schools in the area performed. In a few years we're going to be surprising a lot of teams in the state."

Several key factors encourage the optimistic viewpoint of the coaching staffs of the area schools. In the past few years many of the high schools have built their own swimming facilities and there has been a great improvement in the quality of coaching, but even the most successful high school coach knows that many of the fine swimmers he will be working with will be coming to his school as experienced competitive swimmers.

At the recent championships a third of the swimmers which placed in the top 12 places were experienced competitive swimmers prior to their coming to high school. They got their experience on the Northwest Suburban YMCA swim team.

Many of the teams of the various high schools throughout the area are strengthened by the experienced "Y" swimmers. From Maine West — Paul Stenstrom, Larry Bierwirth; from Prospect — George Busse, John Todd, Kurt Prinslow, Jeff Young, Jerry House, Jeff Larson, Dan Young; from Wheeling — Ken Bergman; Hersey — Mike Richartz, Dave Colburn, Elk Grove — Mike Bachus, Mark Okuma, Cliff Schlak; Forest View — John Mate, Mark Bailey, Jim Davies, Fred Westdale, Doug Schlak; St. Viator — Tom Harrison, Rick Fitzsimmons, Dave Takata, Mike Salerno; Arlington — Jeff Burling, Rick Cook, Dave Hartman, Jeff Simon, Steve Jurco, Tom Rowe; Glenbrook South — Dan Hannigan, Paul Najt.

Many names of new swimmers who are in competition at the Northwest Suburban YMCA will be added to this list over the next few years.

These athletes have an outstanding record both in YMCA and open AAU competition. Much of the optimism as to the future of these boys is due to the recent competition between the Northwest Suburban YMCA team and the teams in the Hinsdale area, which has produced the nation's top high school swim team — Hinsdale Central High School.

The Northwest Y swimmers have defeated both the Hinsdale AAU age group team and the West Suburban YMCA team this year. Many of these swimmers will meet again in high school competition.

The Northwest Suburban boys will be competing this weekend in their District Championships at George Williams College. The team, coached by John Eliot, will be seeking an unprecedented fourth straight district championship.

First place winners and time qualifiers will compete March 27 at the State YMCA Championship in Peoria. In his four years as coach, Eliot's boys have come in fourth, third, and second in the state. This year the team hopes to capture the elusive number one spot.

Swimmers To State

starting blocks in last week's district at Glenbrook South.

Patience and Rowe will be vying in the 50-yard freestyle while Thiesman will be returning to the state spectacle in an attempt to improve on a 14th place finish in the diving competition.

Rowe and Mate are both eligible for spots in the 100-yard butterfly while Geiser and Patience stake their claim in the 100-yard freestyle.

Jurco, off his best time in the districts (4:08.0) is scheduled for a start in the 400-yard freestyle while Robertson holds the only area hope in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Both relay teams are also capable of cracking the top-notch competition, but it will take their best.

The enthusiasm that is beginning to generate, starts right at the top with the coaches. While Forest View will be sending their first representatives, Arlington will be equally as anxious since Doug Rice was the last to score points for the Cards back in 1962.

St. Viator, of course, garnered 23 points in the state meet from superstar Rich Lynch who captured a third in the 50-free and a fourth in the 100-free.

In speaking of his Lions' chances, Borowski expressed optimism. "I'm hoping our relay team will qualify for the top 12 and hopefully in the top six. Geiser could reach the top 12 in both of his events and possibly the top six in the 100. Robertson, who has steadily been coming along, could be a big surprise in the breaststroke."

Aukerman, who took somewhat of a unique and risky approach to the state meet, said that he didn't try to peak his boys for the district qualifying, but rather for the state meet.

"We've never swum at Evanston but I'm assuming it's faster than the Glenbrook pool. I figure Patience will have to hit in the low :49's in the 100. Mate will have to finish at about the mid :56's in the fly, and our relay team will have an outside chance if they hit a 2:25."

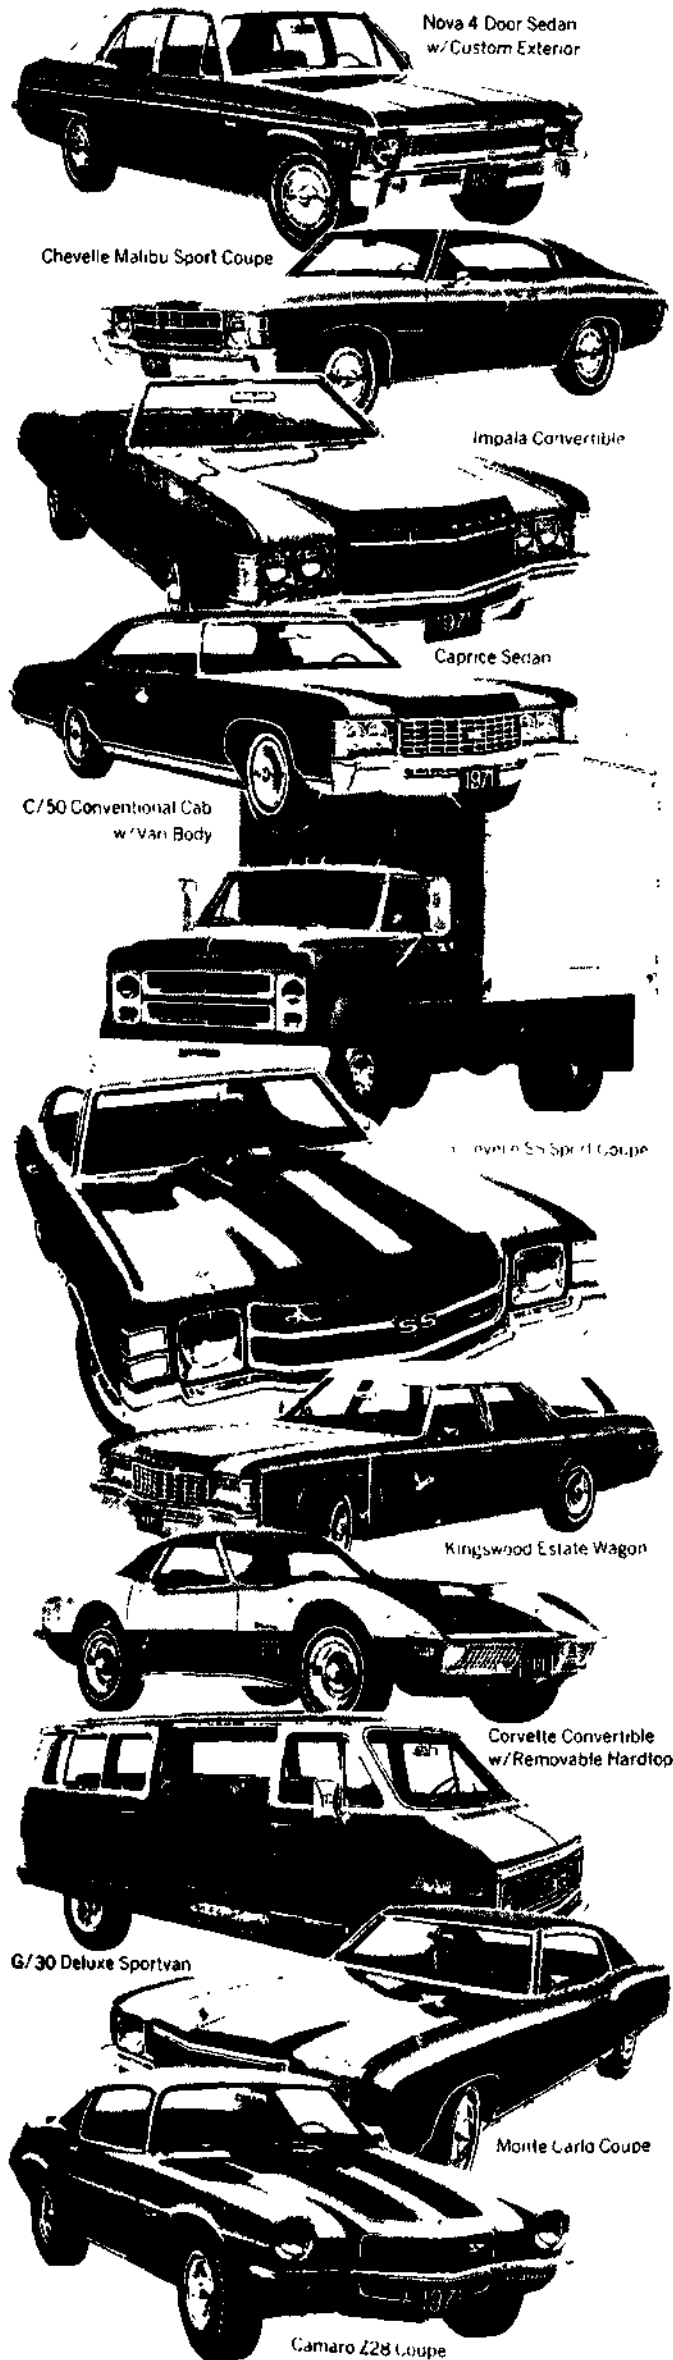

"Right now, our primary concern is to get somebody past the preliminaries. Everyone is capable of doing that!"

Anderson hopes to get a good showing from Thelma, his standout diver. "He's been through it before and likes the Nautilus springboards at the Evanston pool. He can really ride if he has that good spring."

Rowe and Jurco subbed the district qualifying standard in each of their events in the first meet of the year. "They've been looking forward to this for a long time," Anderson said.

More than 1,200 fans are expected to witness the crucial drama beginning at one this afternoon with the diving preliminaries. The swimming prelims will begin at 7 this evening while the finals will start at one Saturday afternoon.

Hinsdale Central, defending their championship of last year, is a strong favorite to repeat their role. New Trier East and Thornridge of Dolton landed second and third, respectively, last season.

Gas Prices On Downswing

by LEA TONKIN

What goes up must come down, where gasoline prices are concerned.

Just two weeks ago, most of the major oil companies dropped their price supports to gasoline retailers in the Chicago metropolitan area, causing dealers to raise their pump prices. This week, gasoline prices are on the downswing again, as the majors reinstitute the price supports to dealers.

Gasoline price fluctuations are a gradual process according to Herbert Hugo, Midwest Bureau chief for Platt's Oilgram, which publishes daily listings—wholesale and retail—of gasoline prices. The majority of the Chicago metropolitan area's 6,000 gas stations are probably at normal price levels now, said Hugo. He added, "But with that many stations involved, prices are all over the board."

"It's hard to predict what will happen in the industry, but if today's trend continues, we'll see most dealers drop their pump prices within 10 days, as price supports are added," Hugo said.

Gasoline prices began slipping last weekend, said Hugo. "Standard Oil moved up to 40.4 cents a gallon for regular early in February and the other companies followed in moving to this normal price level," said Hugo. "Then last Wednesday, some prices began dropping and by the weekend, there were discounts of as much as 8 cents a gallon."

"The oil companies which had withdrawn their price support earlier in the month, began reinstituting them," said Hugo. "Some dealers get support at a price as low as 32.4 cents a gallon."

The price supports have been supplied by major oil companies to dealers, usually on a 70-30 ratio. When prices are cut, the dealer absorbs 30 per cent of the loss and the oil company takes a loss of 70 per cent.

According to Hugo, dealers are free to set their own prices. The normal profit level is 7 and 8/10 cents a gallon, he said, but the dealer can cut his profit margin if he wants to lower his price.

It's hard to say who starts another round in the price war, Hugo said. Sometimes one station advertises lower prices, and the other stations in the area move to a lower price level to compete with that dealer. He noted that prices hold the line better in the higher economic, less heavily-traveled areas.

Everyone comes out a loser in the price wars, according to Hugo. "The majors lose money in the long run when they use price supports and the dealers may lose profits," he said. "The public doesn't gain, because the dealer looks for ways to cut corners when his profits are reduced. The price wars are one big factor in the recent scandal involving dealers adding extra charges for sales tax, for example. The government is taking steps to eliminate cheating on sales tax, but the government can't stop the price wars."

Edward Albano, executive officer of the Gasoline Retailers Association of Chicago also said the dealer loses when the price of gasoline takes a downward turn. "The dealer has to pay part of this out of his own profits," he said.

Car owners trying to outguess the gasoline price swings can only be certain that the cycle will continue, according to Hugo. "If we look to the future based on the past, there isn't much hope that price wars will end," he said.

Pollution Control Reading Recommended

by CARROLL SALMAN

If you'd like to read some straight news on all kinds of pollution control, I recommend to you the newsletter of the State of Illinois Pollution Control Board. You can get this excellent source by phoning the board's offices in Chicago and asking to be placed on the mailing list.

The board strongly criticized the federally-sponsored Lake Michigan Enforcement Conference recently and presented ten suggestions for strengthening the conference to William Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Federal Environment Protection Agency.

It also pulls no punches chastizing petitioners who have postponed or tried to evade anti-pollution ordinances. Witness: In granting a one-year variance to Marquette Cement Co., Oglesby, Ill., the board criticized that company's "one and one-half years of corporate dalliance during which virtually no effort was made to control its excessive emission of cement dust." Marquette received a $10,000 fine.

Another company was chastized by the board in an announcement of the agenda for a recent meeting. The company, Lipsett Steel Products Co., had waited until Dec. 28, 1970, to ask for an extension of its permit to continue open burning of railroad box cars until an incinerator can be installed at its site. The existing permit was to expire Dec. 31, 1970; such a procedure made it impossible for the board to act before expiration date. The company is now in violation of state anti-pollution laws, and faces a somewhat hostile board.

Requests for variations and delays come from a wide range of companies (Standard Brands, DuPont, Miles Laboratories) making a variety of products (roofing, brewer's yeast, creosote, open dumps).

The board has the option of deciding whether or not to grant a request with or without a public hearing. Most cases, as you may imagine, are discussed in an open hearing, with all sides given an opportunity to state their cases. The board holds meetings in different locations in all parts of the state, in those communities most affected by a particular problem.

The board also holds informal meetings every Monday, beginning at 10 a.m. in the board office, 189 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Coming up soon are hearings on Airport Noise Standards and the Chicago Implementation Plan, set for March 9, and 10 to 12 at the Field Museum, Simpson Theatre, in Chicago. Use the west entrance if you go, to avoid an admission charge. Hearings begin at 10 a.m. for both sessions.

Activities To Mark 'End' Of Basketball

A "Celebration Weekend" will mark the end of the basketball season at Maine West High School.

The student council will sponsor activities tonight and this weekend. Buttons will be sold with "West is Best" and "Warrior Country."

These buttons will admit students to the Maine West vs. Maine South basketball game at 8 p.m. Friday.

A dance will be held after the game in the gymnasium, school officials said.

A pancake breakfast will be held from 8 to noon, Saturday in the Maine West Auditorium.

At 8 p.m. Saturday, the movie "Wait Until Dark," will be shown in the school auditorium.

Proceeds from ticket sales will be contributed to Place for People youth center at Rand Park, Des Plaines.
